"FACE-SAVING" avoiding loss of dignity, hitherto a specialty of the east, has moved west, England, head of the League of Nations, seeks to save its own face, after the unfortunate Laval-Hoare peace fiasco. Also the faces of Haile Selassie and Mussolini, must be saved, in any peace that comes, also the face of the League of Nations, which cannot make up its mind to do anything definite. And it is most important to save the face of the white race, not letting it appear that dark Ethiopians got the better of white Italians in case the league, by boycott, should force Italy to give up the fight.
Such extensive face-saving had not been known in history.

LLOYD GEORGE, seventy-three years old, Friday, a substantial Welshman, spent his birthday in the old Mohammed city of Marrakech at the foot of the Atlas mountains in French Morocco. There he enjoys himself in the Arab quarter, squatting on the ground, eating meat with the Arabs, and like them, using fingers for forks. He went to Africa after winning once more the Carnarvon seat in the house of commons that he has held for forty-six years. "Eighteen holes of golf a day," says he, "and never felt better." The Welsh have tough constitutions.

Lloyd George's past fights would break down a dozen average hearts.
IN GERMANY young girls are required to work on the Nazi "female labor service" which is called "land year and land help."

A young Catholic priest in a parish north of Frankfurt warned his congregation that many girls serving in that female labor organization "returned home as expectant mothers," without being married, and was sent to prison for six months.

That is one way of disposing of a moral danger.
H. B. LEQUATTE tells a federal grand jury association that newspapers are "one of the most powerful forces combating crime." That is accurate. Newspapers give information of crime, supply evidence, stimulate detectives by praising them, keep alive interest in finding the criminals.

When a criminal says "we must lay low until the heat dies out," he means that he must hide until newspapers stop talking about his crime. When newspapers stop talking police interest lags.

A HIGH AUTHORITY says American women, "lacking individuality that characterizes French women," copy the styles of moving picture.

186 ABSENTEE VOTES ARE CAST IN PARISH FOR COMING PRIMARY
A total of 186 ballots were cast by absentee voters up to 5 o'clock Saturday when the offices of the Ouachita parish clerk were closed for the day.

Voters who will be out of the city next Tuesday when the primary election will be held crowded the office of the clerk of court yesterday afternoon to take advantage of the absentee voting privilege. Booths had been erected in the courthouse and deputies assisted voters in filling out the required forms.

The votes were turned over to the sheriff's department and will be assigned to the various precincts, where they will be counted with the rest of the regular vote next Tuesday.

Although previous absentee vote records were not available, officials at the courthouse declared that this year's vote was heavier than in any previous election since the law was enacted.

BONUS MEASURE AGAIN DELAYED IN UPPER HOUSE
Senate Turns Down Proposal To Pay Ex-Soldiers In New Currency
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—After turning down by a decisive margin a proposal to pay the soldiers' bonus in new currency, the senate late today deferred until Monday the virtually certain passage of the coalition bill to discharge the $2,000,000,000 debt in cashable small bonds.

SUDDEN CHANGE IN PLANS CAUSE OF POSTPONEMENT
Action Put Off Until Monday Just As Final Vote Appears In Sight
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—After turning down by a decisive margin a proposal to pay the soldiers' bonus in new currency, the senate late today deferred until Monday the virtually certain passage of the coalition bill to discharge the $2,000,000,000 debt in cashable small bonds.

A sudden change in plans by Democratic leaders delayed the action just as it appeared a final vote was in sight. Another 15 minutes probably would have disposed of the issue. As Senator King, Democrat, Utah, arose to present the final amendment, to pay only the cash surrender, or present value, of the adjusted service certificates, Senator Borah Republican, Idaho, called attention to the hour and remarked that since the bill was to be passed anyway nothing would be lost by putting off a final vote.
Democratic leaders conferred hurriedly and the signal "no decision today" was given when majority leader Robinson of Arkansas asked for an open executive session to pass on

HOFFMAN CRITICS AWAIT NEXT STEP
TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The critics of Governor Harold G. Hoffman, openly skeptical of his "new evidence" in the Lindbergh case, watchfully waited tonight for him to show what he's got.

It's Up To Governor To Produce Evidence, Skeptics Declare
TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The critics of Governor Harold G. Hoffman, openly skeptical of his "new evidence" in the Lindbergh case, watchfully waited tonight for him to show what he's got.

It's up to the governor to produce evidence, the sentiment of those who sided with Attorney-General David T. Wilentz in the belief that the chief executive "hasn't got a thing."
The attorney-general, who not only says no new evidence has been produced but also that the governor lacked legal right to grant the 30-day reprieve which he extended to Bruno Richard Hauptmann two days ago, conferred during the day with Col. H. Norman Scharwarzkopf, head of the state police.
Wilentz said afterward there would be no formal statement.
The two men, major actors in effecting the conviction of Hauptmann, gave careful study to the fiery statement which Governor Hoffman made yesterday—a statement in which he defied his foes to impeach him and expressed doubts as to Hauptmann having been the only person involved in the Lindbergh kidnap-murder.
After their conference it was learned

ARREST OF DRUNKEN MAN COSTS MEMPHIS EXACTLY 50 DOLLARS
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Memphis police figured tonight that a Mississippian's spree cost the city exactly $50.

Taken to jail last night drunk, the visitor was placed in a padded cell. He amused himself by carving up $75 worth of the padding with a razor blade.
Fined $25 today when arraigned in city court, the penitent promised "never again."
The jailer expressed the fervent hope he wasn't fooling.

BANKHEAD PLANS NEW LEGISLATION TO AID FARMERS
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, announced tonight he would introduce—probably Tuesday—legislation for a new $350,000,000 farm program representing his interpretation of the administration's views.

Proposal To Call For $350,000,000 Program; May Be Offered Tuesday
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, announced tonight he would introduce—probably Tuesday—legislation for a new $350,000,000 farm program representing his interpretation of the administration's views.

Explaining that his bill would "broaden and enlarge" the 1935 soil conservation act, Bankhead declared it would "accomplish in a large measure the same results that have been secured under the AAA."
The southern senator said an appropriation of $350,000,000 would be sought to finance "drafts to farmers based upon their compliance with plans promulgated by the secretary of agriculture."

In practical application, Bankhead said, these would include "diversification and rotation in crops, crop adjustments and soil building."
Asked if his was administration legislation, Bankhead said it "contains my interpretation of the agreement reached at the White House conference this week, of which I was a member."

He added that after consultation with colleagues and "able lawyers outside congress," he was "fully satisfied that the new bill will stand the test of the courts if it ever reaches the courts."
The senator said his bill, which he hoped to have attached as an amendment to the first appropriation measure taken up by the senate, would authorize administration of the farm program through the present AAA organization.

Asked how the program would be financed, Bankhead said that would be decided later, adding, "I want to keep this entirely separate."
Earlier today, Secretary Wallace fixed February 15 as the date when the new program should become effective to apply to crops grown in 1936.
In his first press conference since AAA was invalidated, Wallace said preparation of legislation was a "congressional function," but he added: "The important thing is to expand the definition of the soil conservation act to include specifically soil conservation and preservation of fertility and not merely erosion control."

Administration leaders have said that the soil conservation act would be the basis for a new program "talking for cash payments to farmers. They hoped to obtain authorization

HEAD OF LEGION TO VISIT MONROE
Commander Ray Murphy Will Attend Meeting Here On February 13
Ray Murphy, national commander of the American Legion, will be the guest of honor of local legionnaires on Thursday, February 13, when a meeting is planned at the Hotel Virginia roof at 8:30 p.m. This will be followed by a buffet luncheon. All members of the legion in the fifth congressional district are urged to attend.

The commander will arrive in Monroe following a meeting in Little Rock earlier in the day when he will attend a luncheon arranged by the American Legion department of Arkansas.
After the meeting on the hotel roof, the commander will be taken to the memorial legion home in Forsyth park for an inspection of the "finest legion home in the south." On the following morning, Commander Murphy will leave Monroe for Alexandria.

4 CONVICTS ESCAPE FROM PRISON FARM DURING SNOWSTORM
TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Favored by a sleet and snow storm, four convicts escaped from the tubercular ward of the Arkansas penitentiary today, eluding officers who sought their trail early tonight.

Exact time at which they slipped from the ward and past guards remained uncertain. They were missed at 12:30 o'clock, and snow and sleet which swept the section shortly thereafter covered their route. Bloodhounds brought to the ward entrances, were unable to pick up a scent.
The four had been patients in the ward for some time. One of them, Willis Hirsch, 35, of Little Rock, sentenced in September, 1932, to nine years for forgery and uttering, and previously listed as an escape, was described by Attorney General Carl E. Bailey as "a dangerous man."
Another of the group, Carl Janaway, 29, of Yell county, serving seven years for burglary and grand larceny, and received in September, 1934, escaped the prison three times previously, was last recaptured last December 15 near his home at Dardanelle.

JONESBORO MAYOR EXPIRES AT ALEX; LAST RITES TODAY
JONESBORO, La., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Mayor S. A. Williams, of Jonesboro, 51, died in a hospital in Alexandria, La., late today, following a month's illness.

Funeral services will be held in the Jonesboro Methodist church at 2 p.m. Sunday, the Rev. G. A. Morgan, pastor of the church, officiating. Burial will be in the Jonesboro cemetery.
Mr. Williams was elected mayor of Jonesboro in 1934. Prior to the election he was a real estate man. He was born in Jackson parish, six miles east of Jonesboro. He had lived practically all of his life in the community here.

YOUTH INSTANTLY KILLED WHEN CAR STRIKES BICYCLE
Edward King, Railroad Messenger, Struck By Auto On Street Here
MACHINE WAS DRIVEN BY W. D. GRICE DURING RAIN
Driver Released By Police; Coroner To Investigate Death Today
Edward King, 19, a special messenger for the Missouri-Pacific railroad, was instantly killed early Saturday night on South Second street, when he was struck by a car driven by W. D. Grice of 503 South Fourth street.

The youth was riding a bicycle at the time the accident occurred and both he and the Grice car were traveling north.

In his report of the accident to the police last night Mr. Grice, who is employed by the United Gas Public Service company here, declared that he did not see the youth until his car struck him. It was raining heavily at the time and although he was driving at a moderate rate of speed, he was unable to see very far ahead, he said.
Apparently King, when struck, was hurled to the pavement and his head was fractured. There were no witnesses to the accident besides Mr. Grice, who stopped his car immediately and summoned help, remained with the lad until an ambulance arrived and took the body to St. Francis sanitarium where it was found on arrival that King apparently had been killed instantly.
Mr. Grice was released by local police after questioning, and authorities declared that the accident appeared to have been unavoidable and that Mr. Grice was not to blame. He was

LASSITER DENIES POLITICAL CHARGE
WPA Workers Not Required To Endorse Any Candidate, He Says
Albin P. Lassiter, WPA director for the fifth district, issued a statement Saturday, branding as "false, untrue and without foundation," charges made by political candidates in the present campaign, that WPA workers are required to sign pledges to support any candidate or faction in the approaching primary election.

The only paper the worker puts his name to, aside from pay checks which they are cashed, Mr. Lassiter said, is the assignment slip, six identical copies of which must be signed, as part of the federal government regulations. The statement of Mr. Lassiter follows: "Many WPA relief workers have urged me, as district director of WPA, to answer the charges made by certain candidates and politicians during the last few weeks of the campaign in this state. It was hoped that it

Investigation Of Explosion At Jonesboro Planned Today
JONESBORO, La., Jan. 18.—(Special)—The investigation to determine the cause of the explosion which wrecked the Jackson parish courthouse here last Thursday was postponed from Saturday until Sunday, when District Attorney W. E. McBride plans to hold a session at the site of the ruined building at 8 o'clock in the morning.
District Attorney McBride summoned Sheriff Neal Thomas to be present with eight men who will be employed in removing debris and other obstructions while the officials, accompanied by gas experts, will make their way into the ruins in an effort to get at the truth of what caused the blast.

In the meantime Sheriff Thomas has moved his records to a building at the rear of the Jackson State bank into premises which were formerly used by the Jonesboro American Legion.

The sheriff stated that the secretary of state at Baton Rouge had been requested to furnish new ballots to be used in Tuesday's primary election.

Election Broadcast Scheduled
Election returns Tuesday night will be broadcast by radio, in cooperation with Station KMLB, direct from the news rooms of the World and News-Star.

This arrangement has been made for the convenience of the public as well as to facilitate the handling of the reports covering the unusually large ballot in the primary election.

The public is advised not to assemble in front of the newspaper office on election night. No returns will be displayed and none will be announced other than by radio broadcast. No person will be admitted to the newspaper building, except those actually engaged in the compilation of the election returns. Under no circumstances will this rule be violated, and the newspaper management urgently asks the public for its full cooperation in its observance.
Readers are requested to remain at their homes and get the news by radio. Telephones should not be used to ask information on the results. The telephone service will be engaged in gathering information from all sections of the district, and any additional calls would seriously interfere with the work.
Full returns will be given by radio as promptly as they are received. Any individual effort to obtain information from the newspaper office will only cause confusion and delay in reporting the results.

HONEST CASTING OF VOTES URGED
Young Democrats Of Ouachita Appeal To Citizens' Patriotism
Officers of the Young Democrats of Ouachita parish, an organization of young business and professional men of the parish, last night issued a statement urging an honest casting of ballots in the approaching primary election. The statement follows:

"We as Young Democrats of Louisiana, appeal to every citizen to recognize the importance of his vote, and to recognize the obligation which that right carries with it. As patriotic Americans and Louisianians, let your decision be made on the basis of honest conviction.
"Is the discouraging statement true, that 'every man has his price'? Are you any more a good citizen if your vote can be influenced or bought by political deals or personal gain, even though it ran into thousands of dollars, than that derelict of humanity who sells his vote for a drink? Any human being will naturally weigh in his mind what business or personal matters, jobs among friends or family favors, entertainment, and other obligations by which he may feel himself bound, but is any such obligation, or even a forced promise of a vote, more sacred than that duty you owe your country, your state and yourself?
"This plea is made in no 'holier-than-thou' spirit, but in the genuine belief that the moral courage of all of us has sunk to its lowest depths, and it is time that we replace our worship of the almighty dollar with those ideals highest in us as real red-

DOCTORS REPORT MORE SYMPTOMS OF HEART ATTACK
70-Year-Old Monarch Is Ill At Sandringham House, Royal Residence
CRISIS IS EXPECTED IN NEXT FORTY-EIGHT HOURS
Country Folk Gather At Palace Gates To Await News Of Ruler
SANDRINGHAM, Eng., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Anxiety over the condition of King George V deepened tonight when it was announced he had showed further symptoms of a heart attack.

The 70-year-old monarch is ill in Sandringham house, the royal residence, of a bronchial ailment. His illness caused growing concern throughout his far-flung empire and the world itself.

A crisis may be expected in about 48 hours, a high source said tonight. Bronchial catarrh has affected his majesty's lungs and nose, causing hoarseness, feverishness and sore throat. A pulmonary inflammation, it was said, has affected the lungs and been carried to the heart, causing cardiac weakness.

When dusk fell across the Norfolk countryside a group of anxious-eyed countryfolk, waiting at the palace gates, read with sinking hearts a late bulletin which told of a grave turn in the condition of their beloved neighbor, "his majesty, the squire."

The bulletin said: "His majesty, the king, had some hours of restless sleep. "The cardiac weakness and embarrassment of circulation has slightly increased and give cause for anxiety." "Embarrassment of circulation" was interpreted to mean the heart pump was growing weaker.
A bulletin issued at 10 p.m. (5 p.m. eastern standard time) said there had

KENDALL HEARNE OF RUSTON IS INJURED IN HIGHWAY CRASH
Kendall Hearne, 25, music supervisor for Lincoln parish schools, was seriously injured Saturday night when a car he was driving ran into a parked truck loaded with lumber on highway 80, five miles west of Monroe.

Mr. Hearne was thrown from his automobile and part of the truck's load fell on his left leg, fracturing it, and also injuring him about the head.

In his report of the accident Mr. Hearne stated that the truck was parked nearly in the middle of the road and had no lights.

Mr. Hearne, who lives in Ruston was returning home at the time of the accident. He was taken to St. Francis sanitarium.

BOY FOUND DEAD
BISBEE, Ariz., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The lifeless body of four-year-old Rogers was found in the Guadalupe mountains today two miles from the ranch home of his uncle. Six airplane and more than 300 ground searches had hunted for him since he strayed from the ranch Wednesday.

PRESIDENT GOES TO GOTHAM HOME

Roosevelt To Participate in Dedication Of Memorial To Kinsman

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt came to his home here tonight with a word of praise for the "usefulness" of federal works projects and hearty endorsement of the "grand word" boom-doggling.

He spoke at a state meeting of the National Emergency council at Newark where he stopped over for a couple of hours on his way here to participate tomorrow in the dedication of the Theodore Roosevelt Memorial in the American museum of natural history.

"If we can boondoggle our way out of the depression," he told the enthusiastic federal and state workers of New Jersey, "that word is going to be enshrined in the hearts of Americans for many years to come."

The overwhelming majority of things we are doing are not only useful but, strangely enough, the liberties of government still exist. As all of you know we are carrying out the principals of home rule."

Both in Newark and in New York crowds lined the rain-covered streets to give a greeting to the president. Along Park avenue here in the evening dusk there were occasional groups.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt motored directly from the Pennsylvania station under heavy police escort to their residence at East Sixty-Fifth street where the president's mother joined them at a family dinner tonight.

He interrupted the quiet home stay to speak over the telephone and radio tonight to the workers organizing the presidential birthday balls to be observed.

served for funds to fight infantile paralysis.

Governor Hoffman of New Jersey sat at the opposite side of the platform from the president at the Newark meeting which was presided over by Charles Edison, son of the late Thomas Edison and state director of the National Emergency council.

Mr. Roosevelt addressed the governor in opening his remarks. Mr. Hoffman stepped to him at the conclusion of the meeting and spoke a word in the ear of the president who spoke back.

A note was sent to the governor asking him if he was going to request the president to have the department of justice reopen the Lindbergh kidnapping investigation, but he gave no response.

Frank C. Walker, former chairman of the National Emergency council, met the president at Newark and accompanied him on the special to New York.

VICTORY IS SEEN FOR HOME RULERS

"will mark the redemption of stricken and suffering Louisiana."

The complete statement follows: "Cleveland Dear, John N. Sandlin and the entire Home Rule ticket will be swept into office on Tuesday next. A careful check of reliable reports and estimates reaching Home Rule headquarters from every parish in the state strongly justifies the prediction that Dear and his associates will reach New Orleans with a majority of something like sixty thousand votes, carrying every country district."

New Orleans will give the entire Home Rule ticket substantial majorities. If Jefferson, St. Bernard and Plaquemines parishes resort to the same old fraudulent practices which in the past have made them stinkholes of political iniquity in the eyes of all decent men and women, the state machine may get an even break in the first and second congressional districts—the very best it can hope for. A fair election in the three parishes named will deprive the machine of even that compensation."

"Giving the Maestri-Alle-Leche crowd every possible doubt; paring the estimates of enthusiastic and patriotic Home Rule leaders in the parishes; allowing for all possible errors of computation in these preliminary estimates, and taking into consideration all possible weather conditions, it is the sincere belief of the Home Rule campaign management that Cleveland Dear will be elected governor of Louisiana by a majority of at least sixty thousand votes. With deep conviction, I say to the long oppressed people of Louisiana that the day of their liberation is near at hand."

"The vulnerable character of the state machine ticket and its method of conducting the state campaign have contributed to its inevitable defeat. A ticket picked as it was selected did not, and naturally could not, make a strong bid for public confidence. Then, too, its lack of public policies, its disposition to give the people nothing but what they already have, figured heavily in its undoing."

It opened its campaign with no platform but standstillism, ridiculed the progressive platform of the Home Rule candidates and wound up by adopting two of its outstanding planks—old age pensions and a state welfare board, little realizing that candidates get nowhere by parading in borrowed clothes. Materialism and the oil scandals involving Governor O. K. Allen and Lieutenant Governor James A. Noe have been too heavy a load for even so noxious and well-entrenched a force as the state machine to carry."

"The Home Rule management, on the other hand, presented candidates whose public and private records are proof against the closest scrutiny, and offered principles and policies which could only insure to the public welfare. The reforms urged by Cleveland Dear are vital to the well-being of Louisiana. They make for tax exemption, for cheaper and more efficient administration at Baton Rouge, for elimination of graft and racketeering and for the return of political power and authority to the people. The peace and happiness, as well as the solvency, of Louisiana are absolutely bound up in the movement to elect Cleveland Dear and his associates."

"The single charge made against Cleveland Dear in the state campaign is that he owes money. State machine spies and snoopers raked his record with a fine tooth comb and were able to discover only that he is in debt. Dear's reply to this accusation is that it is true—and that he has lots of company. No charge involving Dear's good faith, record or character was brought in the campaign for the very good reason that it could not possibly be sustained. And the same statement might truthfully be made with respect to all of the other Home Rule candidates."

"In the pending campaign, the people of Louisiana have been aroused to a realizing sense of their duty to their beloved state and to themselves. They have determined to end the present corrupt and costly regime in Louisiana, to bury beyond the possibility of resurrection the political hopes of the spoilers who have ravished the state treasury to line their own pockets, and who wish to disgracefully surrender the functions of state government to the most vicious and the most criminal elements of society."

"The Home Rule victory at the polls next Tuesday will mark the redemption of stricken and suffering Louisiana."

The youth is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. King; one brother, Bryant V. King, and two sisters, Margaret and Leta Mae King.

Helping Millions to Enjoy Greater FREEDOM from COLDS

Catch Cold Easily? . . . Vicks Va-tro-nol helps Prevent many Colds

At the first warning nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze, use Vicks Va-tro-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Va-tro-nol is especially designed for the nose and upper throat—where most colds start. It stimulates Nature's own functions—in the nose—to help prevent colds, and to throw off head colds in their early stages. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps avoid many colds.

Colds Hang on? . . . Vicks VapoRub helps End a Cold Sooner

If a cold has developed, rub Vicks VapoRub on throat and chest at bedtime. VapoRub acts direct—two ways at once: (1) By stimulation through the skin like a poultice or plaster; (2) By inhalation of its medicated vapors direct to inflamed air-passages. Through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm, soothes irritation, helps break congestion.

Follow Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds
A helpful guide to fewer colds and shorter colds. Developed by Vicks Chemists and Medical Staff, tested in extensive clinics by practicing physicians—further proved in everyday home use by millions. The Plan is fully explained in each Vicks package.

ordered to appear at the office of Coroner C. L. Mengis this morning at 10 o'clock, at which time an investigation will be held.

E. B. King, the youth's father, when summoned to his son's side at St. Francis sanitarium last night, suffered a heart attack. He is an employee of the Missouri Pacific railroad with which company he has served for more than 30 years, and at the present time is employed as a grade crossing watchman at Morris and South Second streets.

Young King had been working with the Missouri Pacific railroad as a messenger for about two years.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the residence, 611 South Third street, with Rev. W. C. Scott, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating.

Interment will take place in River-view cemetery.

The youth is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. King; one brother, Bryant V. King, and two sisters, Margaret and Leta Mae King.

J. PORTER BURGESS IS AGAINST LABOR

The record of J. Porter Burgess conclusively shows that he voted six times against labor, and was absent seven times when the 1934 session of the Legislature of the State of Louisiana was considering acts in which Labor was concerned.

Burgess is now asking the people of Ouachita Parish to reelect him on this record, and an examination of that record as shown below will conclusively prove to all friends of labor, and friends of the men who toil with their hands, that Burgess is against them, and the working men and organized labor in turn are against J. Porter Burgess.

All organized Labor has gone on record in favor of the election of two other representatives, and are dedicated to the defeat of J. Porter Burgess for reelection.

Organized labor calls upon the men who work to aid them in the defeat of the worst enemy that the working man has in the State of Louisiana, and that is J. Porter Burgess.

Burgess is a member of the Board of Directors of the General American Finance System, and has aided and assisted the forty-two per cent people in their fight to remain in business in the State of Louisiana.

LINCOLN ELLSWORTH WIRELESS THANKS TO RESCUE WORKERS

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Lincoln Ellsworth wireless his thanks today to the committee directing the rescue work of the British Royal Research vessel Discovery II, for sending the ship to his aid in Little America.

The committee announced at the same time that the master of the research ship, which found Ellsworth and his co-pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, safe and well after they had been unreported since Nov. 2, had messaged that they expected to meet Sir Hubert Wilkins tomorrow in the Bay of Whales.

Ellsworth, taken aboard the Discovery II from the Little America site where he and Hollick-Kenyon encamped after they were forced down on a flight across Antarctica, wireless:

"I never have to disappoint them... because my Plymouth never fails."

"Ride that route with me some night, carrying half a ton of finals, and you'll see why I picked Plymouth."

Safety is just as important as reliability to Mr. Dombrow. "I wouldn't even ride in a car without genuine hydraulic brakes," he says.

His earlier model Plymouth cost him far less for upkeep or repairs than any other car he has ever owned.

POLITICAL VIEWS BECOMING CLEAR

Conflicting Claims During Past Week

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(P)—Political strategy in both major parties appeared tonight to be approaching a bed-rock basis at last.

Conflicting claims and protests had rung as usual through the week. But less spectacular, isolated events told together of the inevitable time when words would no longer suffice.

On the Democratic side, an immediate aim evidently was to keep factional strife in important states to a minimum. Conferences at the White House prompted new tactics in California and Georgia. Ohio and Illinois leaders arrive next week.

The New York situation also is getting attention. What eventuates there depends on an extent on how Alfred E. Smith defines his anti-New Deal position to the American Liberty League dinner here a week from tonight.

Whether the 1928 presidential nominee will hint of any determination to participate actively in the Philadel-

LOUISIANA TRAINING INSTITUTE MINSTREL TROUPE

The third annual minstrel show held during the holidays at the Louisiana Training institute proved highly successful. H. B. Sorenson acted as musical director and producer. The costumes were by Mrs. P. V. Huey. The cast was comprised solely by boys from the institute and all gave evidence of considerable ability. The entire cast shown above was composed of the following: top row, left to right, E. Musgrove, B. Gillespie, J. Hyatt, B. Gesham, R. Collier, A. Freeman, J. Brown, A. Johnson, J. Bush, G. Goodman, G. Wallace, W. Peevey, A. Serantine, W. Treadwell, W. Hebert. Bottom row, left to right, N. Cochran, S. Counts, W. Flowers, J. Stout, L. Thomas, S. Ford, H. Lee, H. B. Sorenson, A. Powers, R. Rupert, W. Caples, S. Roberts, L. Stewart, P. J. Williams and E. Shafer.

delphia convention is especially awaited. Party leaders profess no concern over the danger of a formidable bolt but acknowledge that convention proceedings may not be all harmony. W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the national committee, spoke of the possibilities in a radio address advertising the convention.

"We Democrats have had a great many charges and complaints hurled against us during our many years of political life," he said, "but no one yet has ever accused us of being tired or dull."

"When we have a family disagreement, we speak right out in meeting at this huge family gathering and say exactly what we mean. We take it that Democracy itself is founded on that principle."

On the Republican side, Senator Borah of Idaho has put it up to other possibilities for the nomination by widening the field in which he will seek delegates. Work for him is now projected in New York, Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Supporters of Gov. Landon of Kansas and Col.

Frank Knox of Illinois increased their organization.

Former President Hoover and Senator Vandenberg of Michigan remained outwardly indifferent to speculation that, by remaining aloof from delegate contests, they might become the beneficiaries of any deadlock at the Cleveland convention.

Friends of the last president took him at his word when, at Lincoln, Neb., he said his position was such that "approval by politicians" did not matter. Some believed this attitude would strengthen his hand in platform considerations; and so make him a logical compromise choice to head the ticket, if compromise there need be.

Omitting names, former Senator Fess of Ohio predicted today some of the potential nominees now up for would fall by the wayside. He viewed the field as wide open with a "dark horse" probably the victor.

through amendments rather than new laws.

Wallace said he believed the people of the United States would be "gravely concerned" over efforts of manufacturers to obtain refund of processing taxes paid the treasury. Both the $1,000,000,000 collected and the $200,000,000 impounded by court action, he said, should be held in the same status.

Public opinion, he added, "would not tolerate" refund of these taxes which he asserted have been passed on to the consumer by processing firms. The supreme court's decision in a rice miller's case has been interpreted as requiring the return of the impounded $200,000,000.

Declaring congress has not asked the AAA for any estimate of cost of the new program, the secretary declined to speculate on this phase. Unofficial estimates have placed this cost at between $300,000,000 and $600,000,000.

Wallace called attention to a survey made by department experts which classed 35,000,000 acres planted in corn, cotton and wheat as "C" and "D" slopes, which he explained should be planted only in grass or trees. Experts classifying land as to the degree of slope and the danger of erosion say that "A" and "B" slopes can be cultivated with erosion controlled.

The agriculture secretary reiterated his contention that the long time solution for agricultural problems must include building up foreign purchasing power, and insisted that at present, there is no market for the products of about 50,000,000 acres of the nation's commercial crop land.

He warned that the amount of corn loans from the 1935 crop, now 45 cents a bushel, probably would be reduced. Wallace said corn loans could not be continued indefinitely without production control and that the Reconstruction corporation, which furnishes money for the loans, probably would insist on a reduction in the loan rate.

Declaring the AAA field organization would be ideal to handle the new farm program, Wallace said the agency's personnel probably would deal with the soil conservation and soil fertility phases of the new program and that the soil conservation service would concentrate on erosion control.

Wallace said tenancy and land speculation problems should be included in a permanent farm program.

would not become necessary, since these men, who have made these unjust charges, are the same men who are directly responsible for the passage of laws that have prevented the expenditure in Louisiana of some $28,000,000 of federal funds, to be used for labor, as authorized by President Roosevelt's program of relief.

"On behalf of all the men and women working on WPA projects in the fifth district, I now publicly state that these charges are false, untrue and without foundation. The men and women working for WPA whether they be out on the road or ditch or in the sewing rooms, or in the office, are respectable and honest American citizens who have been unfortunate financially during the last two or three years. The same accusers would have the public believe that these unfortunate workers would sell their own birthrights for a small wage. These workers resent this as an insult to their honesty, integrity and intelligence."

"When a worker is assigned to WPA he or she signs six (6) identical copies of the official WPA form 402, 'Re-assignment Slip,' and is not requested to sign any other paper of any nature, except the pay checks when they cash them. An exact copy of these assignment slips is printed here-with for the readers to note that the worker writes his name under 'I hereby certify that I am the person named above as employee.' This has been true since the beginning of the WPA."

MONROE'S WATER SUPPLY

An Answer to a Baseless Charge

In answering the charge of Mr. William Rodriguez, that the Monroe City Water Supply was responsible for the epidemic of typhoid in this city, I have received a letter from the Ouachita Public Health department. I was unable to read this letter in my radio talk Saturday night, due to shortness of time. The letter is given herewith:

D. A. BREARD,
Commissioner of Finance and Public Utilities

G. DOUGLAS WILLIAMS, M.D., Director

HEALTH DEPARTMENT OUACHITA PARISH

MONROE, LA.
January 18, 1936

Hon. D. A. Breard,
Commissioner of Finance & Utilities,
Monroe, Louisiana.

Dear Sir:

In regard to your inquiry concerning the source of the several cases of Typhoid Fever which have occurred in the City of Monroe during the past ten or twelve months, please be advised that each of these cases of Typhoid Fever were thoroughly investigated by the Health Department and a sample of the City water was taken from each home in which these cases developed.

These samples of City water were examined in the Health Department Laboratory and all proved negative, which findings, of course, definitely eliminated the City Water supply as the source of the infection.

Since March, 1935, we have had two outbreaks of Typhoid Fever in Monroe, the first outbreak occurring in March, 1935. This outbreak was traced by the Health Department to green vegetables which had been washed in contaminated ditch water.

The second outbreak occurred in October, 1935, and was definitely traced to a milk supply which had been contaminated by a carrier.

The findings of the Health Department in both of these outbreaks were reported in the daily press. During the past twelve months numerous samples of the City water have been examined in the Health Department Laboratory and have all proven to be absolutely safe and free from any contamination.

Yours very truly,

G. DOUGLAS WILLIAMS, M. D.

The Monroe Morning World is an independent newspaper. It prints the news impartially. It supports what it believes to be right. It opposes what it believes to be wrong without regard to party politics.

Destructive Self-Interest

The political battle is at its height. It has reached the stage where animosities find vituperative and bitter expression. The baser elements of hate and calumny rise to the surface and offer a rather sad picture of the frailty of mankind.

Happily, these manifestations are not the normal state of the human mind, however they may be customary under the strain and stress of partisan excitement and political bias.

It is too much to expect that ordinary human beings should be willing to submerge their own personal ambitions and sense of selfishness in a common determination to labor for the good of the whole state, rather than for the advantage of the few, particularly when so many individuals want to be among the advantageous few.

Yet that is the ideal of citizenship. When the ideal is reduced to the analysis of reason and good sense, it becomes the only sane and profitable objective of life. A little less selfishness and a more general desire and effort to promote the highest interests of the people at large would create conditions better for everybody instead of merely a few. Human beings are so constituted, however, that they observe with narrow vision only their own little circle. Nothing else is important to them. They become obsessed with the conviction that their little circle must be preserved, even if every other little circle is destroyed. And so they proceed to annihilate the other circles in order that their own may survive.

And so the war between the circles goes on. It is a product of self-interest. It takes no thought of the principle that the "greatest good to the greatest number" is productive of happiness, peace and progress for the entire mass, which includes all the little individual circles and not merely a few.

It may not be possible to achieve that desirable goal where everybody thinks and acts in terms of good will to his fellows, but unless that incentive is an integral part of human activity, the whole process of civilization is circumscribed and restricted. Self-interest itself should be able to discern the truth of that precept. For his own individual advantage a man ought to pursue a course that results in the greatest good to the greatest number. He is bound to derive benefits that he can merely hope for by selfishly striving to gain his own ends at the expense of others. And the world would be a better and happier place for himself and those in whom his interest is particularly concerned.

LITERATURE TO JOIN DODO

Booth Tarkington, who is entitled to have ideas about literature, believes that both the novel and the poem will become extinct in a century or so. Literature, he tells an interviewer in Indianapolis, is being muscled in on by radio and the talkies; people are going to read less and less, and the creative artist of the future is apt to write scenarios instead of books.

This is an interesting forecast, and it is a reminder that what we look on as natural art forms are really of comparatively recent growth.

The stage itself was a mere infant in Shakespear's time; the novel is even more recent growth.

There have always been poems, of course, since the days of David and Homer; but their form and their manner of presentation have changed, and further changes are not at all impossible.

We needn't worry much about any change in form that may be ahead. It is the substance that counts.

If the race continues to breed men who have something to say to their fellows, all will be well—whether they say it in a book, on the screen, or through a loudspeaker.

WHY WAR'S A RACKET

Major General Smedley Butler served his country long and well as a fiery leader of marines. Retired, he continues to serve it by speaking blunt truths about the business of war.

His remarks at the recent Congress Against War and Fascism are worth pondering. He declared that war is a racket; and he explained that, in turn, as follows:

"A racket is best described as something that is not what it seems to the majority of the people. Only the 'inside' group knows what it is about. It is conducted for the benefit of the very few at the expense of the very many."

That says it, pretty neatly. May General Butler continue to make speeches like that, all up and down the land!

Governor Hoffman Denies He Knows Kidnaper of Lindbergh Baby—headline. That's strange. Didn't the governor sneak into the prison at midnight and talk to Hauptmann for an hour?

More Truth Than Poetry

WHAT WE ALL FIND OUT

The kids glide swiftly down the hill,
And on the ice below.
Again I feel the joyous thrill
That once I used to know.
I think I'll try it once again.
What though my hair is gray
I'm going to leave my stuffy den,
I'll be a boy today.
Suppose it is a trifle cold?
There's no such thing as growing old.

A boy—I'll be a boy once more—
Strong, keen and fancy free,
Crisp, snappy weather shall restore
The lad that lives in me.
Let old man Winter roar his song
And howl through glen and glade,
I'll mingle with the shouting throng
I'll join the gay parade—
A kid who goes his tranquil way
With not a soul to say him nay.

THE NEXT DAY

I'm bruised and battered, halt and lame,
Unsteady is my tread.
This morning, when the ash man came
I gave him my old sled.
I've tasted all I need to taste
Of Winter's so-called joys.
My trust, alas, has been misplaced—
We can't be always boys.
For, when the bitter truth is told
We'll find we all are growing old.

AND STILL THEY COME

Laval Peace Plans Out

By BRUCE CATTON

The midwinter rainy season of northeast Africa seems to have interrupted the Ethiopian war in the fourth inning, with Ethiopia about one run ahead and both pitchers being hit hard. During the intermission, it is reported that the statesmen of Europe are going to make one more attempt to bring the game to a peaceful conclusion.

The Havas News agency says that a new peace conference to end the Ethiopian war, revise the Versailles treaty, and allot new colonies to Italy and Germany is under advisement and will presently be studied by the Baldwin cabinet in England.

The ordinary American who looks on from the sidelines will probably feel that this is an extremely good idea, provided the boys don't forget who has to sign the check.

If there could be a real redistribution of colonies, with the rich and powerful nations giving up some of the swag so that the people down at the foot of the table could get their cut, Europe's chances for living in peace during the next decade or so would be ever so much brighter.

If, on the other hand, this conference should simply put a new coat of paint on the old scheme for recompensing the strong at the expense of the weak, it might better not be held at all.

The powers had a fit of that generosity about a month ago. England and France magnanimously offered to save the victim from the highway man by taking away his watch and his wallet, leaving him with little more than his pants and the right to go on breathing.

The plain people of the world gaged so violently at this deal that it was tossed out of the window, and the English and French government nearly accompanied it.

If the statesmen are hoping to revive that sort of game, they might as well save their breath. There is no hope for a world that has to be saved by such conscienceless thimble-rigging.

But if there is really a disposition in such places as Paris and London to reopen the whole post-war situation and set right a few of the grosser injustices of 1918, then we can be hopeful once more.

It has been said repeatedly that nations like Italy and Germany are compelled to go on the warpath by irresistible economic forces, chief among which is the dire need for colonial outlets.

A genuine move to relocate some of the colonial possessions of the luckier powers would soon show whether this statement is true. It might well bring to an end the war scare that hovers over half of the world today.

But the move would have to be on the level. One Hoare-Laval agreement in a generation is about all the world can stand.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON.—There is something almost pathetic about the administration crowd's yearning to challenge the U. S. Supreme Court and make the tribunal's decisions a campaign issue. The New Dealers are moaning and groaning because they just don't dare—yet.

President Roosevelt decided to let the issue ride for awhile. He is believed to have assumed that the wide sweep of the AAA decision read by Justice Roberts meant the annihilation of the Guffey coal act, TVA, Wagner labor act, Social Security, and everything else on the New Deal list.

After awhile his constituency might get fed up with the supreme court and summon itself to a loud squawk. Meanwhile, he has made it evident that he wouldn't burn his fingers again as he did in the famous "horse and buggy" statement.

The president's attitude is reflected among practically all the pro-Roosevelt Democrats and Progressives here. Most of them evince a yen to go charging into the arena to advance the belief that the conservative majority on the supreme court has asserted an unprecedented usurpation of power and an unwarranted political prejudice against all New Deal measures.

Yet in practically every case—senators, representatives, official politicians, and brain trusters—the fact is admitted or deplored that the voters aren't "educated" up to the New Dealers' point of view. The New Dealers contend the court votes its economic and political prejudices, yet they admit that the people all at large stand in awe and reverence of a supreme court majority as something sanctified and deified.

Wait For Turn Of Tide

So there the administration stands, tense and alert, waiting for indication that public opinion has reached the point where congress can be persuaded to pass a law that will curb the court or a point where Roosevelt can safely suggest that the court is allied with the "forces of entrenched wealth."

Indirect efforts, carefully gauged to what seems to be the trend of opinion, will be made to "educate" the public. The administration will seek to convey the idea that it is operating strictly within supreme court constructions of the constitution—but at the same time all it can to turn opinion against the attitude of the court as now constituted.

If you know your opinions, you will enjoy the public utterances of administration spokesmen, for their act will be much like that of the performance of walking on eggs. The New Dealers don't dare break the eggs—but they do hope the eggs will hatch!

Richberg Turns "Educator"

Whether or not you've noticed that Donald R. Richberg has made a couple of "educational" speeches warning that the supreme court has upset the balance of legislative, executive, and judicial functions, please don't mind my telling you that Richberg is going to make a series of speeches on the dangers of judicial dictatorship.

He is embarked on an effort to destroy what he privately describes as "the mist and temple incense" surrounding the supreme court majority interpretations of the constitution.

After his speech to the Chicago university alumni, Richberg is billed in Boston Feb. 6, in New York on March 7, and over a national radio hookup March 24. And then some more.

First Shot In Campaign

Richberg's campaign is only the beginning of a program of "education," not officially sponsored by the White House.

Richberg is one of the most brilliant lawyers in the country. Not long ago he was known as the "assistant president" and was closest of all to Roosevelt in the latter's council.

He was shunted to the sidelines when his mission—that of conciliating "Big Business"—proved impossible. Yet he remains in Washington, in intimate contact with administrationists. He solemnly denies to me that he has discussed his speaking campaign with Roosevelt, and various White House intimates offer similar assurance.

Yet Richberg's sales talk—that the nation must be saved within the limits of the constitution if possible, but that the ultimate decision depends on whether a given thing is right and ought to be done—exactly expresses the present White House attitude.

Richberg and others feel that the "horse and buggy" statement should have been made for Roosevelt rather than by Roosevelt. Roosevelt is said to feel likewise.

So you can expect to hear the trial balloons sound off—while the White House and all the rest of the political world tunes its ears to the popular reaction. (Copyright 1936 NEA Service Inc.)

GRASS 120 FEET HIGH—Growing in huge clumps, with stems and stalks 120 feet high and more than a foot in diameter, one can see what is probably the tallest grass in the world in the Paradeniya Gardens, Kandy, Ceylon, India. Bamboo is really grass, and the jointed stems grow with extreme rapidity to their full height unbranched, afterwards throwing out straight, horizontal branches from their upper parts. This giant grass grows so fast that one can actually see it grow, sometimes as much as 18 inches in a single day. Bamboos are highly decorative, but in utility they are second only to the palm—if to that—in importance to the peoples of tropical and sub-tropical regions where they are indigenous, serving every imaginable purpose from house and bridge building to the making of paper, pipe stems and pickles.

Lights Of New York

By George Ross

NEW YORK.—This being leap year. Broadway's comely chorines are again at odds about their customary prerogative—the right to propose. The lovely ladies are bickering about this matter, already, backstage of George White's "Scandals," as if these maidens ever will have to take the initiative.

The chorus, I am advised by a reliable Stage Door Johnnie, is now divided into two camps, those who will spring the question and those who won't. And this latter group is headed by red-headed Bert Foth who has enrolled sixty of the gorgeous corymbes in her cause.

"Ridiculous!" Miss Foth is said to have sniffed. "A girl who proposes to a man will never live it down."
"Stuff and nonsense," retorts beautiful Lois Eckhardt, self-appointed president of the "Scandals" Leap Year club. "Most proposals come from the men. A girl doesn't want to marry, anyway, so she must as well do the proposing herself and get the kind of man to whom she really can say yes."

Just thought you'd like to know the way chorus girls' minds run these days.

A Poser

Among the pests at night clubs, the most annoying are the amateur camera fanatics who force their lenses upon an entertainer in the midst of the act. And later forward the photo to the subject to be autographed. One performer has rebelled against this practice and whenever an unsolicited picture arrives, sends it back to the sender with a bill for $25, his usual fee for posing.

Modern History

The Denver Rocky Mountain News summarizes the rise of American civilization as follows:

1929—Marathon Dancers.
1930—Tom Thumb Golf.
1931—Tree Sitters.
1932—Jigsaw Puzzles.
1933—Hog-calling contests.
1934—"Scratch out the top name and send a dime."

The year's only a few weeks old, but already it is safe to add this: 1935—"The Music Goes 'Round and Around."

Dilemma
New York liquor dealers declare that they will press their protest during the congressional session against the law which permits spirits under $100 in purchase value to pass the customs, free of duty. It is hurting their trade considerably. The traffic of liquor from Havana and Bermuda has been especially heavy since the inaugural of repeal and many cruise passengers have discovered that by bringing back a case or two, tax-free, they more than pay the expenses of their voyage. This practice, as a matter of fact, has become a business with several gentlemen who contract, before proceeding toward Havana, to return with a case for a customer, at a price lower than the stuff would cost here.
"If only out of resentment, I would have supposed that when the town's liquor dealers arranged this year's convention, they hardly would have selected Havana as their meeting place. But they did and when they came back on the Statendam last week, what would you guess, did they bring back with them? Duty-free liquor? Not on your life. It's against their principles. They returned with a vast armada of toy aeroplanes, tri-motored, that they purchased in gross from a Cuban souvenir-vender.

MARRIAGES

JONESBORO, La., Jan. 18.—(Special)—Announcement was made here of the marriage of William Stanley Hammons, of Jonesboro, and Miss Rosalie Johnson of Oil City, last December 26 at Oil City. Rev. E. E. Smith, pastor of the Oil City Baptist church, officiated. The ceremony was performed in the parsonage.
The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Johnson of Oil City. She is a former student of Louisiana State Normal college.

The groom is a son of the late W. J. Hammons, who was a state representative from Jackson parish, and is employed here by an oil company.
The young couple will reside here.

It is declared "mortal sin" to send children to Mexican public schools and some new difficulties are anticipated.

MOTION IS FILED FOR MENTALITY EXAMINATION

GULFPORT, Miss., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Special Judge Oscar C. Moss in circuit court here today took under advisement a motion filed before him for appointment of a lunacy commission to examine the mentality of Lewis Boudreaux, 20, of Algiers, La., accused of criminally attacking an 11-year-old Gulfport girl.

Boudreaux is scheduled to face trial for his life in Gulfport next Wednesday.

The defendant was brought into court under heavy guard and listened to the arguments on the motion.

SELASSIE MOVES TO CRUSH REVOLT

Serious Rebellion Reported Under Way In Ethiopian Province

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Jan. 18.—(P)—Two of Emperor Haile Selassie's generals have been rushed to northwest Gojjam province to put down a serious revolt, it was learned today from reliable sources in Addis Ababa.

News of battles between loyal troops and rebellious forces have reached Addis Ababa, it was said, but a strict censorship kept it from the public.

Ethiopian officials were described as seriously concerned over the situation.

Kenematch Sahle, who is known as the "revolt killer," recently went to Gojjam at the head of several thousand troops to aid Dedjazmatch Habte Miriam, who was dispatched from Addis Ababa several weeks ago in an attempt to restore order.

The incidents began late in November and it was believed many weeks would pass before they take a decisive turn.

(Recent Addis Ababa dispatches quoted Ethiopian officials as charging Italians with stirring up Gojjam unrest against the government by dropping propaganda from airplanes.)

Revolutionaries were said to be holding many towns, although loyal forces have entered Debra Markos, the capital of the province.

Dedjazmatch Haile, a nephew of the late Emperor Haile Selassie, who was deposed as ruler of Gojjam province and imprisoned by the emperor, is trying to regain his uncle's domains.

Ras Haile, who has been held in chains on Zway island, in a lake south of Addis Ababa, was poisoned to death, according to recent unconfirmed reports.

New Deal Matters Thought Studied By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(P)—The supreme court presumably scrutinized a variety of New Deal litigation at its secret conference today, stirring speculation that it had completed a final draft of its Tennessee valley act opinion.

The TVA ruling may determine whether the government can sell surplus electricity in competition with private utilities. A brief session for announcement of decisions will be held Monday before the court takes a two week's recess.

At the regular Saturday conferences the justices discuss cases that have been argued, vote on decisions, and check over drafts of opinions before they are sent to the printer.

Those expecting the TVA ruling Monday pointed to the speed with which the court has disposed of three other major cases. Two were decided 23 days after oral argument and the third in 34 days.

Arguments on TVA were completed December 19. Thirty-two days will have elapsed by Monday.

The decisions announced after 28 days were those holding the agricultural adjustment act unconstitutional and the ruling in the Louisiana rice millers case that $200,000,000 in processing taxes imposed in federal courts must be returned to the taxpayers. Thirty-four days were required for the decision dismissing the case brought by Lee Moor, a Texas planter, against the Bankhead cotton production control act.

If TVA is not decided Monday, a ruling would not be possible until February 3 when the court will return from its recess. The justices regularly meet two weeks to hear arguments and then recess for two weeks to prepare opinions.

The Tennessee valley litigation, was brought by stockholders of the Alabama Power company, who sought to restrain that utility from selling transmission lines to TVA. The government won the circuit court of appeals at New Orleans after an adverse district court ruling.

Other litigation scheduled for consideration today with announcement probable Monday included:

A request by the Hoosac Mills corporation of Massachusetts that the ruling holding AAA unconstitutional go into effect immediately, instead of allowing the government the customary 25 days to ask for reconsideration.

A petition by the Louisiana rice millers asking that the decision ordering refund of impounded processing taxes take effect at once, instead of giving the government 25 days to seek reconsideration.

City Briefs

N. H. Knox, of Huttig, Ark., who has been a patient at Vaughan-Wright-Bendel's clinic since Tuesday, yesterday was reported improving rapidly.

Mrs. W. K. Anders returned yesterday from Greenville, Texas, where she was present at the funeral services of her mother, Mrs. D. T. Haley, of Dallas, who died in a Dallas hospital last Thursday. Mrs. Haley was a frequent visitor in Monroe and had made many friends here. She had been in ill health for several months. Last rites were conducted Friday at Greenville where interment took place.

A special meeting of organized labor will be held at the city hall today at 3 p. m. At this time reports will be received from the questionnaire committee. All members of organized labor groups are invited to attend but the meeting will be closed to all other persons.

Due to unfavorable weather conditions slow progress has been made on the paving of the extension of Louisville avenue. A stretch about one-fourth of a mile in length remains to be poured to complete the north side of the paving between the railroad tracks and the terminus with the conditions it is expected that two days Sterling road. With good weather will be all that will be required to complete the present gap in the paving.

Placing of concrete posts and guard rails along the new overpass near Sillard on the Missouri Pacific railroad will be completed by the city and the structure will be ready for acceptance by the railroad company, it was stated Saturday.

Mrs. W. C. Holstein, secretary of the Ouachita parish Red Cross chapter, announced Saturday that Harry Kenning, life saving field worker of the national Red Cross, will arrive in Monroe Monday to formulate plans for setting up highway stations to render first aid to those injured in traffic accidents.

Victor Goldberg has returned from Chicago, where he attended the retailers' national shoe convention. He reports that the styles this spring will prove a revelation in artistic effect.

Herbert Fink left Saturday night for Chicago to attend the national convention of mens' furnisiers. He will view the new styles that the "well dressed" man will wear this spring. While away he will visit New York and other eastern cities.

Dean C. C. Colvert of Northeast Center of Louisiana State university, returned Saturday night from Baton Rouge, where he had been spending several days, conferring with university officials concerning the work and policies of the local college during the second semester which will open on February 3.

A change in parking regulations on Cotton street, on the first block west of Natchitoches street, West Monroe, may be made by the city council due to the requests made by business men. The business men complain that all-day parking is keeping customers away from their stores because of inability to find a place to park. They suggest that the city council limit the time of parking in this block to 30 minutes.

M. G. Moore of Moore's Fashionable Tailoring company, has left for a ten day-trip to Cincinnati, as is his custom twice a year, visiting the tailoring establishments where clothes are made for his concern. While there Mr. Moore will select his display wools in full suit lengths, as well as pant lengths. Immediately on his return he will have these new spring patterns on display.

"Amateur Night" will be staged under the sponsorship of the Y. M. C. A. at the Northeast Center of Louisiana State university at the activities period tomorrow. Prizes will be awarded to the best performers by a group of student judges.

"There is no need for so much suffering in this world today since Gly-Cas can be had," Mrs. J. D. Elliott, 205 Plum street, Monroe, highly respected lady of this vicinity, said recently in a praising statement reaching the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, this city:

MRS. J. D. ELLIOTT

"For more than ten years a stubborn case of constipation had continually been filling my system with poisons," continued Mrs. Elliott. "Soon my stomach was terribly affected, gases formed and I bloated after eating even the simplest of foods. Attacks of indigestion were sure to follow each meal I ate, heartburned and palpitated. My entire body bloated too until I could hardly get into my clothes. Sick headaches bothered me continually and I was so nervous it was difficult for me to get any sleep. I also lacked the energy to do my work and really felt as if my entire system was worn-out. In spite of all I tried I grew worse each day and was about to give up hope of ever getting well again when I began to hear so much praise for this new Gly-Cas. Everyone that tried it seemed to regain their health—so I decided it was one medicine that was at least worth a trial—and put it to a severe test in my own case."

"To my pleasant surprise this new Gly-Cas regulated my bowels almost at once—and in a most natural way, too," continued Mrs. Elliott. "The poisons were eliminated and I soon began eating foods I had been denied for years. Those attacks of indigestion, gas and bloating are now over, some of the hardest foods to digest cause me no trouble whatever and it is a real pleasure to be able to enjoy my meals again. Those dreadful headaches are over now, nerves quieted and I get perfect sleep, full of energy each morning and ready for a hard days work before me. To all suffering people I want to recommend Gly-Cas for on my case alone it has certainly proven its merit beyond all doubt."

And so it goes—another case right here in Monroe added to the hundreds of others—where Gly-Cas has accomplished the seemingly impossible after all else tried had failed. Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, Monroe, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns. Price $1.00 box—6 boxes for $5.00. Postage paid on receipt of price. (adv.)

February meeting. The senior class sponsored by Miss Kemp and Mrs. R. N. Ware presided over the session and Mrs. F. A. Yarbrough served as secretary.

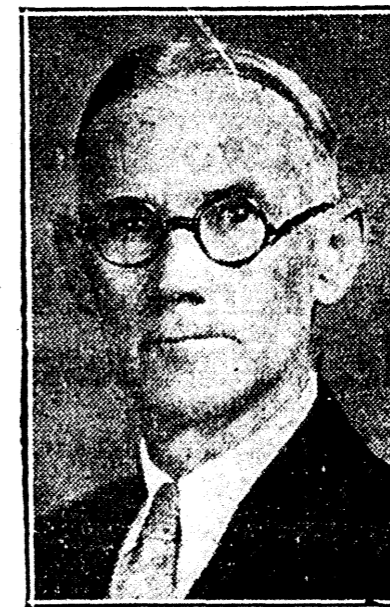

... and the roads are free! ! ! Yet, every time you buy a gallon of gas you pay six cents for road tax. Using but five gallons per day this tax costs you $9.00 a month or $108.00 per year. If the roads were free you could use this money to buy the children sorely needed shoes, a warm jacket, a suit ... your wife could have a new dress occasionally. And the saddest part of it all is that it will not stop when you die ... the burden will merely be transferred to the shoulders of your children.

Free roads! ! !

And Maestri laughs.

STATEMENT

In 1930, when president of the Fifth District Medical society, a member of the Police Jury and department chairman of the hospital committee of the American Legion, I visited every police jury, every Legion post and every parish medical society in the 5th District and secured endorsement for the establishment of a State Charity Hospital in Monroe. The late Theo Terzia, Charlie Mitchell and myself remained in Baton Rouge at the regular session in 1930 until this senate bill, introduced by Senator Redmond, was passed by the legislature and signed by Huey Long, then governor.

I have always fought for the continuance of the ten beds, now maintained by the parish and city for indigent patients and have sent many a chronic case to New Orleans and Shreveport with transportation paid; I believe that the proposal of Judge Leche to maintain twenty-five beds in the two private institutions here will amply cover the situation.

Qualifications: I am a graduate of the Vicksburg City schools, with a B. Sc. degree from Mississippi State—a licensed pharmacist before graduating in medicine at Tulane university as one of the ten highest graduates. I am licensed to practice medicine and surgery in Louisiana and Mississippi by examination, and have been in general practice for the last twenty years. I am not a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, the highest honor a surgeon can attain, but one of my deputies, Dr. W. L. Bendel, has that distinction and has charge of whatever surgery may be necessary. My other deputy, Dr. O'Donnell, assists me in the examination and care of all mental cases and we have never missed a day visiting the jail for four years in order to properly care for the prisoners.

I am the only coroner that has ever had an office with regular hours in the courthouse. I am the only coroner that has ever kept a complete record of ALL coroner cases. I am the only coroner that has ever considered the tax-payer's money. I am the only coroner that has ever been commended by grand juries for the aid that I rendered them on homicidal cases. I abolished the coroner's juries as being illegal on all cases except those of a criminal nature and saved the parish hundreds of dollars for this item alone. I have been complimented on several occasions by the present District Attorney upon the completeness of my reports on all homicidal cases.

I am now living in Monroe, devoting my time to the coroner's office, the care and treatment of prisoners and devoting what time is left to the indigent sick in the city and parish. I am married and have five children, three girls and two boys—three of whom are under fifteen years of age.

One of my opponents has a position with the Reform school—the other was coroner for sixteen years. I am asking for reelection as an honest, efficient, economical official and have run a clean race. I ask my friends to disregard any last minute mud slinging.

of Ouachita Parish

When I announced my candidacy for the office of Sheriff of Ouachita Parish, I planned to shake hands with every voter, and ask their support in the coming election, but as the time is short I fear it will be impossible for me to contact every one, therefore I take this means of asking your support and in return I promise that I will uphold the law and give you a clean administration.

I need no introduction to the people of Ouachita Parish, having lived in the city of Monroe for the past 24 years, and have always conducted a legitimate business.

I have no political enemies and hold no animosity against anyone just because they cannot see fit to support me, however, I do request your earnest consideration before you cast your ballot.

On the 21st of January when you go to the polls remember it is my earnest wish to be your next sheriff, and I will appreciate your vote and support.

LAVAL CABINET NEARS COLLAPSE

Situation Is Brought About
By Radical-Socialist Desertions

PARIS, Jan. 18.—(P)—Premier Pierre Laval's "save the franc" cabinet was on the verge of collapse tonight as a result of radical-socialist desertions.

The fall is expected when the Premier returns from Geneva in the middle of next week.

Edouard Herriot's formal decision to resign as minister of state and the announcement that two fellow radical-socialists, William Bertrand, minister of marine, and Georges Bonnet, minister of commerce, would join him in quitting the government, reinforced the general impression that a cabinet crisis is only a question of days.

Laval, it was understood, obtained their promise not to resign until he had time to confer at Geneva with Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary on what the league intends to do about the Italo-Ethiopian war and other international problems.

Joseph Paganon, minister of the interior, also was reported ready to resign.

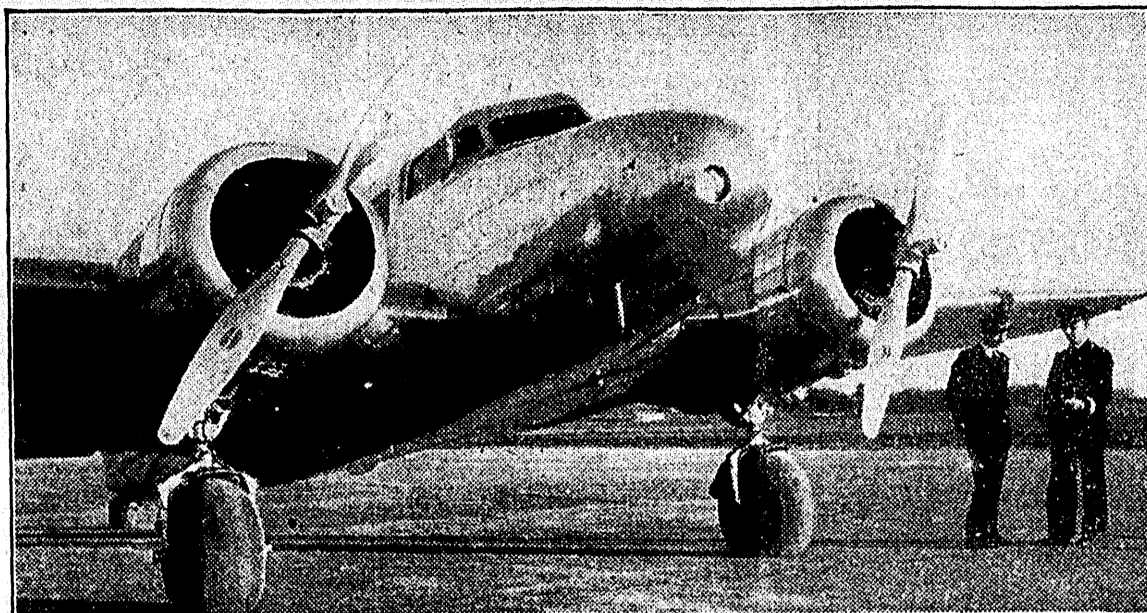

Laval indicated that if any ministers joined Herriot in quitting he would take the resignation of the entire cabinet to President Lebrun.

Col. Francois de la Rocque, leader of the nationalist veterans' organization "Croix de Feu," told 5,000 members at a heavily guarded meeting here they must "be on call" until the political situation has settled.

Friends of Herriot said he was fed up with political squabbles as well as dissatisfied with Laval's foreign policy. They said he would refuse even to resume the presidency of the radical socialists.

That left Edouard Daladier, anti-Laval leader, as the only candidate when the party's executive committee elects Herriot's successor tomorrow, although several "dark horses" have been mentioned for the post.

DELTA'S NEW LUXURIOUS AIRLINER

Shown above is one of Delta Air Lines' new Lockheed Electras, fleet of which now serves this city. Completing a re-equipment program providing deluxe airliners over the entire trans-southern route, the all-metal planes combine speed, comfort and dependability, represent the latest refinements of aircraft construction. Operating on faster schedules, an opportunity to travel with unusual speed and convenience is afforded Monroe passengers. As an example, air travelers may leave here at 12:00 noon, arrive in New York City at 10:00 p.m. the same evening.

Sensational Rumors Fly As Probe Of Crash Ends

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 18.—(P)—Amid the usual flurry of sensational rumors, federal investigators concluded their investigation late today into Tuesday night's airplane tragedy near Goodwin, Ark., in which 17 persons lost their lives.

Major R. W. Schroeder, U. S. airlines inspector, said the rumors included "the usual stock one" that one of the passengers may have had narcotics aboard the plane, but that he had found nothing "to indicate a reason to attach importance to that rumor in this case."

Major Schroeder said that in order that "no possible clue" can be overlooked in this case, American airlines officials will make a new search at the scene of "the Southerner's" crash in an effort to locate pistols carried by the pilot and co-pilot.

Newspapers today expressed belief that the investigators had decided that the "human element" was responsible for the crash of the airliner, but Major Schroeder said that was "a broad statement."

"I naturally have no comment to make on the case, as I am not allowed to discuss my opinions," Major Schroeder declared. "He said records of all passengers and members of the crew on the ship were being investigated by the department of justice, 'as is usual in the investigation of every accident of this kind.'"

He revealed that officials of the American Airlines planned to drain the land around the scene of the crash in an effort to locate the pistols usually carried by pilots and co-pilots on the planes, to see that "no possible avenue of investigation is overlooked."

Officials said souvenir hunters may have picked up the weapons.

Hugh Smith, superintendent of the southern division of American Airlines, verified late today a report that he had ordered doors between the pilots' compartments and passengers' cabins locked from the inside on all planes.

Undertakers were summoned to the executive inquiry this afternoon for questioning concerning the positions of the various bodies, especially in connection with testimony that the body of one passenger was found in front of the plane's motor, ahead of the pilot and co-pilot.

Witnesses have asserted that they could find no evidence of a mechanical defect in the big plane.

Investigators will be sent to various points to wind up the investigation concerning the plane's equipment. Parts of the wrecked ship were being transported to Fort Worth today, as Major Schroeder prepared to depart for Washington.

GRIZZLED OLD MAN RECALLS TIME WHEN KING SPOKE TO HIM

SANDRINGHAM, Jan. 18.—(P)—For 60 years George William Patrick, now a grizzled old man of 74, has worked for King George—and in all that time the sovereign spoke to him only once.

But it is still the biggest and proudest moment in his life.

"It would be worth going through the whole thing again for that thrill," said Patrick tonight as he brooded over a pint of ale at the inn, "The Feathers."

He was dazed by the news that "the squire, God bless 'im," was seriously ill.

Patrick, who started as a kitchen boy and then rose to bush-beater for his majesty, finally achieved the status of woodchopper in his old age.

He recalled that the king spoke to him on Christmas two years ago when he stood in line with the servants and shook hands with the monarch.

"I was so excited," he said, "that I couldn't hear what he said."

MAKING, DELIVERING ELECTION EQUIPMENT BECOMES BIGGER JOB

The task of constructing election booths, distributing them and chairs, tables and other election equipment to polling places in the Twin Cities and Ouachita parish in preparation for the Democratic primary to be held Tuesday is a considerably larger job than ever before.

In Monroe and ward five, the latter ward embracing West Monroe, 163 voting booths, or about three times as many as were used in any previous election, have been prepared for Tuesday's primary.

There will be 40 voting booths in ward ten, 60 in ward three and 68 in ward five.

The rural wards will have the following number of voting booths: Ward 1-7; ward 2-5; ward 4-3; ward 6-7; ward 7-3; ward 8-4; ward 9-3.

The number of voting booths in a parish is based upon the ratio of one to every 100 voters.

Booths, chairs, tables and other equipment for rural polling places have already been distributed. The equipment for booths in Monroe and West Monroe will be distributed Monday.

Fred Hill, parish engineer, is in general charge of making, assembling and distributing the equipment. Florent Hammonds, the courthouse maintenance engineer, made the additional booths.

Polling places have been inspected under the direction of the parish board of election supervisors, and another inspection will be made Monday.

My political enemies have been very active in circulating the reports that Senator James A. Noe and I engaged in a fist fight and that my deputies and I caused the late Senator Huey P. Long to be hanged in effigy at the Court House. Both of the above reports are absolutely false and unfounded and were maliciously circulated for the purpose of misleading you with reference to the true issues involved in this campaign.

Your active support and vote will be appreciated on Tuesday, January 21st.

THE COST OF ELECTRICITY

This data compiled by Burns & McDonnell Engineering Co., Kansas City.

	Cost of 30 KWH Per Month	Cost of 90 KWH Per Month	Population
Clarksdale, Miss.	$1.35	$3.15	10,043
Danville, Va.	1.80	3.90	22,247
Owensboro, Ky.	1.50	2.70	22,765
Virginia, Minn.	.60	1.80	11,968
Monroe, La. (With Electric Refrigerator)	1.62	4.86	26,028
Monroe, La. (Without Electric Refrigerator)	2.70	8.10	26,028

If you do not believe our electric rates are too high, please study the figures shown above. All of the above cities own their plants, which are steam driven. Some of them use coal, whereas Monroe's plant uses natural gas, which is much cheaper.

The natural and reasonable conclusion is that our plant earns an enormous profit each year. This profit should be returned to the owners, the people of Monroe, in the form of reduced electric bills, rather than wasted, as it now is, in political extravagance.

If you desire a sound, business-like management, and a reduction in your electric bill, that heralded a return of freezing weather.

FLURRY OF SNOW FALLS IN MONROE

The disturbance at noon today was reported centering off the Texas coast and moving northeastward attended by strong shifting winds which the weather bureau warning here said would probably reach gale force this afternoon or tonight.

Storm warnings were hoisted for the Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida coast to Carabelle, Fla., as the gale ran its course with winds predicted to attain nearly 40 miles an hour velocity.

R. A. Dyke, senior meteorologist of the weather bureau here, explained that the storm was not of the intensity of a tropical disturbance.

The cold wave tonight was predicted to bring freezing temperatures to most of Louisiana and Mississippi.

The streets of Shreveport, in northwest Louisiana were covered with sleet this afternoon.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Drama rode with a swift flying snow storm which covered most of the Midwest with a fresh blanket today, ranging as deep as a foot and a half.

Much colder weather trailed the storm, whose center sped from near St. Louis during the night to central New York state in the afternoon, but the mercury started climbing again in the northern plains states after sinking deep under zero last night.

Racine, Wis., coast guardsmen found the wreckage of a fishing tug near Kenosha and expressed belief that its crew of four had perished trying to ride out a 40-mile blow. A young couple, returning from a dance near Sisseton, N. D., died from carbon monoxide poisoning when their car stalled in a snow bank. A companion was given a chance to recover. Two deaths in Oklahoma and one in Kansas were attributed to exposure or traffic conditions resulting from ice sheeted thoroughfares.

At Medfield, Mass., scores of searchers trailed three-year-old Dale Tibbets through a fast falling snow. He wandered off Wednesday.

nominations, customary last-minute business of a legislative day.

Packed galleries, sprinkled with ex-soldiers in uniforms that betrayed their age, saw the debate start at noon, then halt for another harking back to World War policies, and resume again only to send the issue to a third day for decision.

The new currency amendment, proposed by Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, was rejected 64 to 27, with many senators who previously had favored a similar method of payment in last session's vetoed Patman bill, including Senator Borah, voting in opposition.

Only three Republicans 33 Democrats and the two Farmer-Labor members voted for the amendment. Nineteen Republicans 44 Democrats and the Progressive La Follette answered "no."

A viva voce vote shouted down another proposal by Thomas to make an outright appropriation of $2,237,000 to discharge the debt. Senator Harrison Democrat, Mississippi, co-author of the bill, said it was the house's duty to originate appropriation bills.

Two other amendments went down to defeat without record votes—one by Senator Hayden Democrat, Arizona, to deduct from the payment bonds any debts other than bonus borrowings owed by the veterans of the government, and another by Connally Democrat, Texas, to give bonus benefits to provisional first and second lieutenants in the World War.

Senator Schwelbach Democrat, Washington, offered but withdrew when Senator Byrnes Democrat, South Carolina, said he understood it was not necessary, an amendment to make veterans receiving the bonus still eligible for work relief.

It appeared certain that the senate bill would reach the house by Monday night. The bill already passed by that branch did not specify a method of payment, but leaders reported it likely that the senate proposal would be accepted.

Administration leaders hoped a final measure could be dispatched to the White House Monday or Tuesday. Mr. Roosevelt has guarded closely his intentions toward it.

The senate bill, introduced by Senators Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi; Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina; Steiwer, Republican, Oregon, and Clark, Democrat, Missouri, after weeks of secret negotiations with officers of veterans' organizations, would pay in $50 bonds the full 1945 maturity value, less loans and some interest, of the 3,500,000 bonus certificates outstanding. The securities would be non-transferable but either could be redeemed next June in cash or held for nine years as an investment.

Sounding the keynote of Republican advocacy, Senator Barbour, Republican, of New Jersey, declared:

"Inescapable debts already incurred must be paid and it is better economy to start paying them than it is to go on wasting money in the meantime for bondholding."

The bulky New Jerseyite declared four years ago the treasury reported that paying the bonus would "wreck" us economically.

"Since then," he added, "a new administration with my recklessness has spent almost six times as much."

"Resistance to the bonus, therefore, cannot be supported by treasury statements nor by the economic policy of this administration. Bluntly, I favor paying off old debts before contracting new ones."

Disputing statements by Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, that the bill would cost the taxpayers ultimately around $4,000,000,000, Senator Byrnes said thousands of thrifty veterans would not cash their bonds, thereby making the immediate strain on the treasury that much less.

Senators roared when the South Carolinian asserted "if a husband can get hold of one of these $50 bonds he will be luckier than any man of my acquaintance."

Byrnes argued a veteran under the bill could get "100 cents on the dollar any time he wants it, but if he sold a Liberty bond he may get 100 cents or 95 cents."

Senator Lewis, Democrat, Illinois, contended there was "no such thing as a bonus before the senate."

"These soldiers are receiving from this government what I conceive to be fulfillment of a contract," he asserted. Thomas, speaking for his amendment to pay the bonus in new currency, said the coalition bill might require at least three separate bond issues.

"Each of the 3,500,000 veterans would receive an average of 15 baby bonds," he said. "That's printing press order number one. Printing press order number two is to print bonds to raise cash to buy up the baby bonds. A third bond issue may be necessary to raise funds to pay the $500,000,000 debt owed the United States life insurance fund for bonus loans."

Thomas warned that "unless we raise commodity prices (by issuing new currency) this administration will go the way of the Hoover administration."

LIGHTNING KILLS MOBILE MAN; RECORD RAIN FALLS

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Heavy winds struck Mobile tonight after lightning had killed one man and a new all-time rainfall record for January was established.

Richard Burg was killed by a flash of lightning while he chopped wood several miles from here.

The city, its traffic jammed during the day as sheets of rain flooded streets, battered down for further severe weather after storm warnings were heeded from Carabelle, Fla., to Morgan City, La.

The heavy rainfall, bringing the total for the month to 13.18, established an all-time record.

Reports from Baldwin, Escambia and other south Alabama counties described heavy damage after rain continued over the section throughout the day.

The hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," was written in 15 minutes by Bishop Heber.

REPRESENTATIVE

OUACHITA PARISH
Subject to the Action of the Democratic Primary

DR. IRVING J. WOLFF

Candidate for the Office of Parish Coroner
Will Appreciate Your Vote and Support in the Primary Election Tuesday, January 21

I have endeavored to conduct a clean and fair campaign for this office, which I believe to be one of the most honorable in the gift of the people of the parish.

I am in favor of devoting the service of the Coroner to the relief of the sick poor, who in the past have been so woefully neglected.

I will bring to the office my best and most sincere efforts to serve the people faithfully and conscientiously, with all the experiences of my professional and private record, which is an open book to everyone.

I desire to thank everyone who has assured me of his support, and assure those I have not seen that I will serve you as diligently as though you had promised me your vote.

A Final Message to the People of Monroe

FROM

H. H. BENOIT

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR OF MONROE, LOUISIANA

The right of suffrage is our most precious heritage. Every man when he enters the ballot box to cast his vote becomes indeed a king. For that priceless moment his sovereignty is supreme; for that moment he is the sole employer of every elective officer, since the vote of any particular individual may be the deciding vote which will determine the future holder of any particular office.

Coupled with the right of suffrage and almost equally precious is the right of secrecy in exercising the voting privilege. No court or other agency in the land has the power to inquire into the contents of your ballot, or otherwise violate its secrecy. In casting your vote you are beholden to no man, and your freedom need be restricted only by your own honest judgment.

I recognize this privilege of secrecy and for that reason have not attempted to make up any so called "check list" of the voters and of their expressed or anticipated preferences in regard to the office for which I am a candidate. I recognize that every man or woman should feel free to choose between the candidates for this or any other office guided only by his own honest judgment and uninfluenced by any sympathy for the personal feelings of the respective candidates. I recognize that this privilege of secrecy is a protecting shield which enables every citizen to cast his vote according to the dictates of his conscience without hope of reward or fear of reprisal.

For my part I encourage a secret vote and unless a voter's preference in this election has been voluntarily expressed I have made no attempt directly or indirectly to ascertain the manner in which he expects to cast his vote. I have solicited the support of every voter either in person or by means of printed messages but I have tried to leave every voter free to express his preference at the polls according to the dictates of his conscience alone. Therefore to that vast army of "silent" voters, as well as to all those who have voluntarily expressed their preference for me, my appeal is addressed.

In the few weeks during which this campaign has been in progress, I have endeavored to place my messages in the hands of every citizen of Monroe. I feel sure that in this time every man or woman in Monroe has seen and read at least one of my messages. These messages express the principles for which I stand. Countless rumors concerning my intentions after taking office have come to my ears but I have not deemed it necessary to make denial of any rumors or accusations which on their face do not emanate from myself. I again invite you to consider the various messages which have been printed over my signature and caution you to disregard any whispered rumors as to my actions after taking office. I repeat my assurance of an honest, intelligent, efficient, and business-like administration, and urge your support on that basis.

I want and invite every vote as it would be gratifying to be elected by the largest majority ever accorded a Mayor of Monroe but over and above this I want every vote which I do receive to be the result of honest consideration and wholehearted conviction as to my qualifications and my ability to serve our community.

I urge every man or woman in Monroe to cast his or her vote for Mayor as carefully and thoughtfully as if it were in fact the deciding vote; as if it were the only vote being cast for this office. If each person will accept that responsibility as an individual, the collective whole will take care of itself, and I will have no fears as to the result.

TO THE VOTERS OF WARDS THREE AND TEN

JOSEPH S. GUERRIERO

JUDGE OF THE CITY COURT of Monroe

I submit for your consideration my candidacy for JUDGE OF THE CITY COURT OF MONROE, LOUISIANA:

I was born in Monroe on February 4th, 1894, and have lived here all my life. My father, the late Charles P. Guerriero, Sr., was one of the pioneer builders of Monroe. He invested his money where he made it and his descendants are carrying on the tradition.

I received my education in the City and Parish Schools of Monroe and Tulane University, graduating from Tulane University in 1926.

I have practiced law for the past nine years and have tried cases in every court in the State of Louisiana, including the Supreme Court, which, I feel, qualifies me for this office.

If you see fit to elect me Judge of the City Court of Monroe, I will conduct a fair and impartial court, showing favoritism to none. I might add that like all other citizens, I am appalled at the increasing number of traffic accidents and I hope to be instrumental in lessening these accidents by a fair and impartial enforcement of the traffic laws.

I hope to have the pleasure of discussing with you in person, before you exercise your suffrage in the coming election, this important issue. If that privilege is not availed me, I wish to take this opportunity of assuring you that if I am elected judge, all will be considered equal.

Give the son of one of the pioneers of Monroe, a young man, a chance to gain the office he is seeking. Thanking you for your consideration of the above, I earnestly solicit your vote and support.

Sincerely yours,
JOE GUERRIERO.

FAULK POST WILL GIVE GOLD STARS

Lists Of Members Of 15, 10
And Five Years' Standing Are Given

L. B. Faulk post has 17 members who have been enrolled as American Legion members for 15 years continuously, while 11 have held membership similarly for 10 years and one man has been a member for five years continuously.

The preparation of the list of names of five, 10 and 15 years of continuous membership here was done at the request of the national American Legion which will award stars to all who have been steadfast in their membership for prescribed periods of time.

Those holding 15 years of continuous membership will receive three gold stars to be worn on their sleeve, while two stars will be the award for 10 years, and one star for five years of continuous membership.

Those from L. B. Faulk post, who have held membership for 15 years continuously, are the following: Isador Liebreich, C. E. McKenzie, Jesse H. Johnson, Dr. C. L. Mengis, Murray Hudson, L. F. Rolfeigh, John R. Humble, Robert Cowden, Ivey Faulk, Fred Pettit, Courtney Oliver, Hugh Lennon, F. F. Millsaps, Dr. R. L. Wood, Ernest Holloway, David I. Garrett, W. J. Veazy.

Those who have held 10 years of continuous membership are: Charles Mitchell, William W. Veach, John B. Bailey, Leo Hartman, A. E. Montgomery, Sam Orchard, Oscar Johnson, W. C. Daughtry, M. L. Padgett, F. X. Cline, and Harry Stein.

The L. B. Faulk post member who held continuous membership for five years was Dr. S. A. Collins, whose name was sent along with the others to headquarters in New Orleans. They will later be sent to national headquarters and the corresponding number of stars will be sent on to Monroe, it is explained by local post officials.

POLITICAL MEETING MONDAY SPONSORED BY RAILROAD CLUB

The Twin-City Boosters' club of the Illinois Central railroad is sponsoring a political rally at which all candidates for office in the city of Monroe and Ouachita parish are invited to speak. The rally will be held Monday night at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium, beginning at 7:30 p. m.

The public is invited to attend. Because of the large number of candidates, each speaker's address will be brief.

Loud speakers will be used to amplify the talks.

SEEK FLYING ACE IN SNOW-COVERED AREAS OF WYOMING

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Search for Howard Stark, missing department of commerce flier, was concentrated today in the snow-covered area around Carter, Wyo., where his plane was last reported flying westward Thursday.

An expert in blind flying, Stark left here in a small cabin plane for Salt Lake City in the face of bad flying conditions.

Aviators said there are many spots where a plane could be landed safely, but added that falling snow would make it difficult to find Stark's ship. The flier's home is in Alexandria, Va.

STARK IS WELL KNOWN TO DELTA AIR OFFICER

C. E. Woolman, vice-president and general manager of the Delta Air corporation, stated Saturday night that he is acquainted with Stark, whom he regards as possibly the best instrument pilot in the country. He said that he had performed such seemingly almost unbelievable feats with flights in the worst kind of weather conditions, that the department of commerce recently engaged him for special research work.

His ability was so recognized a year or more ago by Holland that he was employed as instrument pilot by that country, where he remained for a short time.

MUSIC ORGANIZATION NOW HAS 25 MEMBERS

The Monroe chapter of the national society known as Student Musicians formed in 1933, numbers 25 talented musicians of Monroe and West Monroe. The president is Mary Jeanette Zeigler and other officers are as follows: John Winkler, vice-president; Helen H. Vawter, secretary; Mary Bennett, treasurer; Marie Dell Horuff, historian; Thelma Oseland, librarian; Jo Combs, reporter.

The purpose of the organization is to acquaint the students with better music. Meetings are held semi-monthly. During National Music week and also during the holidays, open programs are held to which the general public is invited.

Recently the Student Musicians issued their yearbook which was of special interest to the members and music lovers generally.

It is noted that out of the entire membership of 25, six are from the Northeast Center of Louisiana State university. The following students are members: Eleanor Bennett, Jo Combs, Frank Mullen, Billy Regan, Evelyn Roll, Garland Shell, and Lea Thompson.

STATEMENT OF D. A. BREARD

Commissioner of Finance and Utilities

To the People of the City of Monroe

In the primary election of January 21st the voters of this State and City will be called upon to discharge their public duty as intelligent citizens in selecting from the many candidates for public office those who will give to the people the best in responsible, conscientious and efficient service. No other considerations should, and I am confident no others will, influence or affect your exercise of your right to vote, for your franchise is to my mind not a privilege, but the fundamental right and duty of every man and woman.

For nearly eleven years I have had the honor of serving you as Commissioner of Finance and Utilities, and during all of that time I have been ever mindful of the public trust which you have placed in me. Feeling the responsibility of that trust I have endeavored to render in return a public service that has had as its only goal the satisfaction of the best interests of your community and mine. As your servant and as a candidate seeking your support for re-election, I regard it as my duty and my pleasure to report to you, as my people, at this time. You are ENTITLED TO KNOW WHAT YOUR OFFICIALS HAVE DONE. YOU OUGHT TO KNOW THE PROBLEMS THEY FACE BECAUSE THEY ARE YOUR PROBLEMS. On these considerations they, and I among them, are willing to stand in judgment before you on the eve of election. THIS IS AN ELECTION, NOT A POPULARITY CONTEST. I GIVE YOU THE FACTS, NOT PROMISES.

As citizens of Monroe you are concerned with utility rates, and rightly so. You have only these sources of revenue production to run your city government and municipal services: your property taxation, licenses and your utilities. Taxation alone should not, and cannot carry the load. During the ten fiscal years I have been your Commissioner the total net earnings of your public utilities have amounted to nearly $3,500,000.00. EVERY CENT OF THESE REVENUES HAS BEEN ACTIVELY USED FOR YOUR BENEFIT. Approximately one third, or $1,000,000.00, out of this income has been reinvested in the improvement and extension of the physical properties of your utilities. You have received increased distribution of services through the extension of electric, water and sewer lines. New fire-fighting equipment and park improvement have come from this reinvestment, all of this over and above the expenses of operation and maintenance of your utilities.

The balance, or remaining two-thirds, of your utility net earnings has gone, and MUST CONTINUE TO GO UNDER ANY ADMINISTRATION, to the maintenance of the pay rolls and operating expenses of your non-revenue producing department. Such services as sanitation, free garbage disposal, street and park maintenance, police protection, fire protection, public school education and recreational activities produce no revenue. They must and will be maintained in their present first class condition, and in order to accomplish that your utilities must be so operated as to contribute substantially to their support.

Your municipal property assessment has been decreased from thirty-two and a half million dollars in 1930 to twenty and a half million dollars in 1935. Millage rate of taxation in those years, on the other hand, has been increased only from eighteen to twenty-one mills on the dollar. Thus assessments have been reduced one-third and tax rate increased only one-sixth. Yet the public services, which you expect and WHICH YOU ARE ENTITLED TO RECEIVE, have been kept constant in amount and efficiency throughout these years. Your utilities have served you one hundred per cent in bearing the load of this difference; and their rates have at no time been higher than those obtaining in such cities as Alexandria, Baton Rouge, Shreveport and New Orleans; and in most instances, the records show them to have been actually lower.

As your Commissioner I would advocate as whole-heartedly as any man rate reduction, and toward that end I shall always work; but I give you my pledge on the basis of my years of experience and my desire to serve you, THAT SUBSTANTIAL UTILITY RATE REDUCTION AT THIS TIME WOULD JEOPARDIZE AND ENDANGER YOUR EVERY PUBLIC INTEREST, AND PARTICULARLY THE MAINTENANCE OF YOUR SCHOOLS.

At present your water supply is metered one hundred per cent. I advocated the water meter system when it became absolutely necessary to prevent untold willful waste and preserve efficient water service. Since meter installation we have pumped daily only half the volume of water that was previously pumping, and no one has suffered shortage. Pressure has improved, and fire protection been made more secure. Yet YOU ARE SERVED UNDER A WATER RATE LOWER THAN THAT PREVAILING IN ALEXANDRIA, BATON ROUGE, SHREVEPORT, OR ANY OTHER CITY OF COMPARABLE CIRCUMSTANCES. The change to the meter system has benefitted the individual and the community. The domestic consumer has had no occasion to complain. THE COMMERCIAL CONSUMER, IF AT ALL PUBLIC SPIRITED, HAS HAD NO RIGHT TO COMPLAIN.

I advocate the continued maintenance of the present municipal street car services. There is no operation loss under your present management, AND TO DISCONTINUE THAT SERVICE WOULD MEAN THE JUNKING OF $150,000.00 WORTH OF EQUIPMENT IN PRESENT GOOD CONDITION, AND CALL FOR AN EXPENDITURE OF APPROXIMATELY $50,000.00 TO REPLACE THAT TRANSPORTATION SERVICE BY THE SUBSTITUTION OF MORE BUSES. I submit to you AS INTELLIGENT VOTERS THAT ANY SUCH ACTION WOULD BE BAD MANAGEMENT AND POOR BUSINESS JUDGMENT. Our street car and bus fares are the lowest in the state of Louisiana.

When first elected to serve you, the people of Monroe, I made to you the statement: "I AM NOT A POLITICIAN." I have never been guilty of job-juggling for political purposes; and the duties of my office, properly conducted, have never permitted me time for a house to house campaign to meet, talk with, and know each of you personally as I should like. I have endeavored at all times, however, to serve you with all of my best energies and time; to serve you with partiality toward none and fairness toward the best interests of all; to cooperate with your splendid Mayor and your Commission Council in giving your City and mine an efficient, economic and business-like administration. IF RE-ELECTED I SHALL REGARD YOUR SUPPORT AS A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE, AND SHALL CONTINUE TO GIVE YOU MY BEST EFFORTS AS YOUR PUBLIC SERVANT.

CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE OF OUACHITA PARISH

• It is impossible for any person to pay interest at the rate of 42 per cent, and when a man borrows money from the loan companies he virtually sells himself into slavery. He will work to pay the loan shark and when he can pay no more they seize his furniture and garnishee his wages.

• As your representative, I pledge you to support legislation to abolish the law which makes legal the charge of 42 per cent on loans. I believe that the legal rate of interest should not exceed eight per cent.

• As your representative, I pledge you my support of legislation which will give to our old men and women benefits and pensions. Too long have our old people been denied the right of proper care by our great state.

• As your representative, I pledge you my support of legislation which will give to labor their just rights. I sincerely believe in the rights of Labor.

• As your representative, I pledge you my support of the present law which gives free school books to our children, and pledge you to support legislation to require the printing of all school supplies in the state, thereby giving employment to labor in our own cities and state.

• As your representative, I pledge you my support of legislation to exempt homesteads up to the amount of $2,000.

• Active support of a comprehensive Child Welfare Program.

• Cooperation with any administration in the passage of any laws that are for the betterment of the people of the state.

• An honest, intelligent and competent representation is assured the people by the election of Paul Fink.

ed they had agreed that "no good purpose would be served by controversy with the governor on his theories or points of view."

This attitude was quite general among the governor's political foes. The talk of asking his impeachment quieted, in keeping with the uncertainty many legislators felt as to just how strong the governor's position in the case might be.

The next legislative session, on Monday night, was awaited eagerly, however.

The fate of Hauptmann, whatever side issues may develop, rests upon the ability of his counsel or the governor to produce new evidence of such importance as to warrant either a new trial, commutation of sentence, or, conceivably, a pardon.

C. Lloyd Fisher, chief defense counsel, asked tonight what the defense was doing, said: "We're doing nothing right now."

In New York, Mrs. Anna Hauptmann said she was "looking into" published reports that Egbert Rosecrans of defense counsel had expressed belief in her husband's guilt. Both Rosecrans and Fisher denied that Rosecrans had said any such thing.

Explaining that he thought "Hauptmann should receive a new deal," Paul C. Clancy, editor of the magazine "American Astrology," announced in New York today that he had employed Robert W. Hicks, a Washington, D. C., criminologist, and Dr. Erastus Mead Hudson, defense fingerprint expert, to carry investigation of the case "to a final conclusion."

Clancy and his associates previously engaged two Washington attorneys to join the defense, and it was through these lawyers that the appeals to the federal circuit court and United States supreme court—both of which failed—were taken this week.

WRECKAGE OF GRUESOME AIR TRAGEDY HALF-BURIED IN SWAMPS

Half-buried in the wooded swamplands, this wreckage is all that remains of the palatial airliner, "The Southerner," in which 17 persons lost their lives when it crashed near Goodwin, Ark. Bodies and bits of the plane were strewn over hundreds of yards as the airliner crashed through the trees. Sorrowing relatives and friends encountered great difficulty in identifying the mutilated bodies. (Associated Press Photo—copyrighted by Memphis Commercial Appeal) been no change in the king's condition since the previous bulletin.

Barring a sudden change for the worse, it was announced, there would be no further statement tonight. Three physicians were remaining within call throughout the night.

One of England's greatest heart specialists, Sir Maurice A. Cassidy, was called to Sandringham today from London. Oxygen was administered to the king last night but it was explained that this is a modern treatment for a catarrhal condition.

Men and women outside the royal residence knelt on a thick mantle of snow to murmur prayers for the recovery of the stricken monarch, the small, bearded man with deep-set, tired eyes whose gentle reign of more than a quarter of a century has captured the devotion of his 450,000,000 subjects.

As lights of the residence twinkled on, the slender figure of the prince of Wales, the king's only bachelor son and next in line of succession to the throne, was seen passing nervously back and forth in front of an upper window. He arrived from London yesterday.

The princess royal, the Countess of Harewood, the king's only daughter and one of his favorite companions, arrived at Sandringham house late today and went immediately to her mother, Queen Mary. The two had a long talk.

The departure of the king's two little grand-daughters, the Princess Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, for London emphasized the concern felt.

Special prayers will be offered at the Parish church tomorrow and there will be similar prayers throughout the nation.

Because of the "disquieting" nature of King George's illness Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin decided to remain in London for the week-end.

Latest bulletins from the bedside gave rise to the belief an emergency council of state will be called shortly.

This is customary when the king's life is believed in danger and was done in 1928, when George was seriously ill. A council was summoned comprising Queen Mary, the prince of Wales, the duke of York, Lord Chancellor Hailsham and Prime Minister Baldwin.

They were appointed at a meeting of the privy council, held in an audience chamber next to the king's bedroom. The bedroom door was open and the king was fully cognizant of the proceedings.

Messages from throughout the world poured in upon Sandringham. Adolf Hitler sent his "sincerest wishes for a full recovery."

The archbishop of Canterbury, head of the Church of England, in speaking of the illness in Canterbury cathedral, said:

"It would be foolish to deny that there are grounds for anxiety, but there are also good grounds of hope in the king's proved powers of recovery and the knowledge, experience and skill of his doctors."

Four of Britain's most eminent physicians are attending the king, Lord Dawson of Penn, physician in ordinary; Sir Frederick Stanley Hewett, surgeon apothecary; Sir Frederic J. Williams, surgeon apothecary to the household at Sandringham; and Sir Maurice Cassidy, the heart specialist.

The first disclosure that the king was ill was made yesterday, when it was said he was confined to his room with a slight cold. A bulletin last night, however, told of the cardiac trouble.

This little village of 100, about 100 miles northeast of London, immediately became the center of an empire's anxiety.

of playing cards for high score. Those present were Mesdames F. W. Rives, E. W. Andrews, Jack McIlwaine, Louis Felton, W. C. Andrews, Donald Bacon, Sam Odgen and Frank Bell.

Miss Lois Golsen of Bonita spent the week-end recently in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Golsen.

Mrs. E. W. Andrews entertained with a miscellaneous shower at her home recently in honor of a recent bride, Mrs. W. J. Holdman of West Monroe, who was Miss Rosa Lena Travis.

The spacious reception suite was decorated with sprays of mistletoe and holly. Mrs. E. W. Andrews, Mrs. Holdman and Miss Mary Mills Hunt of Monroe were in the receiving line. Mrs. D. E. Wilson had charge of the bride's book, wherein every guest registered.

Mrs. E. M. Clark and Mrs. W. H. McKelvey poured tea and coffee from massive silver services placed at either end of the lace-covered table. Miss Fayé Bell Higginbotham, Miss Martha Vaughn and Miss Ella Mae Higginbotham served dainty sandwiches, stuffed dates and nuts.

"I put TERRAPLANE first because I put Safety First"

"Go ahead, kids... that car's got BRAKES!"

NO one needs to be reminded that safe driving in winter, more than at any other season, calls for a car that is safe.

Then why not start this new year with the "safest car on today's highways?" Terraplane—with more new and important safety features than any other low priced automobile ever had!

Bring Safety up to Date!

For safer riding, safer steering, safer stopping, Terraplane brings you Radial Safety Control (patent applied for). Here is a revolutionary principle of front axle and spring design which new owners from coast to coast are hailing as the greatest safety feature in many years.

None but the best brakes are good enough. And no other low priced car but Terraplane meets that demand with Duo-Automatic Hydraulic Brakes (patent applied for). Latest and best hydraulics with a separate safety braking system that takes hold automatically if ever needed.

For added safety on the highway—greater steadiness on curves—two more 1936 improvements: Tru-Line Steering and the Rhythmic Ride.

Safer Bodies! Safer Chassis!

The world's first safety engineered chassis is now combined with America's first bodies all of steel, and seamless roof of solid steel.

There is extra safety, too, in Terraplane's record-breaking performance, to take you out of traffic "tight spots." And in the Electric Hand, an optional extra, for easier gear shifting and safer driving.

Drive safely in 1936—in a car that you know to be safe. Drive a new Terraplane.

A Word of Appreciation to Every Resident of Monroe

FROM

COMMISSIONER OF PARKS AND STREETS OF MONROE
AND CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

At this time, on the eve of the election, I think it only fitting that I devote a few words to expressing my appreciation to my fellow citizens for the support and cooperation they have shown me during my term of office. I made my campaign for office four years ago on a keynote of CONSTRUCTIVE GOOD-WILL and have made that the foundation and cornerstone of all my official acts since taking office. The response from my thousands of friends and fellow citizens has been more than gratifying, and I take this means of acknowledging my appreciation.

THE ASSURANCES OF CONTINUED SUPPORT AND GOOD WILL WHICH I HAVE RECEIVED ON EVERY SIDE HAVE BEEN SO NUMEROUS AND SO HEARTY AS TO CONVINCE ME NOT ONLY OF MY RE-ELECTION TO THIS OFFICE, BUT OF MY RECEIVING AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY OVER ALL MY OPPONENTS IN THE FIRST PRIMARY. I realize, however, the uncertainty of human hopes, so right now, while the issue is still in doubt, and before you have placed the stamp either of approval or of disapproval upon my past record, I want every man and woman to know that regardless of the outcome of the present election, I appreciate with a sincerity deeper than I know how to express, the hearty good fellowship with which my attempts to serve you have been greeted. WHETHER I AM CONTINUED IN OFFICE OR NOT, I WANT YOU TO KNOW THAT MY LIFE HAS BEEN MADE FULLER AND MORE COMPLETE BY REASON OF THE OPPORTUNITY FOR SERVICE WHICH YOU HAVE ALREADY GIVEN ME.

I again solicit and urge your continued confidence and cooperation, and renew my pledge to serve you faithfully and constructively throughout a second term of office.

CENTENARY BOXERS HOLD TULANE TEAM TO DRAW

TWO KNOCKOUTS WON BY GENTS IN MEET WITH WAVE

Manteris Beats Hudson In Three-Rounder; Dean Kayoes Miller

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 18.—(AP)—A series of left hooks that found their mark in the first 50-seconds after the opening gong gave Willard Dean a one-round knockout victory over Ray Miller of Tulane university on the Centenary-Tulane program at the Barksdale Field gymnasium tonight. Dean scored two knockdowns before the bout ended, and both were by left hooks. The Centenary student weighed 187 pounds and his opponent tipped the scale at 201 pounds.

Eight bouts were staged and each team won three, with two draws. All the bouts were fast and interesting.

Arthur "Boy" Blue gave Centenary a winning start by punching his way to victory over Floyd Newlin in every round of their three-round bout. They are 116 pounds.

Linton Bonner, Centenary lightweight, scored a two-round technical knockout over Jake Gules of Tulane when the bout was stopped after the visitor had been knocked down twice.

Mike Blandino spotted Nick Keenan of Tulane eight pounds and held him to a three-round draw in the welterweight class.

George Manteris, 161 pounder of Tulane, won from Paul Hudson, 157, in a close match and Calvin Benedict, after being knocked down in the second round by Oscar Bailey of Centenary, rallied to win a three-round decision. They are 161 pounds.

Clyde Jackson, 127 pounder, and Louis Phillips of Centenary boxed a fast three-round draw.

Cameron Gamble produced a dandy left jab to pile up points on Phil Lush of Centenary and score an easy three-round victory. They are lightweight.

Despite the heavy snow-storm the bouts were witnessed by about 1,000 fans.

Captain Michel Maroun of the Tulane team was present but did not box because Centenary did not have a lightweight scrapper available for him.

YANKS GET THEIR SOUTHPAW HITTER

Acquisition Of Johnson Rounds Out Outfield McCarthy Sought

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The Yankees, who have not succeeded in obtaining much-desired infield reinforcements, finally have acquired a left-handed hitter to round out their outfield forces. He is Roy Johnson, obtained from Washington yesterday in a two-for-two swap.

The trade also involved Jesse Hill, a speedy outfielder but a right-hander, and Jimmy DeShong, relief hurler, who go to the Senators, and Irving (Bump) Hadley, veteran flinger who comes to the Yanks along with Johnson.

Joe McCarthy, Yankee manager, has been eyeing Johnson since he got into difficulty last summer with Joe Cronin, Boston manager. He couldn't swing a deal with the Red Sox, however, and the player was sent to Washington with Carl Reynolds in the trade for Heinie Manush.

Johnson, who batted .315 for the Red Sox last year, is slated to compete with George Selkirk, regular right-fielder last year, and young Joe Di Maggio for the two available places in the Yankee outfield. Ben Chapman is considered a fixture in center.

Both DeShong, who formerly hurled for the Athletics, and Hill are expected to do better in their new surroundings. The pitcher may benefit by the opportunity to work more regularly, while Hill should get more hits in Griffith stadium, where the short left field fence provides a better target than the Yankee stadium barrier.

The Giants also entered the player market, disposing of a couple of pitchers to the Braves. Jim Chaplin, who had several trials in New York, and Sharkey Eiland, a young and promising southpaw, went to Boston. Both played for Nashville in the Southern association last year.

Beware! Gashouse Boys—American League Umpires Are 210-Pound 6-Footers

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(AP)—When an American league umpire gives a truculent player the icy stare next summer the offender had better go back to the bench like a good boy.

Although he laughingly insists it merely happened, President Will Harridge, a stickler for law enforcement, has lined up an umpiring staff of huskies and strong-arm men. They average 210 pounds and almost six feet high.

The addition of Cal Hubbard, hefty lineman for the Green Bay pro foot-so he fought. He got a "shiner." When he came up to get married the priest said: "Well, I see Ellen (Mrs. Summers) already has been working on you."

Louis Kolls ran for sheriff at Rock Island, Ill. He got beat and decided to be the law anyway. He became an umpire, backing up his decisions with 200 pounds of muscle.

Dubbed By A Brick
No one can intimidate Clarence (Brick) Owens. When he started umpiring, a disgruntled spectator hit him with a brick. They've been calling him Brick ever since. Once he was ball Packers, has added weight to President Harridge's demand that ball players conduct themselves like gentlemen. Cal weighs 240 and is 6-feet-2. He's a sociable person, but don't get him riled up. When Cal played football for Geneva College, he got sore in a game and put six ends and seven tackles out of commission. If the Chicago Cubs and Detroit Tigers meet in the 1936 World Series, look for Cal by the Cub dugout in the first game.

Johnson, Quinn Tough
Charles Johnson and John Quinn, recently named arbiters, scale only around 175 pounds. But don't get too tough with them. They say Johnson works out daily by throwing heavy weights, and that Quinn once threw a giant bull without trying.

Bill Summers probably is the handsomest man of the staff with his fists. Bill was a pro boxer but quit to please his girl friend, the present Mrs. Summers. The day before the wedding, he was offered $250 to box just once more. He needed the money shot in the hand. Instead of going to a hospital, he umpired anyway—and for 30 cents. Brick, a 6-footer, weighs 215.

Bill Dinneen, a 230-pounder standing 6-feet-1, can't find enough rough stuff in baseball, so he goes in for football in a big way. Yet, he's a noted baker of delicious pies.

Emmett (Red) Ormsby, weight 215 pounds and height 6 feet, should know how to handle the "kids." He has 11 of his own. Red served with the United States Marines in France and was gassed in the Argonne Drive.

George (Who Said That?) Mortary needs no introduction. The Cub discovered "Big George" last fall. Bill McGowan and Harry Geisel aren't exactly "softies." American league players not only respect their physical equipment and judgment but say they really are artists in applying the icy stare.

"Will American league players be good in 1936?"
If they get too fresh, they can't say they weren't warned.

Brundage Says Only True Champs On Olympic Teams

Head Of U. S. Committee Points Out Benefits Of Athletic Games

(This is another of the series on 1936 prospects written by America's outstanding sports leader. It is the second of two articles by the head of the American Olympic organization.)

By Avery Brundage
(President, American Olympic Committee)
CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Only the champion of champions will make the Olympic team.

To become a champion an athlete must go through a process which inevitably trains character as well as physique. He learns that bluff won't do because bluff won't win on the track, field, or wrestling mat, or in the swimming pool or boxing ring. He learns that bluff won't break records. He learns that in athletic sports the man who can jump the highest or run the fastest, and not the man who can talk the loudest or the man who has the most money, will win.

If a man wishes to become a champion he must persevere. He must be willing and able to work hard and fight doggedly. He must be able to observe himself intelligently, to regard mistakes as new lessons, to be a good loser. He must attribute failure to his own insufficiency, make greater and greater demands upon himself and never cease trying.

Back of the small number of Olympic champions are the many lesser champions, the hundreds of near champions, the thousands of would-be champions and finally the hundreds of spectators. While his experience is vicarious, the benefits derived by the spectator are by no means inconsequential. His admiration of the performers on the field has its reflection in his own conduct and character.

Several thousands athletes and officials mingling for a period of two or three weeks in an atmosphere of friendship and competitive achievement against a background of good sportsmanship, must have an effect on the lives of the individuals and through these individuals upon nations. Here is the real significance of the Olympic games.

Recently Jim Thorpe, considered by many the greatest American all-around athlete of all time, made a statement which should be given widespread publicity since he truly expressed the Olympic philosophy. This may surprise those who would expect this great Indian athlete to harbor some resentment because his was deprived of the Olympic medal he won in 1912 when he lost his amateur standing. That he didn't demonstrate the verity of Olympic principles.

Thorpe said: "The Olympic games and their historical atmosphere form almost a religion, a religion that includes the youth of every nation in the world, a religion that calls for cleanliness, high thinking, fair play and above all, comradeship."

Closer competition than ever before faces our athletes in Germany. Men and women are entered with larger entries and abler performers. Organized amateur sport has spread to the four quarters of the globe. Our supremacy in previous Olympic games convinces the other nations of the world that the United States team is the one that will have to be beaten, and they hope to accomplish it.

There is a rapidly growing interest in winter sports in the United States since the third winter games were held in Lake Placid. Full teams have already sailed for Garmisch-Partenkirchen and we believe that they will uphold American traditions.

TWOMEY APPOINTED ASSISTANT AT TEXAS

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The University of Texas board of regents today approved appointment of Ted Twomey, former Notre Dame star, as football line coach. Twomey now is line coach at the University of Kentucky.

Twomey was advised of the action immediately and ordered to report at his earliest convenience. He will participate in spring training.

The appointment was approved by the board of regents in a telegraphic poll conducted by the Regents' Athletic committee. Twomey's appointment was recommended unanimously by the athletic council.

Twomey succeeds Tim Moynihan, former Notre Dame center, who served as line coach two years. Moynihan said shortly after the first of the year he would not return to Texas but would seek a head coaching job if he could not obtain one would go into business.

Twomey finished playing for Notre Dame in 1923. He was regarded by the late Knute Rockne as one of the finest tackles in Irish grid history.

KENTUCKY AGAIN DEFEATS TULANE

Greenies Lead By Four Points At Half But Can't Hold Pace

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Tulane's Greenies, swamped beneath a 49 to 24 defeat by Kentucky's basketball team Friday night, threw a scare into the Wildcats tonight when the teams met in their second game but could not hold the pace established in the first half and again Kentucky won, 39 to 21.

It was not until the last ten minutes of the game however, that the Wildcats clinched the decision. By then the New Orleans players were tired and weakened by the loss of two players on personal fouls. Kentucky used a number of fresh players to pull away to a comfortable margin.

Tulane led at the half time, 17 to 13, after a hard fought first half during which Kentucky was never able to gain the lead. Five points scored on free throws enabled the Wildcats to keep within striking distance during the initial period. The Wildcats tied the count at 17 points soon after the second half was under way, drew to 20 to 18 lead after five minutes of action and were never behind again.

ATTRACTS FAST TRIO
NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Ten American thoroughbreds have raced a mile and a quarter in 2:02 or faster. Three of them are eligible for California's 1936 Santa Anita Handicap, February 22. The list:

Whiskbroom II, 2 minutes flat (official world record but disputed).
Sarazen, 2:00 4-5 (unofficial American record).
Discovery, 2:01 1-5.
Omaha, 2:01 2-5.
Sun Beau, 2:01 3-5.
Man-O-War, 2:01 4-5.
Twenty Grand, 2:01 4-5.
Equipoise, 2:02.
Azucar, 2:02.
Head Play, 2:02.

enter the select circle of horses that have won more than $200,000 during their racing careers.

Not since Equipoise, Twenty Grand and Mate bowed out after trailing Azucar in last year's inaugural of the rich stake has the American turf seen a horse which has won that much.

The thoroughbreds having a chance to boost their winnings to that total on February 22 are Discovery, Azucar, Cavalcade, Ladysman, Top Row, Head Play, Time Supply and Singing Wood.

Each is a first class horse and it is extremely likely the winner will come from this group.

Discovery The Favorite
Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Discovery, of course, is the favorite to win the Santa Anita, despite his top impost of 130 pounds. Discovery has won approximately $160,000 during his career, and has raced the fastest mile and a quarter—2:01 1-5—of any of the nominees.

Fred M. Alger, Jr., Azucar, surprise winner last year, has earned a total of about $135,000, though he has not won a race since his major triumph. Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Cavalcade, three-year-old champion in 1934, has a total of $125,000.

Ladysman, which was second to Azucar last year and has a brilliant victory over Equipoise to his credit, was juvenile champion in 1932 and

MINNESOTA AGAIN WINS TOLEDO CUP

Gophers Named Mythical Gridiron Champs By 250 Sports Editors

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(Special)—Running nearly 3 to 1 against combined opposition, Minnesota's football team has again won the Toledo cup, symbol of mythical gridiron championship. Presentation of the cup and its accompanying trophies took place Saturday night during the basketball game in the university's big field house in Minneapolis.

The 250 sports editors of leading newspapers, who comprise the judges committee, performed this year the radical feat of reversing, in the final ballot, the order of their vote in the preliminary ballot. The first vote brought to the front Minnesota, Princeton and Southern Methodist, placed in their final vote the judges placed S. M. U. ahead of Princeton. The final ballot ran Minnesota 168, Southern Methodist 46, Princeton 22.

Amateur sportsmen in Toledo, who donate the cup, announced in its first year, 1935, that it would become the permanent property of any college winning it three times in succession.

Minnesota now has two legs on the trophy. With it goes a slender emblem, which remains in the possession of the victors, and a scroll signed by the award committee—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Gustavus Town Kirby, Harford Powell, L. W. St. John, Wilbur C. Smith, Avery Brundage, D. A. Penick, Stewart Edward White and Westbrook Pegler, secretary.

Insofar as the reliability of this method of choice goes, the committee points out that the Minnesota received 71 per cent of the vote, S. M. U. 19 per cent, and Princeton 10. Thus out of every ten judges, seven will be satisfied with the verdict—a higher percentage of agreement than mythical national awards usually obtain.

SPEAKER TO ASSIST SMALL FIGHT CLUBS

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—(AP)—This speaker at bat again.

This time it's with an idea for the diamond, which he wants to apply to the square ring.

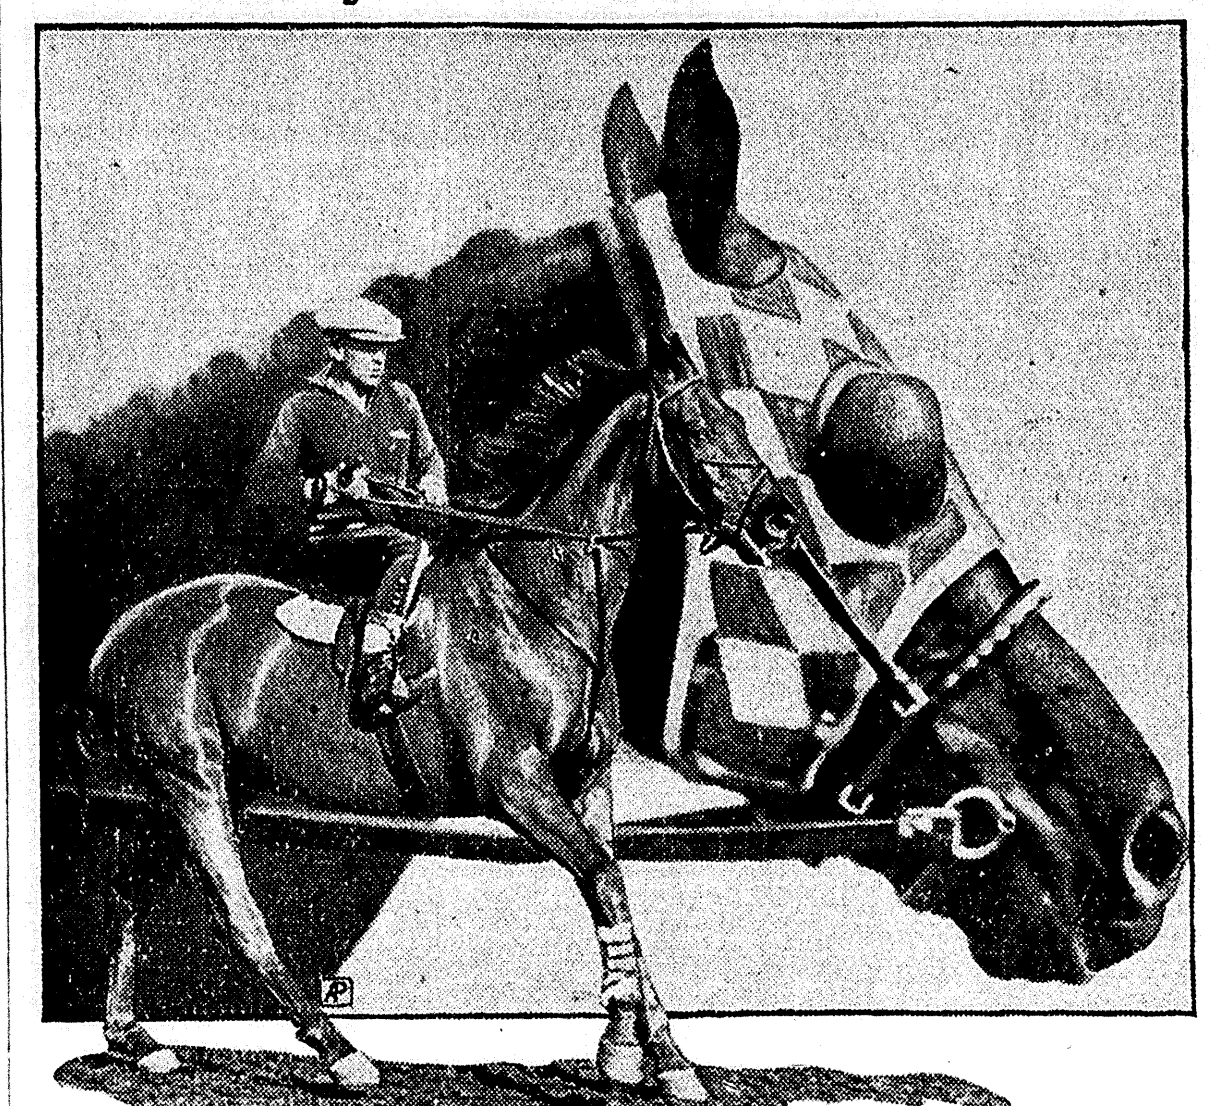

He took over his duties as chairman of the Cleveland Boxing commission recently, and today he outlined one of the principles he hopes to bring into local fistfighting:

"Give the small promoter a chance." He said "Give him a chance to put on small shows and develop the youngsters. To me, it's like running 'em up from the minors to the majors."

"Baseball needs the minors for its material, and boxing needs the small shows to find the lads who some day will break into the big shows."

The way to help the small promoter, he explained, is to give him some cooperation in cutting down the overhead, particularly when two referees, two timekeepers, two doctors and a large business personnel hardly seem warranted by the size of the program.

Winner Of Santa Anita Handicap Likely To Be '200-Grand' Horse

has won about $120,000. Top Row, twice conqueror of Discovery, has won $110,000.

Older Horses Dominate
Nominations for the Santa Anita indicate that owners consider the event strictly a race for older horses. The only thoroughbred prominent in the 1935 three-year-old campaign nominated is Hal Price Headley's Whopper, which has been dubbed "America's ugliest horse." But, under only 110 pounds, Whopper is a dangerous threat, though decidedly a "dark horse" in the field.

As for the 1935 juveniles, only two of the better ones have been nominated for the Santa Anita. They are The Fighter and Valdeictorian, and are conceded slight chances of upsetting the handicap stars.

BROWNIES LEAVE FOR INVASION OF MISSOURI VALLEY

Safety Firsts Meet Strongest Clubs Of A. A. U. During Week

The Safety First cagers of the Brown Paper mill left yesterday for Tulsa, Okla., where they open a seven game schedule with teams in the powerful Missouri Valley A. A. U. circuit. Their first game will be played tonight against Tulsa Tires, formerly known as Tulsa Oilers and former world champions.

Tomorrow night they play Kansas City, and follow up with a game Tuesday night against the Warrenburg Teachers. They will meet Hutchinson Renos on Wednesday night, and Wichita's Gridleys formerly the champion Henrys, on Thursday. They then start back toward home meeting Hutchinson again at Leland, Kan., Friday, and end their invasion Saturday against the powerful Globe Refiners of McPherson, Kans.

The Globe Refiners, champions of the Missouri Valley A. A. U. were here a little over a week ago and won a two-game series from the Brownies, beating them 46 to 42 in the first engagement and 53 to 30 in the next.

The Missouri Valley furnishes just about the cream of the nation's basketball teams and the Brownies are taking on a heavy load.

The players making the tour are Manager Carey Phillips, Gene Francis, Pal May, Tarlton Jones, Oliver Parham, Clyde Evans, and Ed Lanier.

Of eight games played thus far this month the Brownies have been down and under five times. Their only victories this month have been two at Louisiana Tech's expense by 43 to 26 and 46 to 30 scores, and one victory over the Baldwin Independents of Baldwin, Miss.

Previous to beating Baldwin, the Independents had beaten Brown three times by very narrow margins. In Mississippi earlier in the month, Baldwin beat the Papermakers on successive nights, 28 to 26 and 24 to 23. The Brownies then came home to lose the two games to Globe Refiners. Last week Baldwin's Independents paid the locals a return visit, beating the Papermakers in the first engagement, 28 to 26, but losing out in the next skirmish Thursday night, by a 55 to 35 score.

KALLIO, MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMP, TO WRESTLE HERE

TITLEHOLDER TO MEET STEELE IN NON-TITLE BOUT

Stellar Match Is Feature Of Wednesday Program At Stadium

Gus Kallio, middleweight champion of the world, will wrestle Henry Steele, the former Masked Marvel, in the main event of the weekly mat show at Roosevelt stadium Wednesday night. Promoter Charlie Bruscatto announced last night.

It will be an overweight match, and Kallio's title will not be at stake. Kallio agreed to risk his crown against Steele but the tough Indiana grappler could make the weight on such short notice.

Steele, who is one of the roughest performers seen at the stadium in many months, has been making things hot for his opponents here during the past month and a half. Last week he tried to subdue Don McNaught and Referee Butch Martin at the same time and came out second best, receiving a two-inch cut over his eye and a split lip for his trouble. Following the match, Steele complained bitterly about what he called the "frame-up" and ended his oration by daring Bruscatto to bring the best wrestler available and he would show the customers how good he (Steele) was.

Bruscatto immediately attempted to contact LeRoy McGuirk, light heavyweight champion, to throw him in there Wednesday night. He next turned to Kallio, the middleweight titleholder, and was more successful. The promoter hiked his guarantee and Kallio agreed to take the match.

Kallio will weigh 167 pounds when he enters the ring against the tough Mr. Steele and he'll be able to give the former Marvel all he wants.

Kallio is a real know-it-all to local fans. He has shown here twice in the past four years, and last summer many local fans went to Arcadia to see his championship match before the homefolks.

The middleweight champion is said to be the cleverest grappler in the game today as far as scientific wrestling is concerned. Many contend that he can beat most of the heavyweights in the business, and only the fact that he doesn't weigh enough has kept him from being heavyweight champion.

Kallio gave two great exhibitions in his previous appearances here. He knows all the holds and works with such precision that it is a pleasure to watch him in action. He's exceptionally fast and ordinarily relies strictly on scientific wrestling to win.

When advised that he would face a champion Wednesday night, Steele appeared unconcerned. He expressed confidence that he would beat Kallio. "If he knows me, I'll win the other way," he said. "I can promise a tough evening for Kallio. I've been in the business a number of years myself and know plenty of tricks of the game."

Bruscatto said he was attempting to line up a good semi-final match to make it an all-star card.

The Kallio-Steele match will be best two of three falls with a two-hour time limit. Officials for the big show have not been announced.

SHUTE FIRST IN TROPIC TOURNEY

Veteran Chicago Pro Cops Top Prize In Two Divisions Of Meet

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 18.—(P)—Denny Shute, veteran Chicago professional added 3 under par 69 to the like figure he had yesterday for 138, to take the $200 top prize in the regular division of the 36-hole, 5,500-foot open golf tournament here today.

Shute also topped first money, $250, in the "half stroke putt" category, an experiment designed to remove the emphasis from the green and place it on tee approach shots. His score, counting putts as half strokes only, was 115.

Three strokes back of Shute, was a fellow Chicagoan, towering Frank Walsh, who shared the 18 hole lead but slipped to 72, even par, today. Walsh also came second in the half stroke putt affair, with 115 1/2, collecting $300 in all.

Three golfers were tied for third place with 144, collecting $50 each. They were Leonard Davidson, Pembroke, Wis., Joe Turney, Elmford, N. Y., and Dick Metz, Chicago.

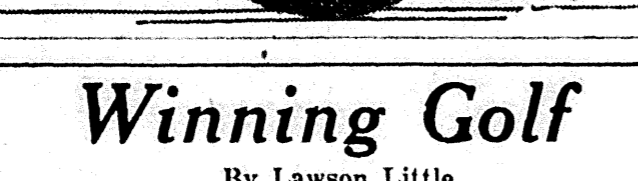

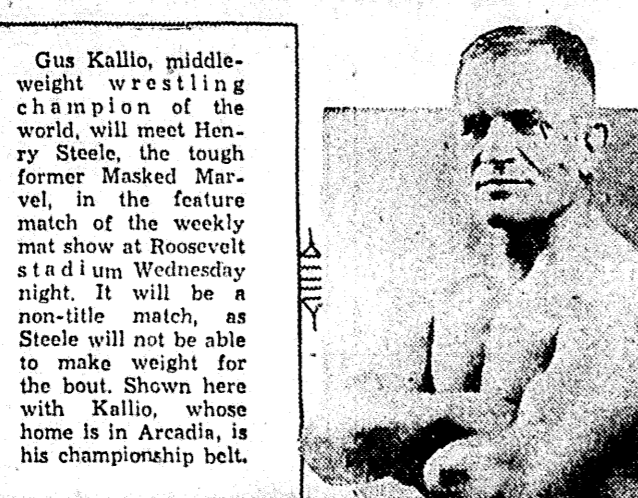

Metz won third prize in the half stroke putt division, receiving $100. Winner in the amateur division was Charles Whitehead, South River N. J., victor last week in the midwinter amateur, who had 77 and 73 for 150, seven strokes ahead of the amateur field.

Lafayette Moore, New York Yankee pitcher; Waite Hoyt, Pittsburgh hurler; and Nick Kenny, Broadway singer withdrew today after disastrous rounds yesterday. Buddy Rogers, movie player and bandleader, stuck it out however, finishing with 97-96-103.

Two noted women golfers, Helen Hicks, professional, and Maureen O'Connell, amateur, who entered with the men, finished far back. Miss Hicks had 91 and 87 for 178, while Mrs. O'Connell finished with 80-90-176.

Other professionals, who finished in the money included: At 145, collecting $65, Frank Kringle, Linden, N. J., and Ralph Stonehouse, Indianapolis. At 146, winning $40, Gene Kunes, Philadelphia. John Watson, South Bend, Ind., and Ralph Kingrud, Fargo, N. D.

CHAMPION TO WRESTLE HERE

Winning Golf

By Lawson Little

Under the new all-match-play system in the Amateur championship, the exciting play-offs of ties for last place in the qualifying round are no longer allowed in this tournament, but they are present in practically all other amateur competitions. These play-offs are probably the most heart-breaking parts of the tournaments. I have seen as many as twelve players draw off the first tee at dusk, one right after the other, all shaking in their shoes and wondering if they would be fortunate enough to get into the select thirty-two; their minds full of the three-putt green that caused them to be in this trying position.

I remember well, once hitting a six-inch putt with one hand, missing it, and then finding myself in the play-off on the first tee with eight others. It taught me a valuable lesson—to be careful on all putts, no matter how short.

There are hundreds of tournaments each year where the qualifying system is used, and I don't believe there will be a substitute for it in these smaller tournaments. It was changed in the National championship because there were too many entries and the competition too keen to eliminate the match play field to 32-players. The 1933 championship was the last to use the qualifying system. There were only 9 strokes between the medalist, Johnny Fisher who set a new all-time record of 141, and those who were forced to play off for the last place.

The two finalists, George Dunlap and Max Marston, won their right into the match play field by successfully surviving the play-off.

In the smaller tournaments the qualifying rounds will be continued because they add a great deal of zest to the meet and the competition is not strong enough to make the qualifying too difficult for the players who are the drawing cards in match play.

The Little System I have been fortunate in the many play-offs which have forced me to the first tee when I would rather have been elsewhere. I believe that there is a system for playing these nerve-racking play-offs, and I have used this system to good advantage.

I have first found out how many are in the play-off, and how many vacancies there are to be filled. Then I guess how many players should get birdies, pars and over-pars on the first hole. I do this by determining the number of birdies, pars and over-pars I have had on the hole in the number of times I have played it. The difficulty of the hole, of course, has a great deal to do with my figures. Then I decide what I should have to make on the first hole to stay in the play-off. I believe it is usually a poor policy to try to win a place in the tournament by going for everything on the first hole of the play-off. It usually works out better to play to stay in and let the other fellow eliminate himself. Usually the pressure of these extra hole affairs beats a few of the players on the first hole. If I am still in after the first hole, I have to make my play for the second hole—taking into account the new odds after some of the players have been eliminated.

The following table is an illustration of what I try to do under various conditions in play-offs:

No. of Players	No. of Places	If hole is play for a	If hole is Easy Par 4 1play for a	If hole is Hard Par 4 1play for a	If hole is Par 5 1play for a
8	6	Par	Par	Par	Par
8	5	Par	Par	Par	Par
8	4	Par	Par	Par	Par

8	3	Birdie or Par	Birdie or Par	Par	(Birdie if Possible)
8	2	Birdie	Birdie	Par	Birdie
8	1	Birdie	Birdie	Birdie	Birdie

Head Play was the great horse when he won the Preakness, May 13, 1933—maybe the chestnut always was when truly sound.

Nevertheless, Charley Kurtsinger aided Head Play to turn in the most amazing performance in the history of the Preakness since Man o' War's victory of 13 years before. It was the ease with which the son of My Play beat a good field on a holding track that made his triumph so unusual.

Because of Kurtsinger, Head Play performed as well as 50 per cent better than he had been a week previously.

Head Play was purchased for Mrs. Silas B. Mason from Mrs. William Crump, wife of the former governor, the night before the Kentucky derby. Head Play was the only animal in the Crump stable. Willie Crump trained him.

Head Play was the favorite in the derby, but the change of handlers did him no good. He was beaten a nostril by Brokers Tip in the most sensational finish in the long history of the large number at Churchill Downs.

Jockeys Don Meade, aboard Brokers Tip, and Harp Fisher, astride Head Play, were suspended for fighting and grabbing bridges in the stretch. Harp Fisher was argued about the result ever since.

Head Play was sent to the Preakness to avenge his defeat by Brokers Tip. He was made ready for the race the night before, for several reasons.

Head Play had not-up until noon of Preakness day—selected a jockey.

Jockey Draws Mental Map At noon, Kurtsinger, who rocketed to fame on the withers of Twenty to One, was the only animal in the Crump stable. Willie Crump trained him.

Kurtsinger had never ridden Head Play. He knew little about him, beyond the raging controversy which had sprung up since the derby. He did know, however, that Head Play had a reputation as a notorious bad actor, that he had come from a one-horse barn into a string of 30 or more, that he had a long training grind, a hard race the previous week, and a train ride.

TURNER OUT AS ATHLETIC HEAD

Rogers New High School Leader; Class A District Divided

ALEXANDRIA, La., Jan. 18.—(P)—P. C. Rogers of Homer was elected president of the State High School Athletic association here this afternoon at the annual meeting of the organization. He succeeds C. B. Turner of Baton Rouge who served as president for the past eight years.

J. M. Boyett of Vinton, was named vice-president and Grover C. Kauffman of Byrd High school, Shreveport, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The association created two class "A" north Louisiana districts for football championship play-offs. The Rock Island railroad was made the dividing line and the following schools are in the northeast district:

Bolton of Alexandria, Ouchita and Neville of Monroe, Bastrop, Ruston, Winnfield, Tallulah, Lake Providence, Rayville, Jonesboro, Oak Grove and Mangham.

In the northwest district are: Byrd and Fair Park of Shreveport, Minden, Natchitoches, Bossier City, Mansfield, Homer, Haynesville and Vivian.

These new districts will be in effect September, 1936, but the schools will not be made to revise 1936 schedules so as to play five teams in their respective districts. However, in 1937, each school will have to play five teams in its district to be eligible for district championship honors.

The resolution for establishing class "B" schools was changed. Each school with more than 110 boys will heretofore be in class "A." A team with less than this number of boys may elect to play in class "A," but a team with a larger enrollment may not elect to be in class "B."

The body rescinded its previous action in prohibiting invitation basketball tournaments.

The New Orleans prep league and the south Louisiana district in the football championship race remained in effect as in 1935.

KID BERG SAILS SOUTH ON A BOXING MISSION

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(P)—Disappointed by failure to interest promoters in the possibility of a London contest with Tony Canzoneri, Jack (Kid) Berg has departed for South Africa.

Berg, holder of the British lightweight title, has been working on the Canzoneri proposal for months but he now realizes that there is small chance of the fight taking place.

So, with nothing else in view, he accepted a match with the South African champion, Laurie Stevens, who as an amateur won an Olympic title at Los Angeles.

LAMBUTH FIVE WINS FROM DELTA, 38-25

CLEVELAND, Miss., Jan. 18.—(P)—The Lambuth college Eagles kept their lead in the Mississippi Valley conference basketball race by defeating Delta State Teachers college tonight, 38-25.

The game was very close until the last few minutes of play. W. Deshazo, Lambuth, scored sixteen points for the victory. Lambuth Eagles won from the Cleveland Independents, 43-12.

Solem Wants Old-Style Football, Few Laterals

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 18.—(P)—Ossie Solem, the University of Iowa football coach, would like to see a return to the "old fashioned" style of football instead of so much use of the lateral pass.

"The old, hard way of football would bring more thrills to the grandstands than the present open style of play. I like the hard driving, blocking type of game, for football is essentially a game of war. Few games are won by laterals while many are lost by them," the Iowa mentor says.

Pigskin Pitcher Resolves To Do Better This Year

EAST LANSING, Mich., Jan. 18.—(P)—Albert (Agony Al) Aggett of Michigan State, who pitched six touch-down passes in the 1935 Spartan grid campaign, adopted a New Year resolution to double the count next season.

His longest scoring aerial measured 55 yards and his average was 35—and he galloped to five scores, with a 64-yard dash as the longest and 33 yards as the average.

HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Basketball, having grown up in about the same manner as the famous Tony, has now reached its majority. That is, it has made the big time at Madison Square Garden. It long has been popular in gymnasiums and small halls throughout the land.

By basketball we mean the type played by colleges. Professional basketball has been with us in a pleasant big time form for a long while. But for several reasons the college variety hasn't caught on in the same way.

One reason is that colleges have been too busy publicizing football to care much about any other sport. The second is that there never has been any union in either playing methods or rules interpretation in the various sections of the country.

Each year the coaches get together and change the rules for the so-called common good. Then they go back to their own sections and interpret them as they see fit.

As an example, take the New York university—Kentucky game. Here were two highly publicized teams, each deserving the acclaim it had been given.

Each was set on proving its superiority over the other. New York university won, but the Kentuckians went home heartless, believing an interpretation of the rules had beaten them.

Entire Systems of Play Disrupted Kentucky builds a defense which uses what might be called an impersonal block. That is, the Wildcats attempt to block without actually coming in contact with the opponent. The rules say this is legal.

But the New Yorkers don't play that sort of game. Eastern umpires will not permit such play.

The result was that Kentucky tried unsuccessfully to change its style, lost two of its best players on fouls, and was hopelessly outplayed.

The defeats of Kentucky and Purdue by N. Y. U. were naturally bitter pills to the midwestern and southern fans. The result was that the midwestern and southern fans have always believed it was responsible for the scientific development of the game.

Midwestern teams have found that while their play is singularly free and open under or near the basket, eastern umpires are willing to overlook a bit of contact under the hoop.

Some arrays on the Pacific coast and in the southwest have developed really amazing systems of blocking, the use of decoys, and players capable of handling several opponents at once. These teams find their entire system disrupted when they play in a different section of the country.

Purdue was cagy enough to take along its own referee. He and the eastern umpire talked matters over before the game and Purdue, although beaten, had no excuses to offer. And by the same token, the crowd was more popular with the crowd.

Basketball's Great Opportunity Professional boxing's decline, with its virtual relegation to a rank as a secondary sport, has given basketball a chance to go intercontinental in a big way.

But you may be sure that future will not be achieved until a change comes over the umpires.

There should be no complaints like that of Adolph Rupp, who attributes the 41-28 defeat of his Kentucky team to the fact that the New York university squad to an interpretation found nowhere else in the land.

"The rules say that it is legal to block a player who hasn't possession of the ball, if there's no contact," says Rupp. "But Umpire Jack Murray called a foul on just that type of play before the game was under way. I counted five more later on. He broke my boys' spirit. They had to change their style of play entirely. I'm not blaming Jack personally. He called them as New York officials always call them. But we won't go by the book. It is anybody's game up until the last six minutes, but when you take out Garland Lewis, center, and Warfield Donohue, guard, two of my best men, on fouls, of course we're no good."

The rules committee should do something about this next winter.

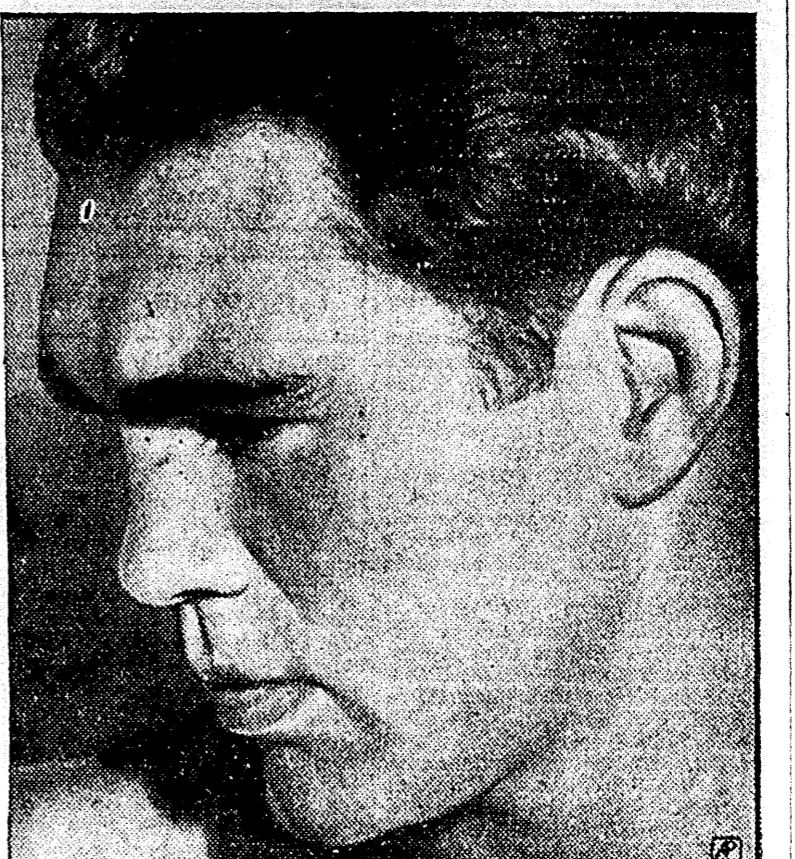

PROGRAM ADVERTISER HOPES FOR 'RESULTS'

MANHATTAN, Kas., Jan. 18.—(P)—An advertiser in the 1936 basketball program at Kansas State college has faith in the ability of the wildcat to go places this year. In place of a personal "ad" he had this printed in the space:

"This space is dedicated to the team that will replace the Kansas State basketball team as cellar champions of the Big Six."

During 1933 only 557 divers were issued in England and Wales combined for the first three law terms of 1935, the figure stood at 2,800 for the county of London alone.

Ex-Champion Claims He's Unterrified By Joe Louis

MAX SCHMELING

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—(P)—Max Schmeling, the former heavyweight champion, who not long ago called Joe Louis "amateurish," says he will have a "good chance" against the Brown Bomber.

And what is more, the German ex-champion asserts he is welcoming his coming fight with Louis "to allay the nonsense in America that I'm afraid of him."

Schmeling said as much on his return from New York, where he looked over his next opponent, against Paulino Uzcudun, and signed the necessary papers.

His trainer, Max Machon, said much more. To him Max is the "White Hope" Jack Dempsey and others are looking for.

Max, The Unterrified "Max knows his job," Machon proclaimed. "He knows that Louis never has had an opponent who fought systematically and with cold precision."

He doesn't under-estimate Louis, but he doesn't fear him at all. Louis fight with Paulino showed nothing. The negro waited for a good chance, and spared his power until then.

"Sports writers in New York think Schmeling hasn't a chance against Louis; there is but one 'White Hope'—that is Max Schmeling. Remember that even the slow Paulino landed two rights to Louis' chin."

"The negro must not let that happen when Max is around."

Max's amen to that, however, was enigmatic.

"Nothing Venture—There's an old saying that I believe: 'It is better to risk and lose than never to risk at all.'"

Schmeling will cross the Atlantic for the 21st time in April to begin careful training. He has not yet chosen his training partners of quarters—but he wants "to show the people what's going on."

Strange how the thread of old Harry Vardon's golf magic runs through the fabric of American golf. Only a few days ago a 100 per cent American, by name Willie Klein, who was born in New Hyde Park, Long Island, demolished all scoring records for south Florida's oldest classic, winning the Miami open with a score of 272.

It would seem a far cry from Harry of the mammoth hands, to the big blond of Wheatley Hills and Florida—Klein. But there is a direct line of relationship.

Years ago, in old England, Frank Ballwood, was an assistant to Harry Huggins up with the Vardon grip, that special parade of fingers, laid carefully on a golf shaft, which has become a standard of the world as a golfing grip.

Later Ballwood came to this country and settled on Salisbury Plains, that wind swept area of Long Island which comprises several of this country's most famous golf courses, the Garden City Golf club, Meadow Brook, Salisbury, Cherry Valley, Garden City Country club and others, and is also the hub of aviation interest, with Roosevelt field and Mitchell field nearby.

As a youngster Klein was apprentice to Ballwood, and developing into a fine stylist, became one of the big hopes of post-war American professional golf. At the age of 21 he won the Long Island open at Cherry Valley, and repeated the following year at the Garden City Country club so that he apparently was destined for a prominent place with the rising stars of the game.

But something went haywire in Klein's machinery and except for meteoric flashes, he languished on the verge of obscurity. Of course, the golfing world will remember one of his most sensational days, that summer afternoon in 1925 at Shawnee when he puttered to the turn with a mediocre 33, only to rise suddenly to the peak of greatness, shooting a spectacular 29 for the back nine, to overhaul man after man and land in a deadlock with Willie Macfarlane for the first prize money. Subsequently, he bowed to the Aberdeen Scot in a play-off.

As Kurtsinger Planned It Head Play was certain to act badly at the post.

Possibly, he would be sent to the outside. That suited Kurtsinger. Head Play had a world of early speed, and on the outside he was not likely to break in a tangle. If he could beat the pack to the first turn, he would have clear sailing, and his only problem would be to rate the colts so that he would have something left for a closing challenge.

So while the crowd jeered and booed as Head Play was sent to the outside because of his refusal to enter the stall gate, Kurtsinger smiled to himself.

Head Play did outrun the others to the first turn.

MEHLHORN HOLDS SACRAMENTO LEAD

Barron One Stroke Back Of Veteran's 142 With Nelson Third

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 18.—(P)—The only thing wild about "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn today was his shirt—a screaming black and white pattern—and the broad-shouldered cowboy of the fairways held on to his lead in the $3,000 Sacramento Open at the 36-hole point.

The Kentucky golf master, playing down the middle most of the time and overcoming a lapse or two with birdie comebacks, duplicated his 71, which put him in the lead on the 71, 18 holes yesterday.

One stroke behind Mehlhorn's 142 came Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., who picked up a 70 to put with his 73 of yesterday. He shot the most flawless golf of the day, getting two 35's. He missed a green and went down in two putts on every green except two, where one putt on each gave him two birdies sparkling among 16 pars.

Two strokes back of the leader came young Byron Nelson of Ridgeview, N. J., with a 69 and a 36-hole score of 145.

Nelson, turning in the best 18-hole score of the tournament, collected 13 pars and four birdies. He snared his first birdie four at the second with a 10-foot putt, and another birdie four with a 15-footer at the seventh. A fine approach and a three-foot putt gave him a birdie three at the 14th and he carded a 33 for the 18-hole, par 36, tenth for another birdie three.

Mehlhorn shot the second 18 holes in 36-35, one under par, getting a birdie four on the 450-yard, par 5, second hole by laying an approach dead after missing his second shot. He slipped one over par with a bogey 5 on the fourth, missing another second shot, and thereafter bagged par after par except for the 340-yard, par 5, tenth. There he coupled a four-foot putt with a beautiful approach for his second birdie.

On the SIDELINES

By Edward J. Neil

Intercontinental basketball rivalry of the sort that packs 18,000 rabid spectators into Madison Square Garden for every game is certain to have its effect on playing styles. It promises to standardize style and to earmark, definitely, a few certain "schools" of basketball, such as the Warner and Rockne systems in football.

Already there are "schools" of basketball named after their chief exponents: Dr. Walter Meenwell, former Wisconsin coach; Dr. F. C. (Phog) Allen, University of Kansas; George Keogan of Notre Dame, etc.

The man of the hour in the east now is Howard (Red) Green of New York university. The visiting basketball squadrons that tie into his basketball Violets usually go away with a thorough lesson in basketball. The natural thing is to copy the better features of the successful outsider's plan.

There are also fast-breaking and fast-breaking attacks, the pivot-post or whirling-derby plays, the zone and man-for-man defenses and many others. Change of pace is the best practice in enlightened basketball circles and coach Cain presents variety.

Phog Allen of Kansas came up one year with a combination zone and man-for-man defense to which he applied the highly descriptive name of "satisfying snuffing zone defense." In simpler language, the boys played "for a time and then went into some other routine to fit the needs as they arose."

The Meenwell short-pass game first introduced approximately 15 years ago was the rage for awhile. Then the fast-breakers and the slow-breakers had their arguments, with farcical results at times when they tied into each other. Rule-makers called for a clamp on the post-play under the basket, requiring the post-man to depart from the free throw circle or let himself of the ball within three seconds after receipt. This year no man can stay inside the same area more than three seconds at a time, with or without the ball.

The up-to-the-minute coaches countered this new regulation by stationing post players at either side of the basket. It is a rapidly progressing game and the rule changes keep the coaches on their toes. Alumni even have been known to howl for the scraps of losing basketball coaches.

Fire Department Basketball George Edwards, the Missouri coach, who has had unusual success without a great deal in the way of material, is a fox fellow when it comes to playing old rival Phog Allen. He maps out the strategy for every man separately, because each presents a different problem. He knocked off the high-rising Kansas Jayhawks last season, thus beating them out of the Big Six conference championship, which Iowa State won.

One of the chief exponents of "fire department," or harrum-scarum, devil-may-care basketball, is Gene Johnson, coach of the national A. A. U. runner-up team last season. Gene decided one time that basketball systems were a lot of popycock, so he junked them and told his boys merely to hawk the ball and run the opposition ragged.

CRITZ SITTING PRETTY GREENWOOD, Miss., Jan. 18.—Hughie Critz, released by the New York Giants, has no financial worries. The former second baseman is president of an automobile and tractor company here and a good annual salary and his cotton plantings last year yielded a $10,000 crop.

FREAK TORNADO KILLS 4 PERSONS

Several Others Injured As Storm Hits 3 Places In Alabama

FORT PAYNE, Ala., Jan. 18.—(AP)—A freakish tornado dipped at three points on the prosperous slope of Sand mountain near here today, killing four persons, injuring several others and causing several thousands of dollars in property damage.

The tornado that slapped at Sand mountain struck by several hours two that struck in east central Alabama causing injury to five persons and extensive property damage.

Those killed were: Claude Portwood, 36, a farmer, near Fayette.

Mrs. Claude Portwood, 32, near Fayette.

Randolph Rowell, 87, of Morgan's crossroads.

Janet Rowell, 7, of Morgan's crossroads.

The injured: Adolph Rowell, 40, of Morgan's crossroads, condition critical from spinal injury.

J. L. Rowell, 4, son of Adolph, condition serious from fractured skull.

Miss Willie Dawson, 30, of Rainsville, seriously injured.

Doris Crawford, one, near Columbiana, condition serious.

Four others near Columbiana slightly hurt.

The tornado that swept Sand mountain "hedge hopped" over a distance of about 10 miles, dipping to earth three times to wreak destruction, then lifting.

The twister struck the Portwood home first, demolishing it and pinning the couple in the debris, then lifted to dip again four miles further on at the Rowell home. Five miles away it dipped again to destroy all but one residence in the village of Rainsville.

J. M. Smith, mortician, who went to the scene, said the path of the storm was about 100 yards wide, "maybe less" and that it swept along the ground only for short distances at each point.

A check of the area was delayed by washed out roads due to the torrential rains that accompanied the storm. First reports indicated the heavily populated and prosperous eastern slope of Sand mountain might have been swept for some distance.

METHODIST MISSIONARY GROUPS TO MEET SOON

HOMER, La., Jan. 18.—(Special)—Approximately 300 members of Methodist missionary societies of the five zones of the Ruston district will meet here in an all-day session next Thursday. The meeting will open at 9:45 a.m.

Mrs. George Sexton of Shreveport, state president of the society, will be the principal speaker of the morning program, which will be in charge of Mrs. Ed Gillon of Ringgold, district secretary.

An officers' training school will be held in the afternoon.

Leaders of the zones are: Mrs. T. L. McCarty of Hilly, Mrs. A. E. Woodard of Ringgold, Mrs. Fred Galloway of Jonesboro, Mrs. O. H. Futrell of Choudrant, and Mrs. Guy Kinnebrew of Homer.

NEVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NAMES YEARBOOK STAFF

Officers of the 1936 Monrovia of Neville High school have just been elected and are as follows: Mary Elizabeth Smith, class historian; Margaret Ann Dennis, class poet; John Reitzell, class lawyer; Richard Sackett, class prophet. These will serve in honorary capacity along with other members of the staff.

This time the yearbook will contain a popularity section with the prettiest girl, handsomest boy, most popular boy and girl, typical senior and other selections from various groupings.

There will be a large number of pictures contained in the book.

Arabs and natives of some parts of the world are particularly fond of eating earthworms.

PREDICT BOYCOTT WILL FALL FLAT

Officials Believe Proposed Oil
Sanctions Will Not Be Taken Up

GENEVA, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Officials of the League of Nations predicted tonight that the greatly advertised proposed oil boycott against Italy would not see the light of day at a meeting of the council beginning Monday.

Great Britain, they pointed out, seems opposed to any British initiative toward imposing new sanctions. Premier Pierre Laval of France has always regarded the oil sanction with disfavor.

Soviet Russia is occupied with its appeal to the league against Uruguay's action in breaking off diplomatic relations with her. Other powers, it was said, are likely to follow the lead of the big ones.

Two impressions prevail at Geneva toward Monday's session.

The first is that existing economic sanctions are slowly but surely hindering Premier Mussolini's capacity to wage war.

The second opinion heard—a new and quiet one—is that after all it would not be wise to permit Ethiopian armies to defeat the armies of Italy in any disastrous manner.

Behind this opinion is the idea that such a victory for the negus might excite all the races of Africa to revolt against European powers with colonies there.

There also is the lurking idea that Il Duce's campaign is not advancing and that a stalemate, if not a defeat for Italy, remains a possibility.

Linked with these opinions come reports from Italians in a position to know governmental thought that Mussolini is willing to examine seriously any new peace proposals.

Geneva is glad that Il Duce's diplomatic lieutenant, Baron Pompeo Aloisi, is coming to the council session and continues to hope that negotiations for a settlement of the war

WILSON'S RECORD PROBE DEFENDED

Missouri Solon, Son Of Champ
Clark, Carries On Acrid Debate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The son of the man from whom Woodrow Wilson wrested the Democratic presidential nomination in that bitter Baltimore convention of 1912 stood before the senate today to defend an inquiry into the record that Wilson wrote in the White House.

It was Senator Clark, Democrat, Missouri. He was carrying on the acrid debate begun yesterday. Then, Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, one of Wilson's cabinet members, shouted "coward" and "mendacious" at Chairman Nye, Republican, North Dakota, of the munitions committee. Nye had said Wilson had "falsified" in saying he did not know about secret European treaties for sharing war spoils.

Clark said he was not actuated by animus toward Wilson because of the defeat of Champ Clark at the Baltimore convention.

"If there was any animosity," he said, "it was toward another man, William Jennings Bryan, who betrayed my father at the Baltimore convention."

The wind-up of the debate was a scornful challenge, thrown by Senator Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, and accepted by Nye, to put before the senate the question of paying out more money for the munitions inquiry.

While this was occupying the senate, the state department was striking at 20 munitions makers it said when violating the requirement of the neutrality law that they register. Secretary Hull said he had turned over to the attorney general for "appropriate" action the names of 20 or 30 companies. Their names, among which were one or two called "important," were withheld.

Clark, a member of the munitions committee, told the senate the committee's investigation was a worthy effort to find a basis for true neutrality.

Taking the floor after Clark, Byrnes, chairman of the committee on contingent senate expenses, challenged the munitions investigators to put up to the senate whether the $8,000 or $9,000 needed to complete their work should be granted.

Nye said the committee would make its estimate after a week-end conference and present its request.

"It will be reported in five minutes," Byrnes retorted.

Clark reviewed the findings of the committee and traced the financial involvement of the United States in the war during 1915 and 1916.

The senate ire of yesterday at a disclosure that the committee had used $58,000 of a $80,000 allotted it by the New York relief administration was met by Clark with the assertion there was "no impropriety" in it.

After Being Held Prisoner
13 Hours

DALLAS, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Federal and state officers watched snow-swept Oklahoma and Texas highways tonight for a youthful fugitive who unwittingly swapped a possible short prison term for the threat of a death sentence by abducting a United States secret service operative.

Leonard W. Johnson, 26, charged in a counterfeiting case at Texarkana yesterday, seized Operative William C. Morgan's pistol while en route to the county jail at Paris, Texas, forced him to accompany him on a wild, 13-hour ride, and fled when the government agent jumped from the machine at Bokchito, Okla., early today.

Reports that the fugitive had side-swiped an officers automobile in Denton county, Texas, shifted the hunt back across the state line tonight.

Federal officers said the case was an exact parallel with the kidnapping of two Paris, Texas, officers last year, which resulted in the death sentence being imposed on Arthur Gooch, Oklahoma outlaw, under the Lindbergh kidnapping law.

Gooch, who also carried his prisoners across the state line into Oklahoma, has appealed the death penalty to the United States supreme court.

Operative Morgan told his chief here, F. V. Sorels, of being held prisoner 13 hours after Johnson had wrested his pistol from him on the outskirts of Paris. He was forced to drive to Queen City, Texas, where Johnson picked up his wife and two children, Morgan said.

Mrs. Johnson and the children were left at a Paris hotel later after she had refused to go further. Morgan's chance to escape came at Bokchito when they stopped at a filling station for gasoline, he said.

He made a move as if to get his wallet, jumped from the machine and started shouting. Johnson, bewildered momentarily, fled at top speed towards Hugo, Oklahoma.

Morgan said Johnson took the wheel once and drove at a 70-mile-an-hour clip with one hand while he kept the pistol on his captive with the other.

Morgan said at one time during the flight Johnson mentioned having "contacts" in the Oklahoma hills and said "we'll decide what to do with you when we get there."

The youth is round-shouldered and was wearing a dark suit and woolen shirt. He fled in Morgan's black, 1935 sedan.

LOLLY FUNERAL

Last rites for John Russell Lolly, 48, of 147 Cotton street, West Monroe, who died at his home Friday night at 9 o'clock, were held yesterday afternoon. A brief service was held at 3 o'clock at the residence of his sister, Miss Fannie Lolly, 408 North Sixth street, and further services were conducted at Antioch cemetery, where interment took place.

Rev. E. L. Hearne and Rev. E. E. Huntaberry conducted the services. Mr. Lolly had been ill only a short time.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bessie Lolly; six sons, J. C., R. T., Bobby, Jean, Woodrow, and Carey Lolly of West Monroe; and Garrett Lolly of Farmerville; one daughter, Marjorie Alice Lolly of West Monroe; one brother, Jessie F. Lolly of West Monroe; and one sister, Miss Fannie Lolly.

NEW AVERETTE

CALHOUN, La., Jan. 18.—(Special)—Funeral services for New Averte, 76, of Calhoun, who died suddenly at his home, were held at Downsville with burial being made in a cemetery there.

Surviving relatives are the widow and the following children: Mrs. Dora Turner, Mrs. Susie Calk, Mrs. Clara Maxey, Gordy and Boyd Averte, all of Calhoun; Vester Averte of Downsville; Mrs. Eula Turner, Mrs. Alice Rainer and Floyd Averte, all of Slocum, Tex. Forty grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren also survive.

Manufacturers have introduced cigars about the size of a cigarette and made of the finest Havana tobacco leaf in the hope of persuading women to smoke them.

The Answer To Mr. Noe's Defense of His Oil and Gas Deal

In a full page advertisement and in a radio speech, Senator Noe mis-states the facts concerning the "Win or Lose" gas deal. He says that the state has already received $75,000 in gas royalty payments and in the future will receive from $300,000 to $400,000 additional.

Senator Noe paid nothing for this lease. He and his associates have received $327,500 in cash. They sold 200 acres for $320,000 cash and still have a fourth interest in the balance of the acreage. THE STATE HAS NOT RECEIVED ANY ROYALTIES ON GAS WITHDRAWALS. The Conservation Department records show that not one foot of gas has been withdrawn from the wells on a part of the property. In fact, the wells have not been connected with a pipe line.

If the state had received $75,000 in royalties, (and it has not received any royalties), Senator Noe and his associates have received $150,000 in addition to the $347,500 for Senator Noe and his associates have a fourth interest in the lease assigned to the Texas oil and gas operators. For every dollar of royalties received or to be received by the state, Senator Noe and his associates receive two dollars.

Remember, voters, Senator Noe was your Lieutenant Governor and was being paid a salary of $2400 yearly when he acquired this lease from the Governor.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 19, 1936

Mrs. Nathan Gaston (upper left), prominent in social and Junior Charity league circles, has just been appointed chairman of the President's Birthday ball, scheduled to take place on the night of January thirtieth on the Cherokee terrace of Hotel Frances. The Junior league is sponsoring the affair.

Mrs. Henry Biedenharn (upper right), who claims the distinction of being one of Monroe's youngest grandmothers, is seen here with her grandson, Haydn Cutler, Jr.

Mrs. John Frederick Rogers of Seattle Washington, is the charming guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rogers on Island drive.

Mrs. Haydn Cutler of Chicago on the stairway at Bethaven, home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Biedenharn. Mrs. Cutler will be remembered as Miss Elizabeth Biedenharn.

Spring Weather Driven From Monroe By Blast Of Winter

Lovers Of Flowers Protect Blossoms

Daisy Haas Finds Japonicas Selling For Sixty Cents Apiece In New York; North Found Snowbound

By Eve Bradford

Our theme song, "June In January," lost its melody when the cruel north wind blew into town and made us reach for the blankets and winter clothes we put away with a sigh of relief last week. All the japonica bushes are again wearing their warm little nighties to protect them against their enemy, who seems to delight in nipping buds that dare to put forth in January. The narcissi, flaunting their fragrance so bravely during those spring-like days, are hanging their heads and nestling close to the breast of their friend, mother earth.

Speaking of japonicas reminds us that Daisy Haas was horrified to find them selling for sixty cents apiece in the New York markets last week. She now has a greater respect than ever for her bushes and immediately upon returning home grabbed a trowel and bowed her knees before these queens of the southland. Daisy and Morris Haas, making their first trip east at this particular season, found winter posing for her portrait. Winter in cold climes is regarded as a cruel scourge of mankind. It brings cold and hunger. To the southerner, viewing it for the first time and with the blessed assurance of bright warm days awaiting them at home, it is a beautiful sight—ice-stilled streams in deep woods, a drift of snow against a hillside, ice-encrusted objects shining like prisms with colors of the rainbow. Ten days of snow and ice were quite enough for Daisy and Morris, who found the chilly blasts from Lake Michigan sufficient reason to hasten on from Chicago to New York.

The subject of japonicas brings to mind the gorgeous white blossoms in the Allan Sholars gardens. One large bush in particular was transplanted from one of the ante-bellum gardens of south Louisiana to the Sholars gardens with splendid success.

We are reminded at this time, with cold weather again an unwelcome guest, how valiantly Edith Meyer struggled to keep Jack Frost away from the poinsettias in her garden until after the visit of friends from the east, who never dreamed they could be grown in winter gardens. But fate was unkind. The crimson banners were laid low the night before their arrival.

The death of Rudyard Kipling ought to make the younger generation aware that there is a great book called "Kim" on the top shelf of the library. Beside it is another, and if the dust is wiped from the title, you will see that it is called "Plain Tales from the Hills." And if you hunt still more, you will find that the book they used to press flowers in several years ago is "The Light that Failed," one of the greatest stories ever written. Hunt around today and get hold of "Captains Courageous," "Barrack Room Ballads," "Soldiers Three" and the "Jungle Book." After you read these you will fully realize what a loss we have suffered in the death of Rudyard Kipling.

If Dan Cupid isn't running out of arrows, he must at least be keeping his armorer at work on twenty-four-hour shifts. Rings are slipping on fingers on all hands, froths are being plighted and wedding plans are being completed at a rate which indicates it will be an unusual spring for pre-nuptial showers.

Almost every day some one inquires about Emma Louise Biedenbarn—where she is, what she is doing and when she will return home. She spent Christmas in England and sent a cablegram on Christmas day to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Biedenbarn, stating that she was in Sussex, but her heart was in Monroe with loved ones. Memories of lovely Kate O'Neil, another beloved Monroe personage still lingers in the hearts of her friends. For the benefit of those who have lost track of her, we take delight in telling you that she is associated with a large hotel in New York City, where her contact with guests, socially, is considered invaluable to the management. Southern women are always in demand in this capacity in the east and in the north, due no doubt to their culture, their breeding, their gentle manners and their brilliant minds. Southern women always have been and always will be placed on pedestals.

Junior Charity league members could not have selected a more advantageous time to sponsor a ball than this particular month, when society is simply yearning for excitement. The President's ball on the night of the thirtieth will no doubt attract a dense crowd. Who attended and who placed their feet on the polished brass of the handsome new cocktail bar on the Cherokee terrace will be a long, long story. Adrienne Gaston is quite breathless these days supplanting the sale of tickets and prodding her committee to greater activity. For those who look on from the sidelines, it will be a spectacular parade of fashion. Get out the old Tuxedo, gentlemen, and join the crowd, otherwise you will be conspicuous by your absence.

'Y' Meeting Stated

The Y. W. C. A. will hold its annual meeting Thursday afternoon, January 22, at 3 o'clock. At this time reports of the year's work will be submitted by the various committees and by the general secretary, Mrs. Fagan Cox.

An invitation is extended to all persons interested in the "Y" to attend this meeting and learn more about the "Y" and its work. The new board members for 1936 will be elected at this time.

During the day the polls will be open from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the "Y," and it is hoped that all of the members will come in during the day and vote for the new board members.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Grego, Miss Mary Katherine Penneil and Mr. Sam McClary motored to Shreveport Friday to attend the opera "Madam Butterfly," presented by the San Carlo Opera company.

Period Dresses Call For Historical Coiffures; Hollywood Goes To The Past For 'Originality'

Priests, Choir Feted

Priests of the diocese of St. Matthew and members of the choir were delightfully entertained at dinner the Cameo room of the Virginia hotel through the kindness of the ladies' societies and others of the congregation.

The male choir of St. Matthew's church is the only one of its kind in the state, outside of New Orleans, and has elicited a great deal of favorable comment from visiting priests and laymen, who have been very complimentary of the manner in which this choir renders the music of high mass.

The music sung at high mass is usually of the highest order and much more difficult than other sacred music. It is remarkable that this choir, made up largely of untrained singers, should render this beautiful music so effectively, due to diligent rehearsals under capable tutelage of Don Brittenmeyer, organist, and Philip Bernhardt, director. Members of the choir do not receive compensation other than the satisfaction derived from knowing that they are responsible for making an impressive service more beautiful.

Present at the banquet were Monsignor Planché, Father Vandegraer, Father Gremillion, Father Walsh, Don Breitenmoser, Philip Bernhardt, Charles Bigger, Walter Savage, Jr., Conrad Cato, Sr., Cody Watkins, Jr., Edward Fitzpatrick, Frank Campbell, Edward Shaughnessy, Henry Crawford and Harry Proffit.

Paper Presented

"The Universities and Academic Freedom of Germany" was selected for the subject of Mrs. James Drew's paper, read before members of the Study club in the home of Mrs. Henry Montgomery.

The entire program hour was devoted to this paper, abounding in interesting material.
Mrs. Montgomery served her guests a delectable sea-food course with toasted sandwiches and fruit salad, salted nuts and sweet confections.
Members present were: Mmes. James Drew, D. K. Elliott, David Garrett, Fillmore Meadows, Carl McHenry, Aylmer Montgomery, Alfred Reid, Elmer Richards, William Rodriguez, Lewis Slater and H. H. Land and Miss Carrie Dee Drow.

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Period hair styles to accompany period dresses is the latest mode in Hollywood and other fashionable portions of the world. The Hollywood girls are cracking history books to get ideas for their coiffures.

Apparently it started with the Grecian and Renaissance styles in evening gowns which caused the stars to wear their hair sculptured like a Greek statue or in elaborate, be-curved Renaissance fashion.

The Juliet coiffure, already being widely copied, was introduced by Norma Shearer. She will wear it when she appears as Juliet in a picture.

Lili Damita appeared at a party recently wearing the "Borogavia bob," copied no doubt from that worn by Loretta Young in "The Crusades." Lili's light brown hair was cut into bangs low across her forehead, and nearly reached her shoulders.

Jean Muir, who has appeared in several period films, chose the 1860 period of one picture for her personal coiffure. For this, the hair is severely drawn back from the face and done in soft little curls at the back of the head. Virginia Bruce also parts her hair in the middle and curls the short ends around her face. The longer hair is done up like a bun and fitted close to the back of the neck.

A style of the senoritas of early California—suggested, of course, by another period film—appeals to Gladys Swarthout. She brushes her hair back, allowing it to fall in loose curls.

Hair stylists say the loose bob, so widely used now in Hollywood, can harm a woman's face if cut improperly. The length of the face should determine the length of the hair, they say.

For the formal coiffures, real and artificial flowers, feathers, clips, tiaras and a variety of other ornaments are considered good nowadays.

As for the period of the coiffure, any will do. The point is, it must look original—and unusual.

and also that felts will remain thinner felt coupled with grosgrain ribbon or leather.

Crowds See Revue

Mrs. Harry Rice's dance revue at the Paramount theater Thursday and Friday afternoon and evening was a pleasant break in mid-winter doldrums.

A packed house greeted the rise of the curtain at each performance and every one in the audience agreed that it was one of the most ambitious presentations witnessed in this city in amateur circles.

An air of professionalism pervaded the entire revue, which moved along in quick tempo, without even a suggestion of amateurism. The rise of the curtain found the entire dancing class grouped on the side stairway and when introduced, they parted the crimson strands that formed a decorative curtain. Most ambitious was the pastel waltz number, featuring 12 or more toe dancers.

All forms of dancing as taught in the Rice studio were interpreted in this mid-winter revue, enjoyed by vast audiences of men, women and children.

As is usually the case, several numbers were outstanding; but what youthful performers are concerned, it is rather difficult for the reviewer to discriminate.

Suffice to say, however, that each dancer reflected considerable credit on the instructor and each one was responsible in a measure for the smooth-running, colorful revue.

The appearance of the American Legion quartet was quite an innovation and elicited not only considerable mirth but much applause from the audience.

The program was climaxed by the appearance of Miss Natalie Hudnall in white evening model and Keeney Devereaux, who gave a beautiful song number, with members of the adult class appearing for the grand finale.

To Maintain Library

Members to the Welcome Branch Book club agreed at their last meeting to endow and maintain a library in the new tuberculosis sanatorium now in the course of construction at Pine Top. Mrs. George Lofton, club president, appointed the following members to serve on the library committee: Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. D. C. Shattuck and Mrs. H. H. Douglas. Mrs. Lofton will also serve on this committee.

During the program hour, Mrs. L. F. Oyster reviewed, in dramatic manner, Noel Coward's "Private Lives." Sixteen members were present.

Courtroom Play

It took Max Reinhardt to turn the theater into a cathedral, but it took members of the Monroe Little Theater to turn the parish courtroom into a theater for one of their major productions, "The Trial of Mary Dugan."

A judge in real life would no doubt tear his hair and deliver speeches on the proper method of conduct in court rooms if such a case was tried in his court. However, regardless of the fact that "The Trial of Mary Dugan" departs from the usual method of trying a person for murder, it still remains a superb melodrama and an excellent piece of theatrical writing.

The entire play is the trial of Mary Dugan and consists of two and one-half hours of questions and answers. It sounds tedious, but there is not a dull moment. It is so cleverly constructed that a twist comes whenever the interrogating of a witness becomes tiresome. Besides this, the play is so arranged that the trial conveniently recesses to provide for the breathing spell between the acts.

The author of Mary Dugan, Baynard Veiller, made history 15 years ago with his play, "Within the Law," which not only set the tone for crook plays, but also started Jane Cowell on the road to fame. Now, however, with his "Trial of Mary Dugan," he shows a deeper insight into popular psychology.

Such an initial conception of a theatrical entertainment is, however, only the beginning. The author's skill is more impressively demonstrated in his working out of the idea, for not only has he taken full advantage of the dramatic possibilities naturally afforded by a trial, but he has, in addition, been remarkably fertile in devising all sorts of unexpected turns of events and arranging various surprising eruptions of action and comedy which might conceivably interrupt the formal proceedings of a court.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the quarterly meeting of the Morehouse-Quachita association at the First Baptist church on the twenty-third of January.

New officers will be installed at this time and an interesting program presented, outstanding being the message delivered by Dr. A. J. Terry, a returned missionary from Pernambuco, Brazil.

Visitors on this occasion will be Miss Hannah Reynolds of New Orleans, state secretary of the W. M. U., and Mrs. H. W. Bennet, state president.

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Moore left the city early last week for a ten-day motor trip. Mrs. Moore will visit in Memphis, Tenn., in the home of Mrs. A. H. Watson, a frequent Monroe visitor, and among old friends, who have planned a series of social affairs in her honor. Mr. Moore will make a business trip to Cincinnati, Ohio, while away, thus combining business with pleasure.

Miss Kille Albritton has returned from Shreveport, where she enjoyed a visit with friends and incidentally attended grand opera.

Mr. Edward Joseph, Mr. George Varino and Misses Mary, Adele and Annie Luffey motored over to Shreveport for a brief visit last week.

Mrs. Zell Smith entertained at luncheon on Wednesday a coterie of friends who motored from El Dorado, Ark., to spend the day in the Smith home. In the party were Mmes. H. Reynolds, C. V. Leman, W. C. Farley, L. H. Short, C. Williams and Shelton Goodwin.

Betty Jean Shirah, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Shirah, is critically ill at the Grand hotel, where they make their home.

Miss Happy Tidwell, student at L. S. U., was summoned home last week by the illness of her mother, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, whose condition, we are glad to say, shows improvement.

Miss Narcisse Brown Weds John Silverman

Marriage Solemnized In Ante-Bellum Home Of Bride's Parents At Lake Providence; Father Plutz Officiates

An event of unusual brilliance and one that claimed the interest of the social world in this section of the state was the marriage of Miss Narcisse Brown, beautiful young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dannis Brown of Lake Providence, and Mr. John Silverman, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Silverman of Fort McPherson, Ga., at Gossypia, handsome ante-bellum home of the bride's parents, Wednesday morning, January the fifteenth, with Reverend Father F. J. Plutz of St. Patrick's Catholic church officiating.

A pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. Anna Randall Cox, pianist, and Miss Bery Estelle Herzog, violinist. Mrs. Cox sang, in splendid voice, "O Promise Me."

The impressive ceremony was performed in a setting of Louisiana pine and cedar that offered a verdant background for the improvised altar, centered with a silver crucifix and flanked with tall, seven-branched candelabra supporting white cathedral tapers. The morning sunshine streamed in from the two French windows at either side of the altar. The vows were spoken "neath an arch entwined with English ivy and from which was suspended a silver wedding bell."

Miss Ellen Brown, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a distinctive model of violet-colored lace with a small, close-fitting hat of purple. A cluster of Joanna Hill roses completed the lovely ensemble.

Mr. C. Rupert Evans, brother-in-law of the bride served as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, walked down the handsome, ivy-entwined spiral stairway into the drawing room, where first, turned in the picturesque old fireplace and exotic flowers were placed at vantage points. She wore traditional white satin fashioned along classic lines of lovely simplicity. The skirt was long and full with tight-fitting bodice and long, tight-fitting sleeves trimmed with self-covered buttons from elbow to the wrist. Wide revers from shoulder to waistline was the only trimming.

She carried a superb arm bouquet of Angelus roses, valley lilies and narcissi, caught with wide white satin ribbons.

An informal reception permitted the guests to extend their well wishes and congratulations. Mrs. Brown, moving among the guests and offering the many courtesies for which she is famed, wore a handsome Mediterranean blue crepe model with corsage of roses.

The wedding cake, a luscious confection, beautifully ambossed, was cut by the bride ere her departure on her honeymoon. She changed her wedding raiment for a smart tailor of gray with handsome coat of gray caracul. Mr. and Mrs. Silverman will motor along the coast of Florida and will spend a few days in the home of Mr. Silverman's parents in Georgia before returning to Lake Providence, where he is associated with the engineering department of the United States government.

Mrs. Silverman, one of four beautiful sisters, is a regular member of the younger social set of Lake Providence. Her father, president of the First National bank, is a prominent figure in the civic life of the community. The ante-bellum home of the Browns is one of the show places of this section of the state and is continually the background for the social life of Lake Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Dozier of Ferriday announce the marriage of their daughter, Edna Inez, to Abner Green Smith of St. Joseph. The ceremony was performed in the home of the Baptist minister of Winnboro at 6 o'clock in the evening of December 25. The bridegroom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Smith of St. Joseph and is now employed by the state highway department.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Pomeroy of Bastrop announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Pomeroy to Mr. James Shirley. The wedding will take place on the twenty-eighth of January.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Keene announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Amy Nell Keene, to Mr. Glen L. Nesom, on the seventeenth of January. Mr. and Mrs. Nesom are now at home to their friends at 3408 Polk street.

Announce Wedding

Mrs. Frank Hill of Paducah, Ky., is being extensively entertained during her visit with her sister, Mrs. Harry Newhall. Last week's compliments, in addition to Mrs. Newhall's coffee hour, were informal luncheons at the Frances hotel, bridge affairs and a lovely tea. Mrs. I. Neel's compliment tomorrow will be a coffee hour.

Many Find Diversion And Fine Art Of Living In Hobbies

Collectors Of Various Sorts Found In Monroe

Some Residents Collect Old China; Others, Antique Furniture; Many Heirlooms Discovered In City

The advent of a new year makes us wonder which hobby we will ride during the year 1936. Whatever the hobby or whoever the rider, the current year should be the happier for them. Tired, distracted women will find poise and charm in diversions which lead to new outlooks, new interests and new contacts. They will have learned to play, to do a few things not dictated by social and economic necessity. They will indeed master the fine art of living.

Every hobby begins, like the life of a child, innocent and engaging. The first pieces of a collection are usually from a source close at hand. Then as it grows and the hobby rider becomes more and more informed, the selective trait begins to assert itself, and the hobby in a few years gets expensive, whether it be china, furniture, jewelry, curios or pictures. If it comforts hobby riders, let it be remembered, that one is an inquiring mind, one that is alert and has selective tendencies, develops hobbies.

Almost any woman can, literally or figuratively, reach up to a shelf and bring down a piece of old glass or china which will give her home a lived in appearance, link the past with the present and create a background for her children. Grandmother's cup plates and open salts or mother's compote and castor are quite enough to inspire research which goes back to before the Pharaohs, fires the owners with a passion for pattern glass or finds an antique shop.

Collecting is not the only hobby. In fact, the urge to collect is instinctive. All humanity has an inherent respect for antiquity. America's participation in the World War gave many a new sense of national importance and, accordingly, a new impetus to collect. With the rise of national pride, it dawned on Americans that preservation of their own early arts and crafts was worthwhile. Collecting in general, however, is as old as humanity. Probably the cave dwellers hoarded furs and the savages, skulls; and exhibited them when guests came just as our mothers displayed their quilts and our contemporaries enter antiques at country fairs.

Hobbies may include learning things, doing things, making things and acquiring things. Walter B. Fitts, in his book, "Make It Easy," advises women to let their hobby be the diversion which relaxes them most. Whether it be studying the stars, molding pottery, or collecting spools, let it be the thing you most want to do, not the thing everybody else is doing, else you will be a fadist, not a hobbyist. And what ever your hobby is, let it really enrich your life. If it be quilts, then read about quilts. Learn that almost more than any other art, they record the political events of the country. Know that the pieced quilt is an American institution. If you weave cloth, and more and more women are finding relaxation at the loom these strenuous days, dig, figuratively if not literally, in the tombs of Egypt to learn the history of the art of weaving. If you collect fans, as Mrs. Victor Barringer of this city does, you will learn with amazement the virile history of those fragile accessories. And you will do these things if you are the true hobbyist.

Monroe has collectors in great numbers. Miss Julia Wessman, principal at the Barkdull Faulk school, for instance, urges the pupils to collect curios; and, as a result, the cabinets set aside for this purpose, are brimming with interesting objects. A study of the origin of each article is made and in this way the minds of the young students are enriched.

Mr. Sam Rubin has a penchant for collecting antique jewelry. He has searched the world over for unusual articles and is now considered an authority on the subject. He can look at a piece of old jewelry and immediately classify it. Many a Monroe woman, in doubt of a certain article of jewelry in her possession, has had her mind set at rest by his expert examination.

Joseph Washburn's hobby is painting. He finds complete relaxation at the easel after a difficult day at his desk in the banking world. Landscapes are his specialty and several beautiful paintings from his brush hang on the walls of their home. His office is also brightened by a few landscapes. One in particular, a negro cabin in a field of cotton, never fails to attract the attention of customers.

Mrs. W. C. Bridges has a hobby for collecting old quilts. One in particular still bears the water stains as a result of being buried in an old trunk with other valuables during the Yankee invasion of the south in Civil war days.

Travis Oliver collects firearms. When he built his home he had a cabinet built especially for them. Several old guns, in his possession were used in the War Between the States, several in the Spanish-American war and still others in the World war. One gun in particular, valued highly, was owned by the late Ray Long, editor of the Cosmopolitan magazine, who presented it to Mr. Oliver during his visit in Monroe several years ago.

Another gun was presented to Mr. Oliver by James Oliver Curwood, novelist. Many others, equally as valuable from a sentimental standpoint, are included in the collection. The old O'Kelly home is a veritable treasure trove. The collector of antique furniture would go delirious over the handsome old rosewood pieces dating back to life in Monroe before the Civil war. This type of furniture grows more beautiful and more valuable as time marches on, but the O'Kelly collection is not for sale. Pride of possession and sentiment prevents the owners from parting with a single piece. The old home, the oldest in this section of the state, is a fitting background for these rare old pieces. Most incongruous would be the setting of a modern home for these massive pieces so popular in the south during the ante-bellum period.

Monroe, rich in tradition, is encompassed with an atmosphere of other days. This is due to the fact that old settlers have not parted with their precious heirlooms and others have cultivated the hobby of collecting old furniture and other relics of the past.

Suits--Slim And Youthful Lead Spring Mode For '36

Creed designs this new suit with a slim, navy blue wool skirt and a box jacket of double-faced wool--navy blue on one side, yellow and blue plaid on the other. The sides button back to show the plaid. Rose Valois trims the mannish hat of yellow felt with a deep blue grosgrain ribbon.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Suits play a big role in midseason fashions. An army of youthful models has appeared as the advance guard of the 1936 spring mode. They fly the standards of youth, slimmness and practicality and are designed for every event in the day's program—shopping, running about town, lunch, cocktails and dinner.

Creed shows new suits with slender dark skirts and straight box jackets made of double-faced wool—one side plaid, the other plain.

Chanel displays suits of striped wool peppered with polka dots or of pheasant's eye tweeds, designed with jackets which nip in at the waistline and flare slightly below.

Mainbocher launches something new, with suits of jersey and tweed (gray, blue and black) fashioned with belted jacket fronts and backs which swing loose from the shoulder to the hem of the skirt. Another novel idea displayed by the same designer is a Palm Beach suit of plaid gingham combining a knife-pleated skirt and a jacket.

Smart little Chinese jackets cut on the box-like lines of a Chinese woman's coat, but extending lower than the hipbones are the stars of another designer's suit collection.

Maggy Rouff likes capes instead of jackets in her midseason suits. She tops a dark blue wool frock with a corduroy velvet, hip-length cape of the same color and throws a hip-length leopard cape over a black wool dress. Both frocks are trimmed to match the capes.

Afternoon suits for bridge and cocktail wear are made of plain or blistered satins with a high shine, cloque silks, heavy laces and satins patterned with microscopic prints.

Evening suits of black satin or crepe designed with short jackets and slender, long-length skirts and worn with lace lame or bead blouses are shown by many designers for dinner wear.

The topics which we shall consider this Sabbath morning and evening are "That Which Encourages Us Day By Day," and "Genesis 1, a Remarkable Document." During the week our devotionals will be based on the statement Jesus made to the question: "Is it lawful to pay tribute to Caesar?"

He said: "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's." Tune in on our local broadcasting station. We may be able, under the guidance and blessings of the Lord, to help.

Wednesday evening, January 22, at 7:30, our views about the "Word of God" will be given. They are clearly set forth in the confession of faith. This is the week of self-denial in the interest of home missions. The money we contribute will find its way back to Red River Presbytery. Our home mission treasurer, the Rev. W. F. O'Kelley, D. D., Minden, has an agreement with the treasurer of the assembly home missions, Atlanta, to this effect. Remember, therefore, the need and the urgency of the appeal. How many of us are willing to forego some pleasure for the sake of our work in north Louisiana? How many of us are ready to respond to the call? With your prayerful and sacrificial cooperation we will carry our part of the obligation. Fifty cents from our members, which means dollars from some, will give us an offering commensurate with the gospel, the opportunities and the demands of the moment.

The Woman's Missionary society will meet at the church on Tuesday, January 22, at 7:30 p.m. for a program meeting. Efforts are being made to wind up the campaign for pledges by January 20. Members who have not yet pledged are urged to do so at once so that the record will be complete. The cooperation of every member is needed and will be appreciated.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, TRINITY

Corner Auburn Avenue and N. 2nd St.

Sunday services at 11 a.m. Sunday school at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday testimony meetings at 8 o'clock. Reading room, 1108 Ouchita National Bank building, open daily, except Sunday and holidays, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The public is welcome to all services and the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, January 19, 1936. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And, behold, one came and said unto him, Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life? And he said unto him, Why callest thou me good? There is none good but one, that is, God; but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments." (Matt. 19). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Because Life is God, Life must be eternal, self-existent. Life is the everlasting I am, the Being who was and is and shall be, whom nothing can erase." (p. 283).

Sturges of Cincinnati, Ohio, well-known singer, violinist, song writer and music publisher. On next Thursday evening, the entire church is invited to enjoy a covered dish supper and annual congregational meeting in which complete reports will be presented covering all the activities of the church.

IMMANUEL BAPTIST CHURCH

Corner Fourth and Vernon

West Monroe

Rev. A. H. Johnson, Pastor

We would like for you to come to our Sunday school and take in the valuable study of the gospel according to Luke. Lesson for January 19 is "Jesus Prepares for His Work." Luke 3:1-15. Morning worship at 11 a.m. The pastor will speak for a few minutes to the children by giving an object lesson. The subject of the morning message will be "Negatives and Positives of the Christian Life." At 6:30 p.m. we have our Baptist Training union. Here is a place of training for the littlest child and the oldest person. The evening evangelistic service will start at 7:30 p.m. This is a service we all anticipate. We have good gospel singing, special music, choruses, and a message from the word of God. Our purpose in preaching the gospel is to lead lost souls to accept the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour. The subject of the message will be "Beckoning Christ." We invite you to come. Try to bring someone with you. Thursday night, January 23, we are planning to have a missionary service. Rev. Terry, a missionary from Brazil, will speak. As we do not always have the opportunity to hear missionaries speak, let us make an earnest effort to be present for this service. Remember the day, Thursday, January 23, 7:00 p.m. All other meetings will be held at their usual time.

THE SALVATION ARMY

325 1-2 DeSard Street

Special revival services are to be conducted, beginning with the Sunday services and lasting throughout the week. Captain A. V. Walker of Shreveport, known as the "singing Irish evangelist," will conduct the special meetings. Captain Walker is widely known from his weekly Salvation Army hour on KWKH broadcasts. Good singing and music will be an attractive feature of the meeting. Sunday services are to be as follows: Company meeting (church school) at 9:45 a.m., with Mrs. E. C. Vanderwerker, Y. P. sergeant major in charge; holiness meeting at 11 a.m.; the young people's legion at 6:15 p.m.; evangelistic meeting at 7:45 p.m. Captain Walker is expected for both morning and evening services. The public is urged to worship God at the Salvation Army Sunday and each night throughout the week.

ASSEMBLY OF GOD

West Monroe

E. L. Tanner, Pastor

Cypress and Crosley, Rev. Meyer Tan Ditter, who is conducting the revival at the tabernacle, will speak at both the morning and evening services Sunday. The Lord is blessing and making himself very real to us in each service of the revival. Rev. and Mrs. Tan Ditter's special singing is quite an added feature to the services. Services for Sunday will be held at the usual hours. Sunday school 9:45 a.m. Preaching 11:00 a.m. Christ Ambassadors' class, 6 p.m. Evening evangelistic service, 7:30. The revival services will be held each evening during the week.

GRACE CHURCH

Fourth and Glenmar Streets

Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for the second Sunday after Epiphany are as follows: The Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a.m. Church school at 9:30 a.m. Choral Eucharist and sermon at 11 a.m. Evensong and sermon at St. David's, Rayville, at 4:30 p.m. Services during the week are on Wednesday at 8 o'clock and Saturday, which is the feast of the "Conversion of St. Paul," at 7:30 o'clock. The Epistle for this Sunday's Eucharist is taken from the Epistle to the Romans and speaks of faith and hope but enlarges on charity as the essential spirit of the gospel, and gives the precept, "let love be without dissimulation." The Holy Gospel is the narrative of the manifestation of Christ by His first miracle, being one of the three principal Epiphanies. The Collect is appropriate as the prayer of the Gentiles calling themselves the people of God and asking for that peace which his ministers publish and the covenant of which they also establish as the ministers of reconciliation. The public is cordially invited to attend the services in Grace church. The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest and pray.

UNITY SCHOOL OF CHRISTIANITY

Hotel Virginia

Sunday morning at 10:15 o'clock we will begin a study of "Lessons in Truth." This will be a real treat for those who wish to know truth. The regular services at 11 a.m. Subject, "Tests of Faith." The public is cordially invited to attend either or both of these services. The room number will be posted on the bulletin board in the hotel lobby.

Miss Mary Mims Is To Speak At Georgia Tucker Meeting

Parent And Community To Be Subject Of Talk

Sociologist Of Extension Division Of State University To Deliver Feature Address At P.-T. A. Gathering

Promising something of unusual interest, Miss Mary Mims, sociologist of the extension division of Louisiana State university, will be the principal speaker at a meeting Thursday night of the Georgia Tucker school Parent-Teachers association of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Her subject will be "The Parents and Community."

Originator of the Louisiana folk school, which was started as a result of her visit to Denmark, where eighty schools are in existence, Miss Mims will have something of unusual interest to say in regard to community work, started ten years ago in Louisiana.

The community plan adopted in Louisiana has been sought by 43 states, thirty-one of which have been visited in person by Miss Mims in extension of the work.

While in Denmark, Miss Mims studied in twelve different folk schools and has taken the Danish purpose and made a plan to conform with conditions in Louisiana. Many people have contributed thoughts and ideas, but the basic idea of Miss Mims' original plan remains the same.

Miss Mims received her doctor of laws degree from Centenary college and claims the distinction of being the first woman ever to have such a degree conferred on her by Centenary.

Thursday's meeting has been designated Dad's night and all members of the organization are being especially urged to be present when Miss Mims speaks.

Crosley P.-T. A.

Prof. C. O. Colvert, dean of Northeast Center of L. S. U., spoke on "History as an Aid in Modern Living" before a meeting of the Crosley grammar school Parent-Teachers association of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers at the school Wednesday.

Discussing his subject from six angles, Prof. Colvert said in part:

"We study history because of the pleasure of it. It is a fascinating drama played on a world stage. Secondly, we study history for the knowledge it supplies. Knowledge and intelligence give confidence. History is one of the greatest doors through which the soul goes out seeking and finding knowledge."

"We study history as an aid to the appreciation of other things. History enriches literature, it explains civil government, it justifies social institutions, and it gives character to art, speech to architecture and accompaniment to music."

"Fourth, we study history as a means to better understanding of ourselves. History shows us our smallness. It teaches us how great we may be by showing what less favored men have done."

"Fifth, history broadens and quickens our sympathies for others. We are brought to understand other people better when we understand ourselves better. History takes us back to a common stock, and, from this primitive sense of the family bond, we soon perceive the cosmopolitan circle and see that we, being human beings, cannot be entirely a stranger to the other human beings over the world."

"Sixth, history makes us more efficient citizens. It makes citizens more intelligently patriotic, makes him seek after truth, and gives him penetration and skill in particular cases."

The business session which followed Prof. Colvert's address brought favorable reports from various committees. It was urged during the session that more mothers interest themselves in the Mother Singers' work and also that plans be made toward having a large representation

A drill by first-grade students was given as entertainment.

Ouachita P.-T. A.

A box supper, which netted $121 to be used to feed and clothe underprivileged children of the Ouachita Parish school, was given by the Ouachita Parish Parent-Teachers association of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers at the parish high school auditorium Thursday night.

Several candidates for public office in the forthcoming Democratic primary election were speakers on the program. Louis Hutton acted as master of ceremonies. Entertainment was provided by the Ouachita Parish High school Glee club.

The fourth grade of the elementary school and the senior class of the high school were winners of the banners for having the most parents present at the affair.

To Visit State

The announcement that Miss Alice Sowers, parent education specialist of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be in Louisiana in March in creating considerable interest in P.-T. A. circles. The exact time she will be in the state and her itinerary will be announced later.

Appeal Is Made

An appeal to P.-T. A. presidents to order record publicity books for their units immediately has been made by Mrs. A. L. Ladner of Winfield, publicity chairman of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. She reminded the presidents, in a letter dispatched to them, that the price of the books would be advanced by the company selling them after January 30.

Founder's Day

Increased interest in Founder's day programs is being reported at the office of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. The state president said all local units will observe this special day, set aside by the national organization. The programs will start in February and last throughout the month.

Oak Ridge P.-T. A.

OAK RIDGE, La., Jan. 18.—(Special)—Presentation of a program on "The Value of Home Economics in the School and in the Home," and appointment of a committee to make arrangements for the observance of Founder's day featured the January meeting of the Oak Ridge High school Parent-Teachers association of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mrs. A. B. Carroll led the assembly in the discussion of the value of home economics. A piano solo was contributed by Miss Rosa B. Norman. Mrs. C. J. Wasson, president of the association, reminded the members of the approach of Founder's day and appointed a committee to make arrangements for its observance. Mrs. Carroll, Mrs. F. E. Hogan and Mrs. C. N. McDuffie were named to the committee.

Enterprise P.-T. A.

ENTERPRISE, La., Jan. 18.—(Special)—Ninety-three dollars were raised at a box supper given recently by the Enterprise High school Parent-Teachers association of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers for the purpose of constructing a paved walk around the gravelled driveway at the school.

The driveway was made possible through the donation of gravel by H. W. LaTissier. It was built by men members of the P.-T. A.

Vary Mid-Season Wardrobe

PATTERNS 2499 AND 2649

You must have one!—you should have both!—of these smart young frocks if your wardrobe is to be at all varied and practical. There'll be many an occasion when pattern 2499 will be practically a necessity, and you'll want this softly styled semi-dressy frock in a bright monotone crepe or one of the glorious new prints. Pattern 2649 is a shirtwaist that's much more than just a sports style, for it may be worn for marketing, shopping, and club meeting, as well as for general utility wear in country or town. Make it in challis, or necktie silk print or silk shirting for spring.

Pattern 2499 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 42. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 39-inch fabric. Price list illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern.

Tallulah

A gala event of the season was the annual celebration for the benefit of the Tallulah high school football team. It consisted of a barbecue supper, "floor show" and dance at the community club. The supper was served in the banquet hall on the lower floor, C. S. Pierce giving the invocation.

Enterprise P.-T. A.

The floor show under the direction of Mrs. Myles Hopkins was as follows: Vocal numbers, "Twenty-Four Hours a Day" and "Treasure Island," by Betty Cagnoliatti; talk by Captain Harry Don Morton; songs, "I've Got a Feeling You're Foolin'," and "Beny, Menny, Minny, Mo," by Helen Margaret Yerger; experienced of the football boys; tap dance, Naomi Alexander; songs, "In the Mood for Love" and "When I Grow Too Old to Dream," by Ralph Taylor; talk by Captain-Elect Mae Cagnoliatti; song, "A Little Bit Independent," Bobby Nelson; talk, Coach M. A. Phillips.

In addition to the large number of students, including members of the team and their guests, there were present Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Linton, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rountree, Mr. and Mrs. Myles Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Devine, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sevier, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fossick, Mrs. Paul Barber, Mrs. W. Mrs. R. K. Boney is visiting her daughter, Mrs. David E. Holt, and Rev. Holt in Texarkana.

An interesting meeting of the Dramatic club was held at the home of Mrs. R. K. Boney, with Mrs. A. L. Sevier as co-hostess. Mrs. C. S. Spencer was leader of the program on "Narrative Poetry," and gave a talk on Keats. Mrs. G. L. Garrison discussed Tennyson and Mrs. J. R. Medlin gave a talk on Wordsworth. A round table discussion followed. During the social hour, the hostesses served dainty and delicious refreshments. Those in attendance were Mesdames J. R. Medlin, R. T. Starrett, E. O. Edgerton, A. C. Sparling, J. K. Post, A. C. Sparling, Jr., and Mrs. Rose and Mrs. Shaw of Grenada, Miss.

The Eveready circle of the Methodist Missionary society met with Mrs. Wray Bowie for the first session of the new year. Mrs. G. L. Smith, president, had appointed her committee. The devotional was given by Mrs. J. R. Medlin. At the conclusion of the business session, the hostess served cookies and coffee. Those present were Mesdames A. H. Hurd, E. S. Moberley, G. L. Storey, J. R. Medlin, Lavelle Scott, W. L. Harvey, O. C. Weatherly, Richard Alexander, of the games by the guests, Mesdames Ralph Taylor, Claude Searles, L. J. Katham, W. M. Scott, R. C. Gaines, R. T. Campbell, A. L. Sevier and W. C. Starrett.

Circle two of the Baptist Missionary society met with Mrs. W. C. Purdy. Chapter one from the text, "Personal Service Guide," was taught by Mrs. H. B. Day. Refreshments were served at the close of the session to the ten members present. Guests included Rev. and Mrs. L. A. Materne, Mrs. Harris and Mrs. W. C. Purdy, Sr.

An enjoyable meeting of the members of circle one of the Methodist Missionary society took place at the home of Mrs. W. D. Ziegler, with twenty-four old members, one new member and two visitors present. After the business session the "Gloomy Gerties" group entertained the "Sunny Susies" group with a program planned by Mrs. C. K. Smith. Each person present wrote and read a New Year's resolution. A song recognition contest was won by Mrs. J. R. Linton and Mrs. I. A. Milton. They were awarded prizes. Mrs. T. W. Jones, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Viority, sang "Old Faithful." Mrs. C. C. Loyd gave a reading and Mrs. A. M. Hebert and Mrs. Turner rendered piano selections. A talk was given by Mrs. A. C. Thompson. The reorganization of the two groups resulted in Mrs. E. O. Edgerton's being chosen as leader of the "Gloomy Gerties" and Mrs. L. J. Landis of the "Sunny Susies." Delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. Louis Collins entertained her circle of the W. M. U. Mrs. Carter gave the devotional. At the close of the session, refreshments were served to Mesdames Horn, Bud King, J. W. Holly, Lowe, L. A. Nettles and Carter.

Mrs. Anna Foster's Birthday Celebrated

Eighty-Sixth Anniversary Observed In Midst Of Friends And Loved Ones; Numerous Remembrances Received

"Grow old along with me! The best is yet to be, the last of life for which the first was made." Browning evidently knew how really beautiful old age can be when he wrote the lines reminding us that "the best is yet to be." The longer some people live the more their mind dwells upon the beauty and the wonder of the world.

This is especially true of a beloved character, Mrs. Anna Foster, whose eighty-sixth birthday anniversary last week was celebrated in the midst of friends and loved ones. She was completely encircled on this day with a golden chain of love, woven together by strong links created by the loving thoughts sent out day by day by this remarkable woman who finds life more beautiful with the passing years.

Mrs. Foster, who makes her home with her two daughters, Miss Sadie Foster and Mrs. C. W. Wallace in the Wallace home on Island drive, found her eighty-sixth birthday anniversary one of the happiest of all those that have gone before. Telegrams freighted with love came pouring in from friends. Others sent flowers and personal gifts and still others called in person to offer felicitations.

Mrs. J. L. Kennan's compliment was most expressive. She entertained at luncheon at the Virginia hotel, with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Higginson, Mrs. Pollard and Mrs. Chalfant returned to Lake Providence in the evening but left Mrs. Steffy for a longer visit.

Mrs. W. D. Brown, Jr., returned from Vicksburg Sunday, bringing her second son, Wyly Brown home with her. The child has been a patient in a Vicksburg hospital for several weeks.

Mrs. Sterling Morrill and two vivacious little daughters are in Baton Rouge for a visit with friends.

Franklin V. Boyd, Jr., has left for San Pedro, Calif., where he will rejoin the U. S. S. Minneapolis after his furlough here with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. V. Boyd.

Mrs. David Sellers and two young children have returned to Lake Providence after a visit of two weeks with relatives in New Orleans and along the gulf coast.

Mrs. R. S. Reed and children, Carolyn, Mary Lucille, Robert and Charles motored to Vicksburg, Miss., recently to visit with Mr. Reed, who is a patient in a hospital there as a result of an accident in which he broke his left leg. Friends are delighted to learn that Mr. Reed's condition shows a slight improvement daily.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Goodstein have had as guests recently their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. M. Hymen, and children of Pace, Miss., and Mrs. Mickey Dattel of Greenville, Miss.

Mrs. Foster, in black satin with corsage of English violets, seated at her right hand at the beautifully appointed table. A mound of fragrant spring flowers centered the board and was later replaced by the handsome four-tiered birthday cake, filled with golden colored meringue and covered with brandy that was lighted by the guest of honor and permitted to burn just long enough for the guests to offer their felicitations and well wishes. Individual birthday cakes, lighted in similar manner were placed at each cover.

Five courses, selected with discrimination by the hostess from among the favorite dishes of her guest of honor, were served. Coffee was served in Mrs. Kennan's attractive suite in the hotel, where a pleasant hour of reminiscing was enjoyed.

Celebrates Birthday

Swaying Japanese lanterns in Miss Gertrude Feazel's dance studio diffused a lovely glow when she assisted Bob Powell, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. Powell, in entertaining friends invited to share with him the pleasures of his fourteenth birthday anniversary.

The dancers, en masque, reminiscent of the carnival season, were provided with music by a "peppy" orchestra. One number in particular, the balloon dance, was most colorful, with myriad balloons of vivid hue drifting down among the dancers who numbered Betty Evans, Jean Weatherby, Margaret Warren, Helen Tippet, Jane Humphries, Beth Harper, Bineola, Margie Robbins, Nell Rainbolt, Evelyn Wade, Ruth Poinboeuf, Barbara Poe Younse, Artis Ponder, Jimmy Caldwell, Jimmy Russell, Robert Tait, Gene Eby, Jack Enrican, Carol Enrican, Murray Eby, Spencer Lee, George Parks, Bob Powell.

Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Humphries, Dr. and Mrs. E. Powell and Miss Gertrude Feazel.

Penner And Oakie Starred In 'Collegiate,' New Musical

Comedy Hit Showing At Paramount

Songs And Dancing With Engaging Plot, Feature Picture

SPARKLING with new songs from the facile pens of Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, with grand comedy furnished mainly by Joe Penner, Jack Oakie and Ned Sparks, and with something like 150 beautiful girls for background, Paramount's latest musical, "Collegiate," opened yesterday at the Paramount theater.

What little time you won't spend laughing during this elaborately-appointed film you'll find yourself listening to some of the most catchy tunes of the year or feasting your eyes on the beauties of ballet and chorus.

"Collegiate" is the first picture to give Frances Langford an important role though she has had singing parts in a couple of other films. She not only sings in her own lovely way, but she acts in this picture. Her principal number, "Will I Ever Know?" should become an immediate favorite.

Jack Oakie is cast as the ner-do-well nephew of a rich old lady who bequeaths him a girls' seminary at the outset of the story, with the proviso that he must stay away from the brimming flagon for a year.

Lynne Overman, Oakie's handyman, and Ned Sparks, his anti-publicity agent, join the playboy in his hitch-hiking journey to the school and on the road they encounter Joe Penner, who has a nice car, plenty of money, and a bad case of amnesia.

These four barge into the school, which turns out to be a hair-ribbon-and-bloomers institution, very dull and uninspired, where the zither is still the leading musical instrument, and the gawotte the favorite dance.

Here we find Miss Langford, wearing spectacles and generally unattractive, but singing a popular song amid all this Victorian atmosphere. Our quartet of Lotharios, after due deliberation, decide to take hold of the school and modernize it. In short, they decide to toss out everything that is old-fashioned and transform the place into a "charm school."

Miss Langford is in love with Oakie while Penner, in his campus rambles, comes across a lovely blonde, Betty Grable, a screen newcomer who possesses all the beauty that any one girl could desire.

The transformation of the seminary under Oakie's direction is remarkable. By accident and by mistake Penner determines that he really is a rich polo player and he is made professor of polo. Courses start in "fashionology," in swimming and diving, in make-up, in song-writing, and in other subjects designed to make the young women charming. Even Miss Langford gets into the spirit of things and switches from a prim little girl to a winsome attractive singer.

All this transpires with a background of catchy music and impressive dance ensembles. There can be no question that it is one of the most skillfully produced and directed musicals yet to come out of Hollywood, containing all the elements to bring success at the box office and satisfaction to the audience.

DAYLIGHT MOVIES FOR MOSCOW

Moscow, Russia, shortly will open a daylight motion picture theater in a public park. After several tests the invention for producing pictures in sunlight is declared a success. It involves the use of two mirrors, one of which serves as a screen. The projector is fixed above the screen, and a mirror placed a short distance in front of it reflects the picture on to the mirror-screen. The audience sees a clear picture on the screen, it is claimed, in the brightest of light.

A fruit native to British Honduras and Jamaica is known as "ugli," although it is really sweet. The fruit resembles a cross between a grapefruit and an orange.

Scenes From Film Attractions At Local Theaters This Week

Joe Penner, Jack Oakie and Frances Langford give each other a music lesson in the new college musical, "Collegiate," the attraction at the Paramount theater today and Monday. Hurrah for dear Old Siwash, whose colors are blonde and brunette! It's strictly a girl's college—but the boys run it and how they love their homework! Ned Sparks, Betty Grable and Lynne Overman are also in the big cast.

Katherine Hepburn, as a hungry girl masquerading as a boy, plays gallant to a coquettish housemaid in her new starring picture, "Sylvia Scarlett," the attraction at the Paramount theater Tuesday and Wednesday. The picture also features Cary Grant, Brian Aherne and Edmund Gwenn. The story was adapted from the successful novel, "The Early Life of Sylvia Scarlett," and deals with a reckless girl footloose on the trail of adventure.

Miriam Hopkins and Frances Dee in a scene from the personal story of a woman of the world, told against a background of stirring conflict, "Becky Sharp." It was filmed in all the wondrous beauty of the new technicolor and will be the attraction at the Paramount theater Thursday and Friday. Others in the notable cast include Cedric Hardwicke, G. P. Huntley, Jr., Billie Burke, Nigel Bruce, Alison Skipworth and Alan Mowbray.

Screen Life In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—Unforgettable moments from the year's pictures: "Lives of a Bengal Lancer"—Sir Guy Standing's never uttered appeal to Soldiers Gary Cooper and Franchot Tone for aid in dealing with his son, Richard Cromwell.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream"—The awakening of the forest to fairy and gnome life.

"David Copperfield"—Freddie Bartholomew's weary journey on foot from his mother's home to Aunt Betsy Trotwood's.

"Sequoia"—The re-union, after long separation in the wilds of the deer and his friend of infancy, the puma.

"Well-Placed Kick"—Eleanor Powell's imitation of Katherine Hepburn.

"Ruggles of Red Gap"—The well-placed kick administered by Charles Laughton to the Red Gap fop.

"The Informer"—Any and all of it.

"Mutiny on the Bounty"—The launching of the Bounty, its sails unfurling, the crowd singing, "Rule, Britannia!"

"The Scoundrel"—The return of Noel Coward bringing seaweed.

"Thanks a Million"—The triumphant procession of the motor cops at the end, swaying their vehicles to the tune of "Stars and Stripes Forever."

"Les Misérables"—Freddie March's calling "Javert! Javert! I know you're here!"

"I Dream Too Much"—Lily Pons' walking across a room in Henry Fonda's over-sized pajamas.

"Old Atrocities"—Shirley Temple's bite-for-bite exchange on President Lincoln's apple as she tells him about her father in prison.

"Barbary Coast"—The final scene of "Old Atrocities" (Walter Brennan) as he drops the sack of gold dust he "forgot."

"Naughty Marietta"—The Nelson Eddy-Jeanette MacDonald duet of "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life!"

"Ah, Wilderness"—Lionel Barrymore's session with his son, Eric Linden, concerning the "facts of life."

"The Crusades"—The head-on collision of the opposing forces, both mounted, on the battle-field.

"Becky Sharp"—The ballroom scenes, in color.

"Alice Adams"—Katherine Hepburn "waiting for someone, thank you" at the party—and that dinner party at Alice's home for Fred MacMurray.

That a thing of beauty is a joy forever on the screen is re-affirmed at the Capitol theater Tuesday and Wednesday where the return engagement of "Smilin' Through" will be played in response to an overwhelming demand on the part of the movie going public. This beautiful story, which has stirred the hearts of countless theatergoers, takes on a new glow under the witchery of Norma Shearer's acting. Fredric March and Leslie Howard support Miss Shearer.

To all those gay, reckless cavaliers of the Old South who so gloriously dared and died for the honor of their traditions and the integrity of their faith, "So Red the Rose," coming to the Capitol theater Thursday and Friday, is dedicated and is the first great war picture ever to do homage to the heroes of the southern states. The dramatization of Stark Young's romantic-spectacle features Margaret Sullivan, Randolph Scott, Walter Connolly, Elizabeth Patterson and Harry Ellerbe.

A spirited tale of pampas love has been vividly set to fetching music, rhythmic dance and exciting episode in "Hi Gaucho" playing at the Capitol theater today and Monday. John Carroll, promising newcomer to films, enacts with fervor the reckless young gaucho of the cattle empire who rides roughshod through family feud and class barriers to win the lovely daughter of a neighboring aristocrat. He sings in superb voice and gives romantic dash to the dramatic and spectacular action which invests the production. Tall, dark, lean Louisiana-French he is sure to be a candidate for feminine favor. Steffi Duna, is shown in inset. Rod LaRocque is also featured.

'Hi Gaucho' Is New Film At Capitol

Vivid Tale Of Love And Adventure In Argentina Picture's Theme

A VIVID TALE of reckless love on the Argentine pampas during one of the most fascinating periods in the history of the Americas is recorded in the swiftly paced screen musical romance "Hi Gaucho" now at the Capitol.

Set in the early nineteenth century, towards the end of the Spanish colonial period, the story projects as its hero the gaucho, dashing, untrammeled South American horseman, a traditional figure of romantic daring.

Spanish pioneers were then carving out, by right or might, the vast cattle domains of the Argentine plains. Fights were bitter and violent. Gaucho and bandit competed for supremacy with wit and weapon. Both mocked the edicts and conventions of King Ferdinand. Love and courtship were equally turbulent, finding expression in the impassioned tango, tantalizing music and fierce physical encounters between rivals.

The period, the folk and the customs, lend themselves admirably as a striking background for "Hi Gaucho." The pattern of the tenuous love elements as Lucio, a fiery young gaucho, and Inez, his alluring sweetheart conquer traditional family barriers, a bandit's intervention and other obstacles.

Making his debut at the gaucho is the adventurer-singer, John Carroll. Tall, dark, of French-Louisiana lineage, Carroll is admirably placed in the leading role. He rides as well as he sings and makes a gallant figure in the spectacular exploits which accompany the romantic interest of the story.

Opposite him in the role of the Castilian senorita who shatters convention to reciprocate his ardent courtship, is the volatile Hungarian actress, Steffi Duna. The part gives her full scope for her brilliant gifts both as a dancer and actress of wide European repute.

Rod LaRocque, popular leading man, has the part of the debonair but dangerous bandit chief who competes with Carroll for the romantic favors of Miss Duna. Others in the cast are Montagu Love, Ann Codee, Tom Ricketts, Paul Porcasi, Ferike Boros and Jack Rice.

Five striking songs, written by Albert Hay Malotte, have been skillfully woven into the tale accentuating its romantic and dramatic excitement. "Song of the Open Road" is sung by Carroll and his companion gauchos while they indulge in spectacular feats of horsemanship. "The Bandit Song" leaps from the throats of the equally hard-riding brigands during the course of their gleeful villainies. An Argentine folk song lends exhilaration to a gay fiesta and native dance. "Little White Rose" and a serene are magnificently sung by Carroll.

In the United States during 1934, injuries in the home caused approximately 34,000 fatalities, while automobile accidents took only 2,000 more than that number.

CAMPBELL VISITS 28 PARISHES IN DISTRICT

J. N. Campbell, candidate for public service commissioner, states that he has just completed his campaign in the 28 parishes comprising his district, has met more than 75,000 of the voters personally, and has endeavored to reach all others through the press. Mr. Campbell bases his claim for support on his 30 years constant experience in utility and commission matters, and the fact that he offers the peoples of north Louisiana an administration free from bias, prejudice or political influence, and that he has no political ambitions, except to give his home people the benefit of his experience and qualifications. He says he has never been on the payroll of the state. Mr. Campbell has announced that he will support all constructive legislation and believes that all obnoxious laws should be repealed.

CLOSE TO MIKADO IN TOKIO SETUP

knew. Aunt Ellen's heart went out to Dana. The years had changed Agatha in some respects, Aunt Ellen thought, but the indomitable will, the fighting fire were still there. "Sit down," Aunt Ellen urged. "Don't get so excited. Why should you worry just because she goes out to dinner with him?" "Why does she want to be going out with him? And why isn't he with Paula Long, who's been waiting for him ever since he finished high school? Paula's money would start him in his medical practice. What does he mean, dirt poor and just starting out, hanging around Dana who's poor as a church mouse, too?" Unanswerable logic. Ellen Carewe sat miserably, contemplating her sister's words. Why hadn't Scott (she thought of the name gently) done the sensible thing and turned to his wealthy Paula? If he could look into the past, he would know there was more than one reason why he wouldn't be welcome in this house. And then he probably would muddle things for Dana. Dana was beautiful and poised, well-fitted to rule graciously over a splendid home. "I'm growing mercenary, too," thought gentle Aunt Ellen unhappily. It was almost impossible to live in a house with her sister and not be infected by the possession-virus. Mrs. Cameron endured it as long as she could—seeing the shabby gray roadster parked in front of her home, replacing Ronnie's large and expensive one. The gray car was an affront. A defiance. A challenge. Mrs. Cameron accepted that challenge one afternoon. She "took the bull by the horns," (in her own language), and drove her shaft home so delicately, so diplomatically that Dana did not at first feel the full force of the blow. "A very nice young man," Mrs. Cameron said as Dana came into the house and Scott's car moved away. Dana's eyes brightened. "He is nice," she said. "It's a pity," Mrs. Cameron mused aloud, "that he hasn't a penny. Hasn't anything but plans and ambitions." Dana did not reply, meeting her grandmother's eyes steadily. "Sit down, please, Dana." The girl sat down. She was still sitting there when Nancy passed through the hall half an hour later, and for a long while afterward Nancy heard her grandmother's voice dropping away, muted to a strangely quiet, tolerant tone. "Don't drive or threaten Dana. I don't believe she would stand for it." It was one of the few times when Aunt Ellen had expressed herself definitively and with conviction. Neither did Mrs. Cameron believe Dana would be moved by threats. She planned to use them only as a last effort. Threats, if necessary, but persuasion first. It was not a pretty picture—the picture of poverty her grandmother drew for Dana. And there were elements of truth in the portrayal that startled even such a courageous girl. "I know you're not in love with Scott Stanley," Mrs. Cameron said vigorously. "You're too sensible. But there's danger in seeing too much of him." It was easy, she went on, to fall in love with an attractive man. If he were not eligible, the safest way was to stop seeing him. A poor man, marrying a girl without money, was as much to be pitied as a poor girl who was fool enough to marry a man who was not established. "Scott Stanley hasn't a chance to succeed as a doctor if he ties himself up with a wife who can't help him," Mrs. Cameron stated firmly. "But can't a girl help a man in some other way—if she hasn't money?" Dana ventured. She was feeling very sober, very unhappy. "Kind words never helped a poor doctor yet," Mrs. Cameron declared. "What that young man needs is a number of paying patients. If he married Paula Long, he could stop worrying." "Why?" asked Dana. It was the first time she had thought of Paula in a long time. She was remembering now that Ronnie had called Paula "Scott's girl" and she hadn't like the sound of it. "Paula is independent," Mrs. Cameron answered. "Besides, she has wealthy relatives who are clanish, like most of us in this city. Just seeing that all the babies in that family arrive in proper order and taking care of their bumps and bruises—not to mention the nervous breakdowns rich people can afford to have—would keep a young doctor in funds for the rest of his life." Dana protested, but there was little heart in her words. "Doctors are supposed to win their clientele, not inherit it." "Ha! Much you know about such things, my child. There's rarely such a thing as a triumph of sheer ability these days!" Nancy heard Dana go in her room a little later and shut the door. "Gran's made it unpleasant for her, seeing Scott so much," Nancy mused. "And that isn't all. She has some more tricks up her sleeve to use if necessary." Dana, Nancy was certain, had tumbled from her position on the lap of the gods. "If I'd ever come that close to landing Ronnie I wouldn't have made any mistakes," Nancy thought. Elsewhere Ronnie was receiving the silent congratulations of scores of others who were taking heart again, now that the young millionaire was once more heart-free. "Ronnie was a little too smart for Mrs. Cameron," they said. "Guess he saw which way the wind was blowing and got out before she had him tied up tight with a wedding rope." Mrs. Cameron, sitting on her porch the next afternoon, looked up and saw Scott's car stopping. Her brows drew together ominously. (To Be Continued)

CHAPTER XIV
Grandmother Cameron halted Dana. "Going out again?" she asked. "Yes, Grandmother. I'm going to have dinner out." Grandmother Cameron moved on up the stairs. "Have a good time," she said pleasantly. "I shall." Then she was gone. Upstairs Mrs. Cameron made her way to her sister's room. "What ever is the matter with that child?" she demanded. "Rushing down the stairs like a whirlwind! What's it all about?" She waited for confirmation of her own hopes. "In my day," Aunt Ellen said primly, "when girls got excited and lost their poise people said they were in love." "Humph! So you think Dana's in love?" "I didn't say that," Aunt Ellen demurred cautiously. "I haven't noticed anything strange about her. Dana seems self-possessed and sensible when you compare her with most of these flashy girls." "So she does. Just the same, she almost knocked me over. Running pell-mell, down the stairs, and fairly singing out that she was having dinner out. What's so exciting about that? Hasn't she been out to dinner several times a week almost ever since she came here? Not counting the times I didn't know about." It was the longest speech Grandmother Cameron had made in a long while. Aunt Ellen stared. "That sounds very much as though the child might be falling in love," Aunt Ellen conceded. "And why not? Why not? Isn't it natural she should? You couldn't find a nicer young man than Ronnie—not if you searched the world over." She walked to the window. The next minute she called sharply, "Ellen, come here!" Aunt Ellen answered the peremptory summons. "I haven't my glasses," Grandmother Cameron said. "But is that Ronnie's car down there?" "No," said her sister. "It doesn't look like it." "Speak your mind! You know very well it isn't. Well, whose car is it then?" There was a brief silence. Then her sister said, slowly, "The young man is a stranger to me." "But not to me," Mrs. Cameron said. "It's that young scamp, Scott Stanley. Think of his audacity in coming here! Furthermore, I've been hearing things about him. He's a regular rogue among women, stealing their hearts and making sure he keeps his own. I haven't had my ears open for nothing. Well, I'll soon break this up!" Her voice trembled with anger and disappointment. It was a mood that boded no good to anyone, her sister

TO THE VOTERS OF WARD THREE

A. Boatner Myatt is entitled to your vote and support for re-election as one of your Police Jurors for the following reasons:

- His education and experience qualified him to represent the biggest ward in the Parish on our Parish Governing Board.
- His record of service as your Police Juror since November 23, 1933, merits it.
- Having filled the unexpired term of the late George Breese efficiently, honestly and conscientiously he should be given the right to serve you again.
- As a member of all important committees of said board, among which is the all important taxation committee of which he is now chairman, he is in a position to "carry on" without interruption the program of roads, drainage, relief and taxation essential to the welfare of our ward.
- The present splendid financial position of your Police Jury as compared with other years is a summary of the hard work, conscientious effort, honesty of purpose, and efficient service put forth by the Ouachita Parish Police Jury.

On next Tuesday, January 21, go to the polls and vote for A. Boatner Myatt for re-election as one of your police jurors and for another candidate of your choice as a second member of the police jury from ward three.

SAFETY SHOW IS PLANNED IN CITY

Highway Accidents To Be Duplicated In Exhibition
Here Soon

The blast of a horn—the grind of brakes—the screech of rubber as it grips cement—and sudden death! This scene, all too common on highways and city streets today will be duplicated up to the very last part here next Saturday, January 25, it was announced Saturday by R. W. Fesmir, Montgomery Ward store manager, who told of a safety show the company is sponsoring in cooperation with Faulk Post No. 13 of American Legion, and which is free to the public. The show will be staged at 2:30 to 3:15 p.m. at 100 North Third street.

Gus Schrader and Lew Brown, famous racing drivers will give a demonstration on how to drive and how not to drive, showing the dangers of taking chances at the wheel. Jack Story, nationally known announcer will describe the show to onlookers over the amplifying system.

The Montgomery Ward safety show will provide thrills and instruction in good driving for the spectators. Each hair-breadth escape will teach a lesson. Each will be followed by a demonstration of the correct driving procedure which the situation calls for. The running account of the show which Story will relate over the loud speakers will be told as only Story can tell it—packed with drama, suspense and significant information.

Prominent among the stunts will be a dramatic demonstration of "tunnel vision" or the inability to see from the corners of the eyes, and a demonstration of the effects of glare at night. A prominent feature of the show will be the Aetna Reactometer, supplied by the Aetna Casualty and Surety company. This machine measures accurately the amount of time necessary for a driver to react to danger. All onlookers will be invited to test their own reaction times on this machine at the show and later at the Ward store.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD FOR TEACHER OF NORMAL COLLEGE

NATCHITOCHES, Jan. 18.—(Special)—Memorial services for Professor George Williamson, 78, member of the Louisiana State Normal college faculty for the last 38 years, who died at his home here January 10, were held at the college Friday. Classes were dismissed and both students and faculty members attended the services in the main auditorium.

Brief eulogies of Professor Williamson were delivered by Miss Dean Varnado, dean of women, and member of the history department at the college; Dr. J. E. Guardia, director of extension, and Professor R. L. Ropp, of the college English department.

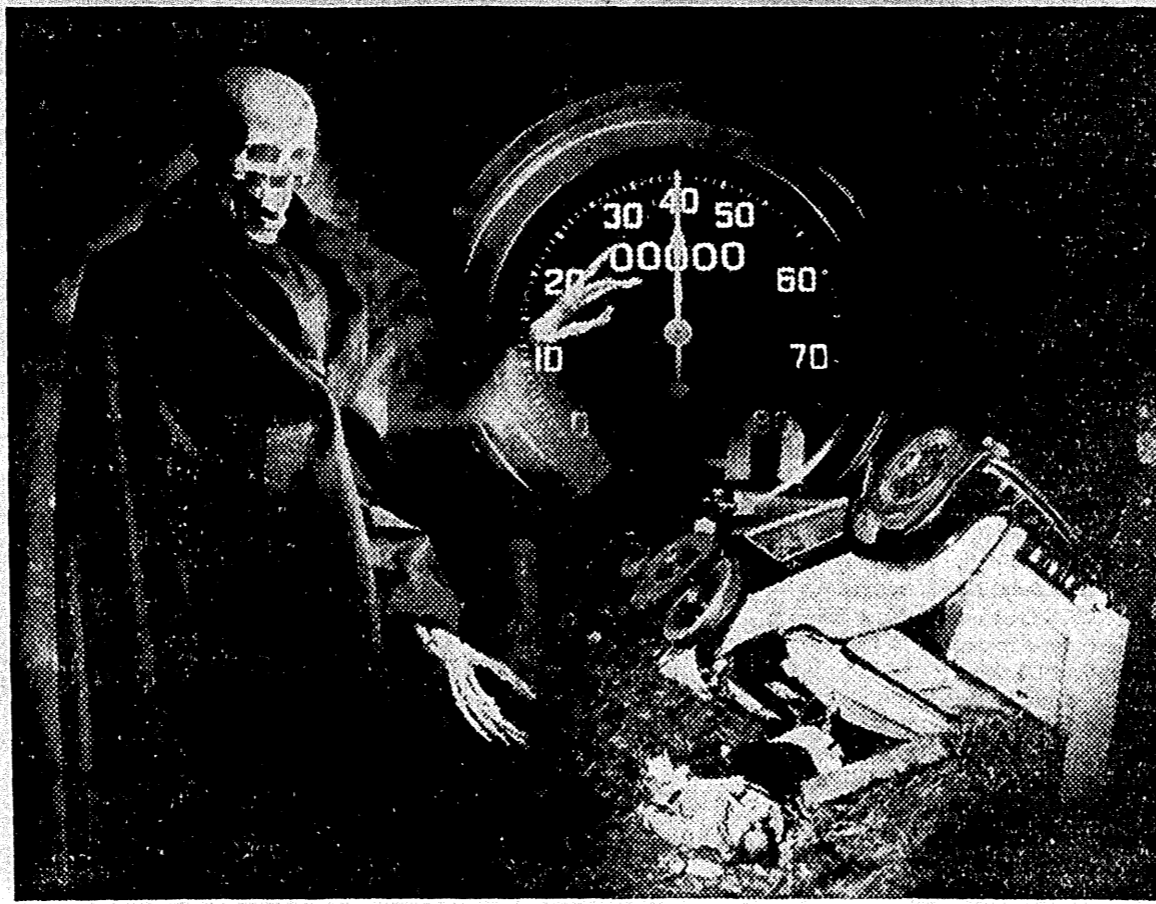

Professor H. J. Sudbury of the department of education gave a scriptural reading, and Professor A. C. Maddox, head of the department of mathematics, led the assembly in prayer. Musical numbers included piano solos, "Chopin's Funeral March" and "Going Home," by Professor Lorraine Brittain, head of the music department; and de Riego's "Thank God for a Garden," by Mrs. Lillian G. McCook of the college music faculty. Professor L. J. Alleman, head of the department of education, presided at the ceremonies.

The memorial committee appointed by President Albert A. Fredericks was composed of Professor L. J. Alleman, Dr. J. E. Guardia, Miss Martha Feltus, Miss Dean Varnado and Professor R. W. Winstead.

PASS SCOUT TESTS

JONESVILLE, La., Jan. 18.—(Special)—At a recent meeting of the local Boy Scouts held in the community hall, Hiram Wright, R. P. Boyd and Ralph Arnaud passed tenderfoot tests conducted by patrol leader Edwin Jones. Registration cards were presented to Edwin Jones, Hiram Wright, Ralph Arnaud, Charles Gibson and meter, supplied by the Aetna Casualty and Surety company. DEATH BEGINS AT FORTY!

(Copyright, Kaufman and Fabry, used by permission)

Admitting that high speeds are sometimes perfectly safe, most authorities agree that above 40 miles per hour risk increases tremendously and safety is bought only at the price of utmost vigilance. The Montgomery Ward Safety Show to be staged here Saturday, January 25 will forcefully show how speed and driving mistakes take the lives of thousands of human beings every year. Thrilling driving demonstrations will be provided by Gus Schrader and Lew Brown, famous dirt track drivers, and the exhibit will be dramatized by the nationally known narrator, Jack Story. It takes place at 100 N. 3rd St. at 2:30 p.m. and is free to the public.

HORNS OF DEER LOCKED IN COMBAT; ONE FOUND DEAD, VICTOR IS SHOT

JONESVILLE, La., Jan. 18.—(Special)—Returning to his home here this week-end after a hunting trip in a swamp near here, Lovelace Fairbanks related and showed evidence of a story of two deer engaging in a mortal combat, their horns becoming locked, one of them dying in the combat and the victor being shot by Fairbanks.

The local hunter came upon the deer after a pack of deer hounds picked up a "cold" trail, followed it a short distance and began baying. Fairbanks found, upon reaching the deer, that the larger animal had killed the smaller, but that the victor was unable to release its horns from those of the other animal.

After slaying the larger deer, Fairbanks attempted to "unlock" the horns of the pair, but was unable to do so. He returned to the hunting camp and obtained the help of two other hunters. The three men worked at the horns for two hours before separating the bodies of the deer.

The horns of the larger deer had 19 points, one of which grew outward from the forehead, and it was this prong which caused the death of the other deer by penetrating the animal's forehead.

Horns of the smaller deer had 12 points. This deer weighed 200 pounds. The other weighed 220 pounds.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED BY MISSIONARY UNION

JONESVILLE, La., Jan. 18.—(Special)—Officers of the Women's Missionary union of the Ouachita Baptist association were elected to serve during 1936 at a meeting Friday at Tullos.

Miss Hannah Reynolds, corresponding secretary of the Louisiana Baptist Women's Missionary union, installed the new officers, who are: Superintendent, Mrs. E. M. Daffin, Olla; assistant superintendent, Mrs. Myrtle Tomlinson, Jena; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Yeager Trout; young people's leader, Mrs. Shirley Briggs, Jonesville; missionary study director, Mrs. G. H. Middleton, Urania; personal service director, Mrs. T. B. Perkins, Goodpine; stewardship director, Mrs. R. E. Blake, Olla; white cross director, Mrs. Edith Welch, Jena; Margaret fund, Mrs. Ernest Gunn, Urania; children's home, Mrs. T. Waddell. The principal address of the meeting was delivered by Rev. B. A. Mile, pastor of the Harrisonburg Baptist church.

F. J. LOONEY, JR., SPEAKS

Frank J. Looney, Jr., made an impressive radio speech Friday night in the interest of his father, Frank J. Looney, prominent lawyer of Shreveport, who is a candidate for the office of United States senator to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Long. Mr. Looney is the candidate supported by the Home Rule organization.

COTTON FARMERS ADOPT RESOLUTION AT HOMER

HOMER, La., Jan. 18.—(Special)—Over 200 cotton farmers, at a meeting here, lauded the agricultural adjustment administration act which the supreme court recently ruled unconstitutional, and adopted a resolution urging all cotton producers to cooperate in a movement "to bring about through assistance of the president and congressmen such legislation as will bring to each of us and the country as a whole a sound and constructive agricultural program."

Copies of the resolution were sent to President Roosevelt, Henry A. Wallace, secretary of the department of agriculture, and other officials.

DUDLEY D. LANG

DESERVES TO BE ELECTED

Public Service
Commissioner

During the entire four years that Dudley Lang has been member of the Louisiana Legislature he has not received one thin dime, directly or indirectly from any State agency or institution, except his daily pay while attending regular or special sessions of the legislature. He has at all times remained true to his trust and fought for the best interest of the people.

His fight for old age pensions, homestead exemption and the protection of the school funds and against all dictator laws has been outstanding. Both friends and foes respect Dudley Lang for his unquestioned sincerity of purpose. Everybody knows that he has stood up four square under the most terrific political pressure.

When he is elected Public Service Commissioner, the interest of all the people is assured of honest protection.

RABBI HIRSCH TO HEAD CIVIC GROUP

Elected President Of Council Of Social Agencies; Other Officers Named

Rabbi F. K. Hirsch was elected president of the Council of Social Agencies at the meeting held Friday noon at the First Presbyterian church. Other officers elected were S. H. McClary, vice-president, and Mrs. W. C. Holstein, secretary.

The nominating committee, of which Miss Elizabeth Langford was chairman, presented the names of proposed new officers and these were elected unanimously by the assembly.

This group, only several years old, has been highly successful in several important projects. One of these was that of the operation of the toy shop for underprivileged children.

A report of the activities of this project was submitted. The report cited that there were 83 tables, 140 small stools, 100 rag dolls, 100 bisque dolls refinished and 200 new toys and dolls received from the American Legion post. Mrs. W. P. McCall had entire charge of the requisitions of which 456 were filled and 291 unclaimed, indicating that there were many who were able to supply their children with gifts from their own finances.

Contributions were received by William Badgett, and Clyde Culber acted as office assistant. Mrs. F. B. Neely supervised the workroom in which she was aided by Mrs. Lois White, Mrs. E. C. Tew, Miss Mamie Skipper, Miss Helleen Hall and Mrs. W. P. McCall.

Miss May Davis was in charge of bisque doll repair work, assisted by Miss Jimmie Walters and L. H. Patrick. Painting was done by James Wilson with E. C. Tew and Dennis La Brou as his assistants.

Carpenter work was in charge of William Badgett and he had for assistants James Welch, C. Sanford,

HONEYMOON HALTED BY G-MEN

The honeymoon of Dan Berry and his bride of Seattle, Wash., was brought to a rude end at Denver, Colo., when G-men arrested him on a charge of automobile theft. Berry, former Kansas City college student, claimed he is the son of wealthy St. Louis parents and officers said he admitted he is an escaped convict from a Mississippi prison. Thomas Hutchins, John Nichols and John Hobbs.

The general supervision of the shop was in charge of Miss Lucyle Godwin.

The report gave sincere thanks to the Junior Charity league for their part in the making of a success of the toy shop. Also S. J. Rivoire and Murray Hudson were given recognition for the use of buildings owned by them. The shop closed on December 23 when 2,000 toys were in readiness for distribution.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY MACCABEE HIVE FOR ENSUING YEAR

Officers for the coming year were elected the past week by Fidelity hive No. 221, the Maccabees, as follows: Lillian Kenney, past commander; Myrtle Deen, commander; Elizabeth Cunliff, lieutenant commander; Cora Logan, record keeper; Ora Mae Tholborn, chaplain; Ethel Wetzel, sergeant; Deborah Grace Williams, mistress-at-arms; Lurline Kelly, first guard; Katie Glenn, second guard; Thelma Burns, sentinel; Melba Risher, picket; Dorothy Gibbs, captain of guard team; Louise Harberson, and Theresa Turk, pianists.

The new officers will be installed on February 12 together with the officers of Ouachita tent No. 54 by M. J. Bulger, state manager, and assisted by the guard team of Fidelity hive led by Louise Harberson. After the installation exercises, a supper will be served.

During the past year, the membership of the hive has grown by leaps and bounds. One of the worthwhile acts of the past year was the benefit dance which was held during December and the money this realized was used for the Good Fellows' fund for underprivileged children at Christmas.

THOMPSON TO ASSUME NEW CHURCH DUTIES

O. J. Thompson, of Shreveport, has just removed to West Monroe, and will today assume his duties as educational director of the First Baptist church there, and as general assistant to the pastor, Rev. E. E. Huntberry, in his outside field work.

Mr. Thompson is not a stranger in West Monroe, as he has visited there a number of times and four years ago conducted music for a revival meeting at the West Monroe First Baptist church.

He graduated from the Baptist Bible institute in 1928 and studied voice under Oscar Saenger and Arthur Phillips in New York. He also taught voice in Evangel university in Jersey City and was for four years director of music at Calvary Baptist church in New York city.

Later he went to Jackson, Miss., where he did educational work and evangelistic singing. In 1932, he went to Shreveport to become associated with Dr. C. W. Culp, pastor of the Queensboro Baptist church, as musical director. He remained there until a few months ago, when he accepted similar work with the Ingle-side Baptist church, also of Shreveport.

WPA BUSINESS CENSUS WILL BE STARTED HERE

The school of instruction that has been in progress the past week on the third floor of the new postoffice building for the benefit of those who are to make the enumeration in the business census that will be taken at once as a WPA project, has been concluded. C. E. Maroney, director for the fifth congressional district, stated Saturday that the canvass of all business houses will be instituted tomorrow.

About 25 persons will be engaged in this work in the entire district. Mr. Maroney stated, and he predicted that it will require about three months to complete.

The census is being taken according to instructions from Harry F. Tyler, area supervisor, and the business firms of the city are asked to give cooperation to those who are making the canvass.

Information will be regarded as perfectly confidential and when completed will be submitted to the department of commerce in Washington, D. C.

MONROE KIWANISANS TO OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

The 21st anniversary of the founding of Kiwanis International will be observed by the Monroe Kiwanis club next Wednesday at the regular meeting in Hotel Virginia.

The first Kiwanis club was organized in 1915 at Detroit, and on January 21 held its first meeting.

Dr. J. E. Walsworth of the committee on Kiwanis education will be in charge of the program.

"At the anniversary week meeting there will be a special program for the occasion," said President Bernard Biedenharn. "Harper Garton, of Madisonville, Ky., president of Kiwanis International, will send a special message which the club is to read at its meeting."

Kiwanians here will join with the members of the nearly 1,900 other clubs in the United States and Canada in observing this event. The program will place emphasis on the valuable civic betterment and welfare work the service organization has been doing for many years on international good will and citizenship.

There will be a special musical program during the meeting.

A FRANK STATEMENT FROM THE MAYOR TO THE PEOPLE OF MONROE

For the past 17 years I have filled the office of Mayor of the City of Monroe. I come before you again asking for a continuance of your confidence in me by giving me a new opportunity to serve you as your Mayor.

My appeal rests entirely on my RECORD OF SERVICE. My pledge is that I will rest to you the same devoted service I have always given to the city I love. My record is written in the accomplishments and the progress of this city during the years I have held public office. It is a record that SPEAKS FOR ITSELF and which EVERYONE IN THIS COMMUNITY CAN READ. It is one that relies on ACTUAL PERFORMANCE, and not mere promises.

The experiences of the past few years have been those to try men's souls, individuals as well as communities. Monroe has come through that test with a CLEAR RECORD. This city, in common with all the cities of the country, has had its difficulties due to economic depression, but this city stands out today as one of the few whose financial condition is thoroughly sound.

We do not owe one cent to the banks of Monroe, the fiscal agents that loan the city funds at various times in the year pending receipt of taxes, water and light revenues and other earnings from public utilities. Our other obligations have been met with all the promptness that has been possible, in spite of the difficulties that have been encountered through extension of time in payment of taxes, extensions for which the city of Monroe has not been responsible.

EVERY CITY EMPLOYEE and EVERY TEACHER in Monroe's great school system has been paid EVERY DOLLAR due him or her. That is a record to be proud of, when it is realized that school teachers throughout this and other states have had to be paid in scrip or whose salaries have been indefinitely deferred because of the financial depression.

The school system of Monroe as we know it today, is one of the great accomplishments of the city administration of the past 17 years. When I first assumed office, we had one public school. Today we have five grammar schools, every one of them entirely modern and fully equipped, in addition to one of the finest high schools in the South. The school system has been developed in accordance with the growth and expansion of the city.

Our other facilities have kept pace with our school system. Our great power and light plant, our sanitary system, our police and fire departments, brought to a state of efficiency acknowledged throughout the state as unexcelled by none in even larger communities, testify to the efficiency of the service rendered under the direction of your Mayor in the past 17 years.

All of the activities of a city should be in the interest of all its people. I know, and you know, how your Mayor has met this test. Things look very easy from the outside and promises fall very smoothly from the lips, but it is ACTIONS from the inside that REALLY COUNT. After you are over fifty years of age, if you have never done anything for your city, LIP SERVICE MEANS VERY LITTLE. The people themselves know how to discount that sort of service.

Our people know that I HAVE SPENT MILLIONS OF DOLLARS of your money and NONE OF IT HAS EVER STUCK TO MY HANDS. You have received a dollar's worth of value for every dollar spent of the taxpayers' money. And every dollar has been spent with a regard for economy that is essential to good business administration.

The best evidence of this is in the records that are on file in the City Hall and available to every taxpayer to examine for himself. Our city is recognized as one of the best governed, and its affairs most ably administered, of any community of its size in the state or in the United States. All of you, without personal or selfish interests, will agree with me in this statement of facts.

I have an ambition, as I always have had, to CONTINUE to BUILD BIGGER and BETTER the city I love, your home and my home. I would like the privilege of serving you as your Mayor longer than any other man has served in a similar office in this state. That would be a high honor, a just reward for honesty and decency in public office, but more than that, I would accept it as a CONTINUED OPPORTUNITY to devote myself to the HIGHEST INTERESTS OF THE PEOPLE of this city.

You, my friends, know that the Mayor has a lot of hard work to do in his office every day, just as you have in whatever job you are filling, either in stores, factories or offices. You and I feel we are obligated to give honest service for what we are paid to do. If I am rendering you faithful service by keeping on the job in my office, you know it is not possible to see you in person as I would like to do, and as I could do when Monroe was a smaller community.

I want you to know how much I am interested in every citizen of Monroe and how much I want to serve you in every way that is possible. Many of you come to my office during the year, and I endeavor to render such help to you and your children as lies in my power. I hope you know that I want your support in the coming election, but above all I want your respect and esteem and love, such as I have for each one of you.

My interest is in you and for you, and my pledge to you is that I will continue to do the best that lies within me—the best that my long experience in the service of Monroe has taught me—to manage the affairs of your city in the way that will bring the HIGHEST MEASURE OF PROGRESS AND HAPPINESS TO OUR PEOPLE. When I find that I am unable to do that, I will resign and ask you to elect some young man who has shown by his record, and not just by his words, that he is honest and capable and willing to give to the city of Monroe the service it is entitled to.

For your information, may I say that I have not been away from my office as much as a month in the last four years.

I thank you again for all the assurances of confidence and trust you have given me in the past, and I ask that you accord me that same expression in the election of January 21st next.

TO THE VOTERS OF WARDS 3 AND 10

Having served you well and faithfully for seven years as Judge of your City Court, I now ask for re-election in consideration of a duty performed to the best of my ability. Both of my opponents have many times publicly admitted that I have made you a good and impartial judge. SO WHY CHANGE? WHY SWAP A SURE THING FOR AN EXPERIMENT?

Of the many thousands of decisions rendered by me as your judge in seven years only a scant few have been appealed from; and of those appealed, only two decisions have been reversed, indicating fairness of decision and proper understanding of the law. In addition to doing my duty as your judge I have done everything I could to help Monroe and vicinity in a civic way.

One of my opponents promises you, if elected, to ENFORCE the traffic laws. This gentleman being a lawyer ought to know that your City Judge is NOT AN ENFORCEMENT OFFICER and has no supervision over the enforcement officers except in the matter of arrests made by them on WARRANTS OF ARREST sworn out on proper affidavits. A Judge could not, for obvious reasons, be fair and impartial should he usurp the functions of an arresting officer. How would you like for an arresting officer to sit as Judge in the trial of a charge against you? I have always fined those convicted of reckless driving and everyone knows how severe I have been on drunken drivers. Many will also remember the traffic school I conducted for several months and the many safe-driving talks I have delivered in the city as well as articles written by me on safe-driving in the daily press.

With reference to one of my opponent's appeal to help youth by no other means than electing him to the office which he publicly admits I have held faithfully and efficiently, let me say this: That for 10 years I have been very active in aiding youth, having devoted the best part of my leisure hours in that time in helping boys and young men; and in recognition of my service to youth I have for four successive years past been re-elected, without opposition, as President of Ouachita Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, serving the youth of 15 northeast Louisiana parishes; and in a certain other prominent civic organization, I have been twice honored as Chairman of its Boys' Work Committee, and am at present engaged with other prominent men of the community in a comprehensive program of youth service that will aid the youth of our city and section materially. Is it not ironical, therefore, my friends, that after having done all this for youth AND STILL BEING ACTIVELY ENGAGED IN THE WORK, THAT A YOUTH SHOULD CALL UPON YOU TO RETIRE ME FROM THE POSITION THAT HAS MADE IT POSSIBLE FOR ME TO PERFORM THIS SERVICE TO YOUTH, giving as no stronger reason for so doing than that he simply wants my office?

My present age is 42, and I was 35 years old when I became City Judge and had a background of 25 years experience with the problems of life.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the good people of Wards 3 and 10 for the confidence placed in me and to assure them that upon my return to office, my service to them will be, because of my past experience, even better than heretofore.

I shall dwell more at length concerning these matters over radio station KMLB at 10:45 P. M. Monday and I cordially invite you to hear me.

Thanking you for your vote and support

W. M. HARPER,

Judge of City Court of Monroe, Wards 3 and 10,
and candidate for reelection
